HOW U.S. LED UP TO OFFENSIVE IN ALEUTIANS

Secret Plans Told by Tribune Man.

[The Tribune's correspondent, Warren Baker, has just returned to Chicago from an extensive tour of Alaska and the Canadian northwest. This is the first of a series of articles describing his observations. It has been passed by military censors.]

BY WARREN BAKER.

Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner.

Opening of the northern drive against Japan with the battle for Attu in the Aleutians has served to lift to some degree the pall of secrecy and silence that settled down over Alaska even before Pearl Harbor.

Debatable as the policy of rigid censorship of civilian mail and suppression of almost all news from the northwest may be, Lt. Gen. Simon Bolivar Buckner Jr. now can point with a good deal of satisfaction to at least three carefully guarded moves that led up to his spring push, now under way.

Secret Bases on Umnak.

Buckner's first efforts to change the "defense" in his Alaska defense command to "offense" came in May, 1942, when, with his navy collaborators, he threw men and material on the island of Umnak just west of Dutch Harbor and set up secret bases there.

To keep the whole thing as quiet as possible, army heads referred to the project as the "Blair Packing company." Officers inclined to talk too much were muzzled or transferred.

The ships that brought in the supplies were unloaded, then sent on wandering cruises in Alaskan waters so their officers and men couldn't get too talkative in coast saloons. As the Blair Packing company, the thing was just another cannery opening up for the salmon packing season.

Japs Fooled at Dutch Harbor.

That the Japs were completely fooled was proved at the Dutch Harbor battle. The Japs sent a complete invasion fleet in an effort to put over a left jab at Dutch Harbor at the same time they delivered a right cross at Midway.

When the Jap planes came roaring over Dutch Harbor on June 3, 1942, they found themselves attacked suddenly by fighter planes behind them, a thousand miles from where any land based planes were supposed to be, according to their intelligence.

That small error in their calculations was credited with saving Dutch Harbor and, together with the smashing American victory at Midway, with changing the course of the whole war in the North Pacific thereafter.

Advanced Bomber Base.

In August Gen. Buckner sent Col. Lawrence Castner with a detachment of combat intelligence scouts and Commandos thru the Bering sea storms to the desolate island of Adak in the Andreanofs, only 200 miles from Kiska, chief Jap held base in the Aleutians.

They set up preliminary camps and managed, partly as the result of terrible flying weather, to keep the project from Jap reconnaissance patrols until troops and air forces could take over and build what eventually was known as the "advanced bomber base" and Gen. Buckner's own headquarters.

By the time the Japs found out about that, they were getting plenty of bombs down the backs of their necks and were finding it increasingly difficult to keep their Kiska runways from being smashed and their supplies from being cut off entirely.

Adak, in its turn, was the spring-

Chief of Jap Fleet Killed Fighting U.S.

New York, May 21 [Friday]—(AP).—The office of war information reported today that the Tokio radio had announced the death of Adm. Isoroku Yamamoto, commander in chief of the combined Japanese fleet, "during his direction of operations" aboard a warplane in April. He was killed in action, the broadcast said.

The OWI said the announcement was from Japanese imperial headquarters in a communique broadcast domestically by the Tokio radio and recorded by the federal communications commission.

Koka Named Successor.

The broadcast added that Adm. Mineichi Koga had been named Yamamoto's successor and "already was in command." Koga formerly was commander of the Japanese fleet in Chinese waters.

Yamamoto, who had boasted that he would dictate terms to the United States in the White House, had been commander in chief of the combined fleet since Aug. 30, 1939. He previously had served as vice minister of naval affairs and as chief of general staff for the naval air force.

FCC monitors who heard the Tokio broadcast said the announcer appeared overcome with the import of the news and that his voice was choked with emotion as he finished reading the communique reporting Yamamoto's death.

Text of Announcement.

The text of the announcement as recorded by the FCC:

"An imperial headquarters communique issued on May 21 at 3 p. m. [Japan time]—Adm. Isoroku Yamamoto, commander in chief of the combined fleet, while directing general strategy on the front line in April of this year, engaged in combat with the enemy and met a gallant death on a warplane.

"As successor, Adm. Mineichi Koga has been appointed and is already taking command as commander of the combined fleet."

Koga was last reported serving as commander of the Yokosuka naval base, a post to which he was appointed in November, 1942. He formerly was commander in chief of the Japanese fleet in Chinese waters and was advanced to the rank of full admiral in May, 1942.

GAS TANK QUIZ PROMISED IN AIR DISASTER

Bomber Crash Kills 12 on Board.

Deaths of all 12 members of the crew of a Consolidated Liberator [army B-24] bomber that crashed into a giant gas storage tank while approaching Chicago airport yesterday in bad weather led to announcement last night that a council committee would hear evidence to determine whether the tank should be relocated to remove it as a hazard to air traffic.

Ald. John J. Grealis [44th], chairman of the council committee on aviation and recreation, said he would call sessions of the committee and invite witnesses to give expert testimony next week.

Meanwhile, Coroner Brodie announced that an inquest would be opened at 10 a. m. today at 7838 Cottage Grove avenue.

Ten Dead Identified.

The Fort Worth Texas, army field identified the nine crew members and one of the three passengers killed as:

Capt. James R. Gilcrease of Houston, commanding officer of the 1014th squadron and a flight instructor, in charge of the flight.

Second Lt. David S. Alter, an instructor from Pittsburgh, Pa.

First Lt. Harry B. Messick Jr., of Indianapolis, Ind., navigator.

Second Lt. Frederick L. Dutt of Wadsworth, O., student officer.

Second Lt. John C. Wallace of Luling, Tex., student officer.

Pvt. Nick Lonchar of Wierton, W. Va., aerial engineer.

Sergt. Arthur A. Huber of Queens, N. Y., aerial engineer.

Staff Sergt. Norman W. Yutzy, Canton, O., aerial engineer.

Technical Sergt. Ben F. Zumwalt of Ingram, Tex., aerial engineer.

The identified passenger was Capt. A. W. Lent of Hamilton field, California.

Names of the two other passengers will be announced when their next of kin have been notified. The flight originated at Fort Worth.

World's Biggest Tank of Kind.

The tank, nearly 500 feet tall and largest of its type in the world, was owned by the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company. It stood at 3625 West 73d street, about two miles southeast of the Chicago airport. Erected in 1928, its cost was about $2,000,000, according to the company.

A few minutes before noon yesterday, in poor weather for flying, the big bomber, with the pilot groping his course thru a steady rain, rammed into the north side of the huge steel cylinder.

Approaching Chicago from the southwest, the bomber circled the airport to the north and east and was headed south when it flew into the tank. There was an instantaneous explosion of terrific violence and flames shot high from the top of the circular steel structure.

Steel Blown 100 Yards.

A hole about 125 feet from the bottom of the gigantic tank was torn by the plane, the front parts of which apparently penetrated and fell inside. The force of the blast of the ignited gas was so great that huge pieces of steel plating, some the size of a two story house front, were blown for 100 yards.

Parts of the airplane and its four motors were strewn for hundreds of yards in the vicinity.

Heat generated by the explosion was felt more than a mile to the west, where guards at the Dodge Chicago plant under construction for war production said the temperature in their shanty rose above 8 degrees.

Nine company employés were on the grounds at the time of the crash, but none was hurt. One, James Brown, a special company policeman, was outside the building—the other men were inside—and saw the plane strike. He said:

"The bomber came in very low and, I think, struck and tore down some wires on poles before hitting the tank. It disappeared in a flash of fire."

Grocers Call Ceiling Strike; Strip Canned Goods Shelves

BY MAXWELL MURPHY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Milwaukee, Wis., May 20.—Hundreds of independent retail grocers are withdrawing canned fruit and vegetables from their shelves in a strike against new ceiling prices set Monday by the office of price administration, Milton C. Perschbacher, secretary of the Milwaukee Retail Grocers' association, said today.

Meanwhile, many wholesale firms are refusing to fill further orders from grocers under the ceilings, claiming that they cannot do so without taking a loss, Joe Steiner, president of the Wisconsin Wholesale Food Distributors association, said. He added:

"The new ceilings reduced wholesalers' previous markups by an average of about 5 per cent. It is impossible for some firms to do business at the reduced margin. They paid too much for what they have on hand."

Holds Dealers Face Loss.

Perschbacher said that when OPA rolled back canned fruit and vegetable prices, grocers were faced with selling their stock on hand at a loss or for no profit or with refusing to sell at all. He continued:

"There are a number of items for which grocers paid more at wholesale than they are permitted this week to sell at retail. If the grocers did take the loss on stock on hand they would not be allowed a sufficient markup on rolled back wholesale prices to take a retail profit and meet operating expenses. The retail markup on canned fruits and juices has been reduced 1 to 3 per cent under the new order, and the markup on canned vegetables and juices was cut 4 to 8 per cent."

An appeal was issued today to grocers by Don T. Allen, district OPA director, to take their loss on their inventories as quickly as possible. He asserted that markups allowed on newly purchased stocks would give the retailers a fair profit, adding:

"The same thing has happened as if the market had dropped. That has happened dozens of times, and grocers have had to sell at a loss or no profit. If I were a grocer and had 500 cans of peas on hand for which I had paid 14 cents and had to sell them at 14 cents, I would get rid of them as fast as possible."

Allen said he felt the new ceilings were fair when applied to foods purchased under the new wholesale ceilings.

[OPA "inadequacy" is assailed at grocer-army conference. Brown admits grocer markups are below prewar levels. Stories on page 6.]

Order Held 'Swindle'

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—Sen. Henrik Shipstead [R., Minn.] said today in the senate that the "OPA 'rollback' swindle not only jumps Washington [D. C.] prices by 20 per cent over the former retail price level, but it climbs Mount Ararat with meat prices one-half again higher" than in Canadian cities.

Shipstead said the office of price administration set new price schedules on May 13 which were from 30 to 90 per cent higher than prices charged the same day in Montreal, Ottawa, and Toronto.

R. A. F. ATTACKS EUROPE TARGETS 9TH NIGHT IN ROW

LONDON, May 21 [Friday]—(AP).—R. A. F. fighters carried out intruder patrols over France last night, it was disclosed today, thus continuing British offensive operations over the continent thru the ninth successive night.

Slight enemy activity was reported just before midnight over coastal districts in southeast England, but no bombers were dropped. London also had another air raid alarm—its fifth in as many nights— tho no planes were heard over the capital and anti-aircraft batteries remained silent.

Berlin underwent its fourth attack in a week Wednesday night as the R. A. F. struck at the German capital on the heels of American daylight raids on Kiel and Flensburg.

1,300 STREET CAR TRACK WORKERS GET RAISE OFFER

Thirteen hundred members of the CIO Transport Workers' union, who are employed by the Chicago Surface lines in the repair and maintenance of street car tracks, were offered a wage increase yesterday, according to Matt Kearns, vice president, and organizer of the union. A wage committee of the union agreed to the offer last night and a mass meeting of members will be held next Thursday night to get their approval of the offer, Kearns said.

All workers who are making less than 90 cents an hour have been offered a 9 cent an hour increase, and those who make more than 90 cents are offered a 10.6 cent hourly increase. The pay offer is retroactive to June 1, 1942, when the old contract expired.

28,000 Idle; Union Blames Delay by WLB

Detroit, Mich., May 20 [Special].—A wave of strikes by CIO members tonight had closed seven Detroit war plants and made 28,000 employés idle in one of the city's most extensive work stoppages since the war began.

As the walkouts spread during the day from one plant to another, with four Chrysler factories among those paralyzed, fears were expressed that all Chrysler workers in the country might become affected if the trouble was of long duration.

The strikes, which employer spokesmen called "sabotage," affected Chrysler's production of medium bomber planes, anti-aircraft guns, tank engines, and other war material.

War Labor Board Blamed.

Most of the blame for the uprising was laid at the door of the war labor board for its delays in reporting on grievance petitions.

[Strikes in Pennsylvania coal fields spread to 14 mines. Story on page 6.]

The strikes began about 10 a. m. when approximately 4,000 members of the CIO's United Automobile Workers walked out of Chrysler's Jefferson avenue plant. About 4,500 workers there later failed to report.

Similar walkouts took place at the Dodge main plant, affecting 12,000 workers, and the Dodge Lynch road plant, where 550 were employed. Lack of materials caused the closing of the Dodge truck plant, making 4,000 more idle altho no strike was called there.

About the same time CIO-UMW workers were walking out of two plants of the Kelsey-Hayes Wheel company, which swelled the strikers' ranks by 3,600, and 300 more left the Ray-Day Piston company factory, all of which are engaged in war work.

The Kelsey Hayes workers voted tonight to go back to work tomorrow.

Chrysler Wages Not Issue.

Leaders of the Kelsey-Hayes strikers said they were angry at the WLB for its delay of several months in acting on the union's petition for a wage increase of 4 cents an hour and several other grievances.

The Chrysler workers also are "fed up," they said, with waiting for a WLB panel to report on 99 changes they seek in a new contract to replace one which expired last November, and to iron out a number of grievances they allege have arisen under the continued operation of the old contract. Wages are not an issue.

"Union Virtually Unrecognized."

"While the union awaited a WLB decision on a new contract, the company is engaging in the most inflammatory and provocative practices to agitate labor trouble," charged Ed Carey, president of the UAW local at Chrysler's Jefferson avenue plant. "Collective bargaining has completely broken down and the union virtually has been unrecognized since the contract expired last November."

In Washington, D. C., R. J. Thomas, president of the UAW-CIO, said that altho the strikes were not authorized by the international union —"which cannot authorize strikes" because of its no strike pledge—he believes the managements are responsible for the unrest leading to the walkouts and that slowness of the WLB machinery "is a serious contributory factor."

FEDERAL PLANS UPSET; CAPITAL SEES SHORTAGE

Predict Huge Food Imports Needed.

No Rain and Warmer!

Chicago's near record rainy spell is about over, Forecaster H. A. Downs of the weather bureau predicted last night. He said there would be no rain today, and promised that it would be warmer.

Yesterday, when .63 of an inch of rain fell up to 7:30 p. m., was the sixth consecutive rainy day in Chicago and the 17th May day in which rain has fallen. Total precipitation for the month has been 5.67 inches, or 3.51 inches above normal for the period.

Details of mounting flood damage thru the middle west are on Page 13.

BY GAIL COMPTON.

Flood waters and millions of acres of sodden fields were viewed anxiously yesterday by midwest farmers, who saw the disastrous weather conditions as the last straw in a series of penalties against them in the last 10 years.

In Chicago leaders of food processing industries spoke frankly of the imminent danger of a food shortage in the greatest food producing country in the world. In Washington, members of congress put the blame on government mishandling of the problem—robbing the farms of their labor supply, overbuying for the army, navy, and lend-lease, and the series of shackles on production which began with the slaughter of pigs and the plowing under of crops.

[British at food conference support a world-wide ever normal granary for post-war times. Story on page 6.]

Recalls Dire Prophecy.

A prophecy made by Thomas Jefferson was recalled by Philip R. O'Brien, president of the Chicago Board of Trade, who said it might soon come true. Jefferson said:

"Were we directed from Washington when to sow and when to reap, we should soon want bread."

O'Brien cited the bungling by Washington officials of the animal feed growing program, which has reached such a critical stage that large quantities of feed must be imported this year in order to meet war time food goals.

The nation now is consuming seven bushels of corn for every five produced. By Oct. 1 experts predict the nation will have only a five week supply of this all-important grain left. Yet it was only this spring that the government lifted restrictions on the number of acres of corn a farmer might plant.

Supply Under Demand.

By fall, even if the rains cease, feed supplies will be alarmingly low. Corn disappearance is 16 per cent above last year and oats and barley are vanishing even more swiftly. The nation is using feed grains and wheat 20 per cent faster than they can be produced.

The rains have placed midwestern farmers almost a month behind their planting schedule, and they are desperately short of help to do the planting. The corn they will be forced to plant late in June will be in danger of frost. The average frost date in this area is Oct. 19. Last year a killing frost came on Sept. 25.

In Washington yesterday two members of the house agriculture committee said the nation was about to reap the results of folly sown by administration theorists.

Attacks Blue Print Planning.

Said Rep. August H. Andresen [R., Minn]: "The delays of the OPA, WPB and department of agriculture have cut food production 15 to 25 per cent. We have in Washington too many superintellectuals who are trying to run the economy of the country by blue print."

Said Rep. Anton J. Johnson [R., Ill.]: "It was a serious mistake to limit production three years ago when it was evident war was coming. We have too many ideologists planning our national economy. I am a farmer and know the farmer's problem. He can't buy the corn he needs. He can't get help because

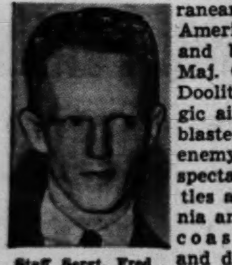
GEN. DOOLITTLE'S MEN SMASH 73 PLANES IN A DAY

2 Chicagoans Get First Air Victories.

BY SEYMOUR KORMAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Staff Sergt. Fred E. Bowker.

ALLIED HDQ. IN NORTH AFRICA, May 20.—Air warfare flared over the Mediterranean yesterday. American fighters and bombers of Maj. Gen. James Doolittle's strategic air force blasted down 28 enemy planes in spectacular battles above Sardinia and the west coast of Sicily and destroyed at least 44 more on the ground. A British Beaufighter shot down a torpedo carrying Junkers 88, putting the day's bag of axis planes at 73.

It was the first time since the allied conquest of Tunisia that axis aircraft rose in force in an effort to ward off attacks on the island bases flanking the European continent. The enemy accounted for four American planes, the proportion therefore being more than 18 to 1 in our favor.

Chicagoans' First Victories.

The day brought their first victory to Staff Sergt. Stanley J. Hayes of 7933 Kingston avenue, Chicago, who shot down a Messerschmitt 109, and to Staff Sergt. Fred E. Bowker of 514 South Highland avenue, Oak Park, who chalked up two ME-109s.

The sharpest encounter involved Flying Fortresses which were homeward bound after bombing Milo airdrome at Trapani, Sicily, where they wrecked 37 parked planes. More than 50 Messerschmitts and Focke-Wulf 190s attacked the formation of Forts between the coast of Sicily and the Egadi Islands.

The fight raged for about 20 minutes at various levels ranging from just above the sea to 24,000 feet. Fortress gunners sent 10 Nazi craft to their end.

Tells of Six Big Fires.

Sergt. Hayes, who is a Fortress tail gunner, told of seeing at least six big fires at Milo airdrome.

"The flak [anti-aircraft fire] was not bad," Hayes related, "but afterward those fighters really came up for business. Tho our bombing had been accomplished, the fighters were desperate, streaming in from all angles. My big moment, of course, was knocking down my first plane."

Sergt. Bowker got his two in this engagement.

Enemy fighters also challenged the B-25 Mitchell [medium] bombers which had pounded Villacidro airdrome on Sardinia. Over the coast the escort of P-38s shot down six attackers. Lt. Louis E. Curdos of Fort Wayne, Ind., rang up his fifth and sixth victories.

Other Mitchells scored direct hits on at least seven planes on the ground at Milas air field in central Sardinia.

P-40 Warhawks escorting B-26 Marauder bombers which plastered targets in southern Sardinia at Monserrato and Elmas air fields and Cagliari harbor knocked down 10 more axis fighters.

ONCE WAS "LOVE PICKET."

Sergt. Bowker, during the summer of 1939, became known as Oak Park's love picket. He had eloped to Kentucky with the former Lorraine Landon, 16 years old and daughter of an executive of a cartage company.

Later Bowker, then 21 years old, sought court action against the girl's parents and picketed their house in which he charged his wife was being held against her will. The two were reunited several months later.

Story of U. S. Strategy on Attu board for the third preliminary advance, this time almost under Premier Tojo's nose. That was the occupation by United States forces of Amchitka Island, only 62 miles from Kiska. The occupation was completed in January, 1943, after three landings by American patrols, the first of which took place the previous September.

The first landing was made by Lt. Col. William J. Verbeck in a navy PBY flying boat. With him were a lieutenant and two scouts, armed with tommy guns and carrying a gasoline stove, some tea, rice, and dried salmon. They rowed ashore in a rubber boat and were left to make their reconnaissance. They were dressed in clothes blending with the island's barren coloring, and were forced several times to trust to this camouflage when Jap planes came over.

Race Is On for Island.

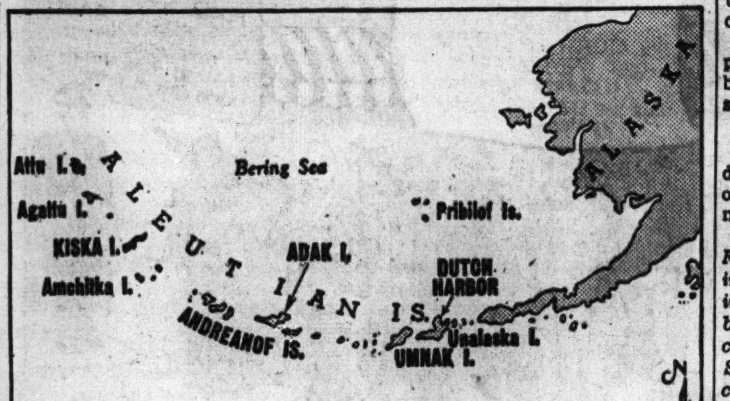
A second reconnaissance by army engineers was ordered when Verbeck, an accomplished student of the Japanese language and habits as the result of having been reared in Japan by an American business man father, came back with his report. This time the engineers found the Japs had been there. Wherever the engineers dug for possible runway sites, they found Jap prospect holes. It was evident that the race was on.

Buckner and the navy got there first. In the midst of a storm, Verbeck led some 40 soaked and half frozen men ashore early in the morning of Jan. 12 to set up signal stations. The main occupying force followed quickly. The same storm that gave the Americans such a bad time also caused the Japs on Kiska some trouble because it wasn't until Jan. 23 that any Jap planes came snooping around. By that time the base was well established.

The importance of the American base daily became more noticeable to the slant-eyed invaders on Kiska. Supplies there were becoming increasingly scarce. Submarines were bringing in most of them. Some material and foodstuffs were thrown into the water by Jap supply ships for the tide and wind to wash ashore.

Almost daily raids kept the Japs' Kiska runways torn up. So desperate did the Jap officers become that returning American pilots reported seeing enemy soldiers ordered out to work on the runways while they still were being bombed.

[Why was Attu chosen as the first objective in the spring drive? The next instalment will explain the strategy of this move.]



Aleutian Islands which figure in Warren Baker's story in today's Tribune of United States activities in Alaska are indicated on map above.

Ships and Planes Attack Trapped Foe.

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—American troops have completed encirclement of the remnant of Japanese forces on Attu Island in the western Aleutians after capturing the partially completed enemy airfield in the Holtz bay area.

The Japanese, the navy announced today, were caught in the Chichagof harbor area at the northeastern extremity of Attu after United States forces captured Sarana pass flanking the enemy's positions from the southeast. The Japanese were fighting with their backs to the sea and the sea was commanded by American warships, which, it was officially disclosed, have already assisted in smashing Japanese resistance.

The navy communique said that on May 18 gunfire from United States light surface forces assisted in clearing the Holtz Bay-Massacre Bay pass of enemy troops.

Snipers Still Active.

Sarana pass leading to the Chichagof area was captured yesterday. This action confined the Japs to the Chichagof area, except for isolated sniper activities.

The Holtz Bay-Massacre Bay pass runs some distance to the west of Sarana pass which is near the eastern end of the island and leads from Massacre bay into the Chichagof area. Thus the American forces have closed on the Japanese from two directions in a pincers maneuver developed subsequent to their initial pincer drive against the many enemy positions around Holtz bay.

A force of United States army bombers attacked military objectives in the Chichagof area, the communique said.

Occupation of the partially completed airfield was reported earlier by Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson.

Veteran Commands Troops.

Maj. Gen. Eugene M. Landrum, described by Stimson as "a veteran of former Aleutian operations," commands the troops on Attu.

[Landrum is a native of Pensacola, Fla., and rose from an enlisted man in the regular army. He has served in Hawaii, the Philippines, and Siberia. In 1933 he served with the civilian conservation corps at Camp Saline, Eldorado, Ill., and at 6th corps area headquarters in Chicago. Later he went to Fort Benning, Georgia, as an instructor in the infantry school. He was assigned to Alaska last year from Fort Lewis, Washington.]

Under cover of a naval bombardment, the secretary added, a small party of army scouts made the first landing near the west arm of Holtz bay, and these were followed closely by another wave of troops in the same area. Later, another landing was made on the opposite side of the island at Massacre bay.

Meet Little Opposition.

Stimson said the troops in the Holtz bay area were commanded by Col. Frank L. Culin Jr., but he did not have the name of the officer leading the assault on the southern side of the island.

[Culin was born in Seattle and served in the first World war, participating in the Aisne-Marne and Meuse-Argonne offensives. He was assigned to duty with the 7th division at Fort Ord, California, in 1940 and in 1941 became commanding officer of the 32d infantry regiment at Fort Ord.]

There was little opposition from the surprised enemy in the first phase of the Attu operation, Stimson reported, and the troops had little difficulty in establishing strong beachheads which they later were able to hold against Japanese counter-attacks.

Despite the difficulties encountered, including extremely cold weather, American casualties have been relatively light, the secretary said.

American Troops' Conduct 'Irreproachable': Eden

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 20.—Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, speaking at a Mansion House luncheon given by the lord mayor of London today in honor of United States Ambassador John G. Winant, paid tribute to the "irreproachable conduct" of the American soldiers since their arrival in Britain. "We like our American guests," he said, "and hope when they go home they will feel they like us."

FOREIGN PAPERS AROUSE BRITISH; CURBS SOUGHT

Polish Groups Stir Fears for Freedom of Press.

[By Wireless to the New York Times and The Chicago Tribune.]

LONDON, May 20.—The language of certain foreign language and factional newspapers has raised the issue of freedom of the press in a new form here. The British are proud of the free speech preserved after more than three years of war, but now that Russo-Polish relations have been suspended, there is a tendency to question how much liberty can safely be accorded publications of the various factions of exiled governments here.

As the result of editorials published in Polish newspapers, demands have sprung up for censorship or suppression of publications printing matter likely to offend an ally.

Censorship Now Voluntary.

Altho Britain, aside from purely security reasons, censors only outgoing dispatches likely to cause disunity among the allies, some quarters have urged adoption of this principle to domestic publications. These now are subject only to voluntary censorship.

It is said that Brendan Bracken, information minister, could crack down on the slightly illegal Polish papers adding fuel to Russo-Polish fires and speak firmly to the Daily Worker, a communist paper, which has offended on the other side, but he has no such intention. He is said to believe such a move would endanger the freedom of the British press, which this government guards almost as ezalously as do its editors.

The trouble, according to observers, is that Poles who do not like Russia have been venting their spleen. These semi-outlaw papers have little circulation outside Polish circles and British censorship prevents their contents from being cabled out of the country when it is particularly vicious.

However, the papers are sent to Dublin, where they are studied by axis agents and picked up by Tass news agency representatives and cabled to Moscow. This helps keep Moscow stirred up, it is said.

Embargo May Be Tried.

One remedy that may be tried is an export embargo on all but regular dailies, some observers asserted.

The matter came up in the house of commons today when Herbert Morrison, minister of home security, and Bracken were asked what was being done to prevent such newspapers causing further trouble among the allies. Morrison said:

"The British public takes the view that it has a right to criticize its government in forceful terms. Therefore, I have taken the view that I cannot lay dawon a doctrine that refugee governments in this country are exempt from criticism."

Bracken was asked whether he had considered withdrawing licenses from foreign language journals consistently publishing articles harmful to unity. He replied that it might be necessary to take steps to prevent abuse of British hospitality by journals more interested in feuds than in news.

DE GAULLE GETS GIRAUD PLAN FOR ALGIERS PARLEY

LONDON, May 20. — Fighting French headquarters here, disheartened by Prime Minister Churchill's mention of Gen. Henri Giraud and non-mention of Gen. Charles de Gaulle in Washington yesterday, were cheered today by receipt of an answer from Giraud to De Gaulle's note of May 1 asking that a meeting between the two generals take place in Algiers. Giraud suggested that both he and De Gaulle name two others, the six men then to meet in Algiers and choose three more by majority vote. This committee of nine would then go on from there. The De Gaullist national committee met today and decided to ask Giraud for fuller details of his proposal and to order Gen. Georges Catroux, De Gaullist emissary to Giraud, to return to London.

BRITISH RETURN FROM 3 MONTHS' RAIDING IN BURMA

Weary Army Struggles Back to India.

A BRITISH BASE ON THE INDO-BURMA FRONTIER, May 18 [Delayed] — (AP). — A super-raid by British and provincial troops that for three months swept thru Burma on a 300 mile front, wrecking railroads and bridges and generally harassing Japanese occupation forces, drew near its close today as the weary raiders, many of them disease ridden, struggled out of the jungle.

[The end of the raiding operation was announced officially in a special communique issued early this morning in New Delhi. "An operation which lasted for more than three months has now been completed by a force comprising British, Burman, Gurkha, and Indian troops," the communique said. "This force has campaigned in the heart of central Burma since the middle of February, in enemy controled territory east of the Chindwin and Irrawaddy rivers."]

This fighting force of English, Burmese, Indians and jungle tribesmen marched thru the jungle, bobbing up everywhere from Mandalay to Myitkin to pester the Japanese, while not a word of their exploits was allowed to reach the world.

Called Epic Struggle.

Now, when most of them have completed the hazardous, heartbreaking climb back over a half dozen mountain ranges to reënter India, the story of their exploits has been revealed.

The raid was an epic struggle against the jungle, with death, valor, despair, and success marching along with the fighting men.

Fighting side by side with their heat tempered, brown skinned comrades, a regiment of city bred Britons matched their wits against the Japanese and the jungle and won —not decisively, but won.

To the British here it was welcome news of a successful operation on a front which has been marked by more reverses than advances. Several columns traveled nearly 1,000 miles.

The raid began Feb. 15 when a force, of whom a third were English, crossed the Chindwin river on the Burma side of the frontier. It was at a somewhat critical hour, as in north Burma, on the Salween front, the Japanese were pressing hard against the Chinese. A band of 5,000 loyal Burma tribal fighters were surrounded in north Burma and threatened with annihilation by a Japanese expedition.

Uses Untried Forces.

But the man who led the expedition had a further end in view. He is Brigadier Charles Orde Wingate, 39 years old, the same man who at the beginning of the Ethiopian campaign three years ago led 2,000 Sudanese and 1,000 Ethiopian warriors in operations that resulted in the capture or disposal of 40,000 Italians.

Wingate wanted to demonstrate that he could take even relatively second rate troops and turn them into jungle fighters who could beat the Japanese. Most of the troops had six months of preliminary jungle training, but others had as little as one month of preparation for the big raid.

They destroyed several bridges and blew up 100 miles of railroad in 70 different places. They delayed a Japanese move against the Chindwin river barrier near the Indo-Burma frontier. They took the pressure off the Chinese to the north. They saved the 5,000 loyal native warriors by compelling the Japanese to withdraw their expedition for use against the raiders. They destroyed the Japanese feeling of security in Burma. They received invaluable training in jungle warfare, and proved Wingate's contention that quick training could make allied troops equal to the jungle and the Japanese.

1,000 Mules Carry Supplies.

The raiders entered the jungle with nearly 1,000 mules loaded with supplies. But once they reached central Burma the bulk of their supplies were dropped to them by a small squadron of American built planes operated by British crews. The planes shuttled back and forth from a border base, defying Japanese fighters as they sought out their rendezvous with the raiding columns on the ground.

In eight columns the raiders crossed the Chindwin and headed 150 miles thru the jungle and over the mountains toward the Irrawaddy. That river and its valley form the main north-south line of communications in Burma.

Before they returned they ate most of their mules and horses and came back to look upon corned beef as manna when it was dropped from the supply planes. They learned how to live for days on bamboo shoots and banana palm leaves, knew what it meant to see comrades fall out from sickness or wounds and be left behind.

For a short time the Japanese apparently thought the invasion of Burma had begun, for they pulled whole divisions into new positions and filled the woods with scouting parties.

Divorce Granted

[Acme Photo.]

Mrs. John Jacob Astor III.

Reno, Nev., May 20 (AP).—Ellen Tuck French Astor was granted a divorce today from John Jacob Astor III. after a brief, private hearing of her complaint in Judge William McKnight's chamber. The decree made no reference to a petition filed a few hours earlier by Astor's attorney asking dismissal of the divorce suit. The petition denied Astor had been guilty of "extreme cruelty of a mental nature" as charged in Mrs. Astor's complaint. Mrs. Astor seemed rather nervous and said she was glad the proceedings were over. The Astors were married in Newport, R. I., June 30, 1934. A property agreement announced recently in New York by Charles Gilbert, Astor's secretary, settled 1 million dollars on Mrs. Astor on condition she relinquish all claim to any of Astor's other property. The couple also agreed, Gilbert said, to joint custody of their son, Billie, 7 years old.

Sedition Trial of Forum Official to Start Today

The sedition trial of Stokely Delmar Hart, 35 years old, Negro official of the Washington Park Forum, will begin today in the federal District court of Judge Michael L. Igoe. Hart, it is charged by the government, advised Negro members of his organization to evade the draft and advocated an alliance with the Japanese. In a sedition trial last month Judge Igoe sentenced Charles Newby, Negro and leader of the group, to three years in federal prison on similar charges.

JAP PLANES RAID FOUR U. S. BASES IN NEW GUINEA

Yanks Blast Rabaul with 18 Tons of Bombs.

ALLIED HDQ. IN AUSTRALIA, May 21 [Friday]—(AP).—The Japanese, continuing to push the air offensive they started last Friday in the southwest Pacific, have raided Milne bay, Port Moresby, Dobodura, and Cape Ward Hunt, New Guinea, Gen. MacArthur's headquarters announced today.

Twelve enemy planes strafed the Douglas harbor area to the northwest of Buna and sank a small allied lugger.

On the allied offensive side, 18 tons of bombs were dropped and many fires started on an airdrome at Rabaul, New Britain.

Today's noon communique reported the most widespread activity of the Japanese airforce since it opened the series of stabs at New Guinea by sending 45 planes against Oro bay, losing 22, a week ago.

100 Planes in One Raid.

The next day it sent more than 100 planes against Bobdubi, Wau, and Buna, on New Guinea. May 17, 43 more planes raided Wau and the following day 25 others.

Three planes struck after dark yesterday at the important allied base of Port Moresby, dropping six bombs "harmlessly in the bush."

At Milne bay four enemy planes dropped 10 bombs, firing a fuel dump.

Single planes twice raided Dobodura under cover of darkness, causing minor damage.

Yanks Blast Airdrome.

The allied raid on Rabaul was directed at Vunakanau airdrome, one of three at that Jap base.

Big four-engined raiders dropped both fragmentation and incendiary bombs, starting fires near the runway and the areas where planes are dispersed. The Japanese threw up intense anti-aircraft and searchlight opposition, but all the allied raiders got back to base. One of the anti-aircraft batteries was silenced and at least one searchlight destroyed.

On New Britain's southern tip big allied bombers made three attacks on the airdrome at Gasmata, causing fires and explosions, and on the airdrome and building areas at Cape Gloucester.

Other allied planes sped along the shores of the Huon peninsula of New Guinea on strafing activities, forcing two "laden" Jap barges ashore and setting one afire. In the Huon gulf, near Salamaua, enemy installations along the Francisco river were fired by attack planes, and bombers attacked Salamaua's airdrome and town areas.

Divorces Rooney

[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

AVA GARDNER ROONEY.

Los Angeles, Cal., May 20 (AP).—Ava Gardner Rooney obtained an interlocutory divorce decree today from Mickey Rooney, film star.

Mickey, 22 years old, wasn't in court when Miss Gardner, formerly of Wilson, N. C., appeared before Superior Court Judge Thurmond Clarke and asserted the actor just wouldn't stay home nights, and that he had told her repeatedly that he considered their marriage a mistake. She charged him with mental cruelty.

Rooney was represented by Atty. Martin Gang, who said a property settlement had been reached. Miss Gardner did not request alimony.

They were married at Ballard, Cal., Jan. 10, 1942, and separated Jan. 15, 1943.

125 TONS OF U. S. BOMBS BLAST JAPS IN BURMA

NEW DELHI, India, May 20 (AP).—Heavy and medium bombers of the 10th United States air forces dropped more than 125 tons of bombs on Japanese installations in Burma yesterday.

A communique tonight said a large formation of B-25 Mitchells bombed the Lanywa workshops, between Chauk and Yunangyat, starting two huge fires.

Another flight of Mitchells attacked Singu and scored hits "which destroyed workshops and other large buildings," the war bulletin said.

Two formations of B-24 Liberators smashed at enemy installations at Magwe with more than 50 tons of bombs.

Still another flight of heavy bombers attacked the Padaukkan oil fields 25 miles southeast of Makwe.

Another formation attacked enemy installations at Thayetmye and Pyaye and "again," the communique said, "huge fires with immense columns of black smoke were seen rising from oil installations."

All planes and their crews returned safely.

Hotel Elevator Death Is Held an Accident

A coroner's jury returned a verdict of accidental death yesterday at an inquest over Dr. Adam Hoche, 65 years old, a chemist crushed to death Wednesday in an elevator in the La Salle hotel, where he lived.

YANK PICTURES RARE 'BEAUTIES' OF GUADALCANAL

Brochure Tells How Isle Looks Now.

BY CLAY GOWRAN.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

GUADALCANAL, May 8 [By Air Mail]. — Guadalcanal is not known as "the island of death," or "the hell hole of the South Pacific" anymore. These days, three months after Japanese resistance ended on the island, it is quite a place. In fact, it has its own travel brochure, prepared by an officer in army public relations. Here it is:

"Are you a housewife with nerves tattered and torn by life's mad pace? Are you a defense worker whose morale has been shattered by $200 a week and the grim menace of Mitsubishis [Jap bombers] over Minneapolis? Does your battered soul thirst for some peaceful haven where days drift by like rose petals on the placid tide of sleep?

"Then be of good cheer. You can turn from the world's churlish buffets and come to Guadalcanal—to romance drenched Guadalcanal, the Shangri-La of the tropics—the past participle of perfection.

Live in Man's World.

"To reach this isle of enchanted loveliness, you must cross the cobalt blue Pacific. For a few glorious weeks you live in the fascinating man's world below decks. Tucked cozily in tier No. 4 of an eight bunk hitch you watch the imprint of buttocks bulge and fade in the springs above you — hear torpedoes boil dreamily under the stern, and realize that life can be beautiful.

"Yet all this is but a poor herald for the island splendor which is to be yours on Guadalcanal, a flowered dreamland often referred to as the healthiest community west of the Fiji leper colony. At first view, this lush fairyland is almost confusing. What to do? Will you ride a jeep along aromatic trails which sweep Mount Austen? Or shall the first hike take you thru the convulsive beauties of Bloody Ridge? Here the tourist is wont to fill his lungs with the breeze which blows across Samurai rotting peacefully in the ravines.

Keen Sport at Foxhole Club.

"If you are the competitive type, you will find keen sport upon the green velvet courts of the Matanikau Bath and Tennis club. Bring your clubs and tour the unmatched fairways of the Foxhole Golf and Country club. Here are traps which have frustrated the best of the Japanese professionals.

"And how will you spend your first evening? We might drop in on a native village where the simple black man lives in unspoiled dignity. In this thatched hamlet we find the romantic Solomon islander in his proper setting, untouched by the grubby paws of the white man's world. Here that eerie chant swirling thru the fire burnished darkness:

"'She'll be coming 'round the mountain when she comes . . . she'll be driving six white horses when she comes. . . .'

"And, what can be lovelier than driving home thru the ack-ack [anti-aircraft fire] spangled night, watching the lazy butterfingers of the searchlights in their slow probings? You can feel your broken soul reknitting itself as the jeep tires croon on the boulevards.

You Meet Society, Too.

"You are rather a night owl, aren't you? Well, we'll drop in on some Bohemian places. You won't meet the whipped cream of Guadalcanal society, but there are quaint characters. Meet Washing Machine Charlie and that charging rogue, Pistol Pete. They are Jap bomber pilots who drop over almost every night to rub nose fuses with us.

"And home at last to sink into the drowsy ripples of your GI bed. Let the elfin drone of mosquitoes and Jap high altitude bombers urge you gently down the slope of utter peace. Tune your ears to the crystal waters of the Tenaru as it wanders down to the sea, chuckling contentedly thru the eye sockets of Jap skulls.

"Open your pores to the lure of the tropics. Yes, come to Guadalcanal and bring your straitjacket, you silly. . ."

French Jewish Exiles Ask Help of U. S. in N. Africa

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—A delegation of French Jewish exiles today asked the United States to intercede in North Africa for the restoration of the Cremieux decree of 1870 conferring French citizenship on Algerian Jews.

CHICAGOLAND'S FLYING HEROES HONORED AGAIN

Many Win Decorations on Pacific Fronts.

BY ROBERT CROMIE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SOMEWHERE IN NEW GUINEA, May 19 [Delayed].—More awards for heroic action and meritorious service in the Pacific battle against the Japanese have been announced by the air force in this area. As usual, the list includes many men from Chicagoland. Among the "kids next door" who have done it again are:

CHICAGO.

AYLING, Staff Sergt. Edward C., 917 Lawrence avenue, air medal for Flying Fortress attack on five destroyers last November, in which one destroyer was set afire.

FEDERLE, Lt. Fred G., 4205 North Bernard street, distinguished flying cross for bombing raid on Lae, New Guinea, airdrome July 4 in which Federle's plane shot down two enemy fighters, fought off 12 to 15 others, and damaged air field heavily.

NIX, Sergt. Robert P., 416 Deming place, air medal for helping sink 3,000 ton cargo ship in Bismarck sea Jan. 18.

VASLOW, Corp. Charles, 3007 West 63d street, silver star for gallantry in battle of Bismarck sea.

ILLINOIS.

MASSIE, 2d Lt. Harold L., Greenup, silver star for gallantry over Rabaul in May, 1942; soldier's medal for heroism over New Britain Island from May 25, 1942, to March 24.

NORTON, Sergt. Patrick H., Hartford, air medal for heroism over Lae in May, 1942. When the bombs would not drop from his plane, Radioman Norton crawled out on the catwalk over the open bomb bay and helped jettison the explosives by hand, then closed the bomb bay doors manually so safe landing was possible.

PHILO, Sergt. Harry E., Fort Wayne, soldier's medal for heroism near Port Moresby, New Guinea, Jan. 9.

ROBINSON, Technical Sergt. Jacob G., rural route 1, Greenwood, air medal for raid on Rabaul harbor last Jan. 5, in which enemy transport was bombed.

SKETCHES OF HEROES.

Corp. Charles Vaslow was a photographer in Chicago when he joined the air corps early in 1941. He now is a photographer on an army bomber and has been stationed in the South Pacific since last fall. He is 27 years old and a graduate of Lindbloom High school. His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Abraham Vaslow of 3007 West 63d street.

Lt. Fred G. Federle, 29 years old, joined the air corps immediately after leaving the University of Illinois in June, 1940. His mother, Mrs. Katherine Federle of 4205 North Bernard street, Chicago, expects him home on leave within a few days.

Lt. John R. Van Trigt, 25 years old, received his wings March 7, 1941. He was transferred to the Canal Zone and then was sent to the South Pacific 18 months later. He is a graduate of Knox college in Galesburg, Ill., and formerly worked for the Studebaker corporation in South Bend, Ind. His parents, Mr. and Mrs. Peter Van Trigt, live in Ottawa, Ill.

COUPLE, OCEAN APART, WILL BE WED BY PROXY

A proxy marriage soon will make Miss Josephine Lobacz, 2820 South Kedvale avenue, the bride of Capt. Joseph Krystosek, who is stationed 9,000 miles away with the army medical corps in New Guinea. Miss Lobacz announced yesterday she will leave June 16 for Tacoma, Wash., where arrangements are being made for the long distance wedding.

Krystosek, who formerly lived at 2701 Cermak road, met Miss Lobacz three years ago. Their plans to be married last spring were abandoned when he was called into the army. Six weeks ago he decided on the marriage by proxy if arrangements could be made.

The laws of Illinois do not permit a proxy marriage, but such marriages have been performed in the state of Washington. So the ceremony will be performed there.

SENATE IGNORES YOO HOO ECHOES; O. K.'S LEAR RANK

Clark's One Man War on General Fails.

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—The yoo hoo hoodoo which had hung over Maj. Gen. Ben Lear for nearly two years was lifted today when the senate shouted approval of his reappointment to the temporary grade of lieutenant general.

Sen. Bennett Clark [D., Mo.] waged a lone, determined campaign to block confirmation of the officer who ordered a forced march for 350 soldiers because some yoo hooed in the summer of 1941 at a group of shorts-clad girl golfers near Memphis, Tenn.

Calls General Unfit.

Clark declared Lear was unfit for promotion not only because of punishing innocent soldiers along with the guilty, but also because he had been "insulting" in carrying out war department orders which resulted in breaking up some National Guard divisions.

Lear's record was defended by Majority Leader Alben W. Barkley and Senators Albert B. Chandler [D., Ky.], Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.], Kenneth McKellar [D., Tenn.], and others.

Describes Yoo Hoo Scene.

Clark described the yoo hoo scene. Members of the 35th division were returning from Tennessee maneuvers in a truck convoy. They passed a country club where Lear was playing golf in civilian clothes. Clark said the general heard the shouting to the girls and ordered them to stop.

"When he yelled 'I'm Gen. Ben Lear,' it is possible that one of the men may have yelled back 'I'm Julius Caesar' or even 'Go roll your hoop, grandpa,'" Clark conceded.

CHINESE SMASH NEW ATTACK BY 6,000 JAPANESE

CHUNGKING, China, May 20 (AP).—Chinese forces in the eastern Chinese coastal province of Shantung have smashed an attack by 6,000 Japanese troops southeast of Shanhsien, killing or wounding 1,000 of the enemy, but 450 miles to the southwest the Japanese drive to envelop the rich Chinese rice bowl west of Tungting lake made some progress, a Chinese communique said today.

In the battle for the rice bowl, in which 60,000 enemy troops in three columns are seeking to envelope a large area west of Tungting lake, the column striking westward from Kungan in southern Hupeh province moved forward under an air cover, but Chinese planes also were in action.

Other clashes were reported from the front in Yunnan province west of the Salween river, where the enemy is seeking to dislodge the Chinese from positions on the west bank of the Salween, southeast of the Burma road town of Lungling.

The communique also reported fighting northwest of Mengshien on the north bank of the Yellow river in northern Honan, where the Chinese have recaptured a small town.

ILLINOIS FLYER DOWNS 2 JAPS IN FIRST BATTLE

GUADALCANAL, May 3 [Delayed].—Two Illinois marine corps flyers, in first contact with Jap airmen over the Russell Islands, April 1, accounted for two Zeros and possibly a third.

Second Lt. William Eugene Dillow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lafayette Dillow of Cobden, Ill., downed two enemy planes in the dog fight, while 2d Lt. Warren C. Duncan, son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Flora of 7828 Oglesby avenue, Chicago, is certain he blasted another Jap out of the sky.

Lt. Dillow entered the fight from 23,000 feet.

"I picked a Zero, gave him a short burst and he seemed to explode right in my face, about 150 feet away," he said. "The second plane I got was more trouble."

Lt. Duncan was not impressed by the Jap tactics.

"I don't think they were worth a damn up there," he stated.

CHURCHILL TALK ADDS TO DEMAND TO ATTACK JAPS

Senators Doubt Force of Commitments.

BY JOHN FISHER.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]
(Picture on back page.)

Washington, D. C., May 20.—Senate demands for prosecution of the war against the Japanese before invading Europe appeared today to have been increased rather than lessened following Prime Minister Winston Churchill's address to congress.

In speaking before a joint session of congress yesterday Mr. Churchill took account of the criticism in the United States, as emphasized in a memorable debate in the senate on Monday against the present Roosevelt-Churchill war strategy to defeat Hitler first and then go after Japan. In his message, the prime minister pledged British support in attacking Japan, particularly in reducing her to ashes thru bombing raids.

But overnight analysis of the Churchill speech convinced some senators that he had not made commitments as far-reaching as first interpreted.

Force of Remarks Doubted.

Said Sen. Edwin C. Johnson [D., Colo.], a member of the senate military affairs committee:

"I think a careful reading of the speech discloses that he didn't really mean to give the impression that the British were going to do very much against the Japs. Sentiment in the senate has increased rather than decreased for pushing the war against Japan; at least that's the impression I've got from the reaction of my colleagues."

Sen. Albert B. Chandler [D., Ky.], chairman of a military affairs subcommittee which investigated defenses in Alaska and the Aleutians has been leading the attack on the war strategy, demanding instead that the Japs be defeated before trying to invade Europe, lest the United States be left with little support from the British and probably none from Russia in carrying the war against Japan.

Reports Support Gaining.

The Kentucky Democrat, whose criticism is more stinging because he had supported President Roosevelt, including his foreign policy, consistently until his break with the administration over war strategy, today claimed that:

"I've got plenty of support in the senate and it's gaining rather than declining."

Chandler replied last night to the speech by saying Mr. Churchill had left many questions unanswered, such as the poor showing of superior British troops in India against the relatively few Japs holding Burma and failure to shed light on the Russian enigma.

Sen. Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.], who participated in Monday's debate, reported that he has received heavy mail endorsing criticism of the present war strategy.

Brooks Reiterates Stand.

"I think that the Japanese menace still remains the major threat to the United States, and that most people in this country still recall Mr. Churchill's statement that after the Nazis are crushed, with a greatly demobilized force, they will assist us against Japan," commented Brooks.

"We should make sure," he said, "that our major strength will not be dissipated before we tackle the menacing problem of the Japanese. They gave us our worst naval defeat in history. They were the first nation ever to defeat and conquer an American army—in the Philippines. It is certainly the desire of the American people that we make sure they are beaten."

Other senators also reported heavy mail supporting the senate criticism on neglect of the Pacific war.

The President and Mr. Churchill continued their discussions today and met with the Pacific war council, covering the war situation, past, present, and future, according to British Ambassador Halifax. None of the participants would say whether an early offensive against Japan was contemplated.

Later Mr. Churchill conferred with governmental and military leaders representing the various British dominions, including Canada, Australia, New Zealand, India, and the Union of South Africa, and the heads of British missions located in Washington. Afterwards, the party moved to the White House lawn and joined President Roosevelt in listening to a concert by the United States marine band. Churchill had requested to hear the band, and particularly early American songs.

BRITAIN'S 'PLAN FOR GERMANY'— UNENDING RAIDS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 20.—The annual Conservative party conference in London today heard Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden outline a "program for Germany"—"Bombing by day and night ceaselessly, continuously, and relentlessly, hour by hour, until the war is won." He added: "Nor will Mussolini be forgotten."

Eden said Britain must not weaken nor relax in the post-war years, but must continue its fight "to win the peace." Eden stressed the necessity for Britain to provide military support to any international organization set up to enforce the post-war treaties.

The party conference pledged its support to the Casablanca declaration for unconditional surrender and the main principles of the Beveridge national cradle-to-the-grave social security program.

THE ALLIES MUST INVADE TO WIN, AXIS PAPER SAYS

BERNE, Switzerland, May 20 (AP).—Das Schwarze Korps, organ of the Nazi élite guard, in an analysis of the military situation, said today that a "real victory" for either side would not be determined until the allies attack the continent by land.

It warned the German people that the allies would "very likely" try an invasion. "The allies must tear the European land from us piece by piece; we will try to prevent this," it said.

The Fascist press, meanwhile, is endeavoring to assure the Italian people—who feel themselves closest to that possible allied invasion—that the country, at least for the time being, would not be invaded. Premier Mussolini's Popolo D'Italia said the allies must devote their attention to Japan and are not at present planning to disembark on Italian shores.

BRITISH AIRWAYS CHIEF NAMED.

NEW TUNISIAN BEY'S THRONE GATHERS DUST

Modern, Arab Premier Speaks for Allies.

TUNIS, May 20 (AP).—The gilded red plush throne chair of Africa's newest potentate gathers dust and a few stares from sightseeing troops in the rickety governmental palace of the bey of Tunis.

But just down the hall from the old spangled grand council chamber, in a cool tidy office overlooking the minarets of the grand mosque and the white plaster roofs of the native bazar, a small, black mustached Arab statesman runs the machinery of politics for Moslem Tunisia.

Out of Retirement.

Premier Salheddine Baccouche is the worldly wise head of a rich and ancient family whom the new bey, Sidi Mohammed El Amine, called out of retirement to be chief spokesman to the French and allied powers for the native population.

Baccouche had been telephoning the military authorities for gasoline for his car when the court sentry in red pantaloons and blue jacket ushered correspondents in today.

For more than 20 years Baccouche had held various high offices in the French protectorate, but it was his good fortune that he personally disliked the Germans and declined to follow Vichy's lead in coöperating with the axis.

"Why did some natives help the enemy?" he was asked.

"Had you lived here during those times you would understand," he said. "The French were divided among themselves. My people, peaceful and innocent regarding world affairs, were submerged in axis propaganda and the axis spent huge sums here in behalf of this propaganda. Now these falsehoods can be exposed and the truth told to my people."

Ordered Out of Home.

Baccouche's most trying personal experience during the German occupation occurred when a Nazi official peremptorily ordered him to vacate his suburban home where he had taken his pregnant wife and 21 other members of his family to be distant from the targets of the heavy allied bombing. He was warned to have the house ready for the Germans in three hours.

Baccouche dresses in the traditional Arab costume of red fez, white robe, and blue jacket, but he has traveled widely and is probably the most modernized Arab personality in Tunisia.

The governmental palace is an incongruous background for the up and coming premier. The grand council chamber resembles a museum room and the French sign on the bey's gilt chair says, "Don't sit here."

Red Upholstery Faded.

The red plush upholstery is faded almost brown and frayed carpets cover the tiled floor. An adjoining room contains a high bed on which the bey presumably rested from time to time.

Another room contains a dining table where the bey and his ministers ate before and after their deliberations. Chunks of ancient marble from Carthage are plastered in the walls.

An aged servitor politely takes parties of British and American soldiers thru the building and he chuckles with pleasure as they present him with cigarettes.

GROUP SEEKING 25 CENT GIFTS FOR RUSSIANS

Distribution of cards with which Americans may send gifts of 25 cents and written messages to persons in soviet Russia has been started by the Chicago Society for American-Soviet Relations, 135 South La Salle street, on behalf of the National Council of American-Soviet Friendship.

Spokesmen of the Chicago Association of Commerce said that organization had not indorsed the American-soviet agency or its policies. The American-soviet national council is not one of the agencies indorsed by the national war relief committee.

A sender of a card may indicate whether he wishes his gifts and message to go to a Russian miner, teacher, soldier, or nurse.

GERMANS CLAIM ALLIED LOSS IN AFRICA 370,000

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Berlin radio broadcast an official German report yesterday that allied forces in North Africa suffered casualties of 50,000 dead, 200,000 wounded and 120,000 captured. The period of time covered was not stated and there was no confirmation of these figures in allied quarters. The broadcast said that among the prisoners were 18 generals, and that seven other generals had been killed.

Deputy Prime Minister Clement Attlee announced in the British house of commons on Tuesday that axis casualties in Africa and the middle east were nearly triple the losses suffered by Britain since Italy entered the war on June 10, 1940.

Attlee said that British, commonwealth, and empire forces had lost approximately 220,000 men in killed, wounded and missing in that period. He put German casualties in Africa and the middle east at 227,000 and Italian casualties at 400,000.

[Prime Minister Churchill, speaking to congress on Wednesday, said the African adventures of Hitler and Mussolini had cost the axis 950,000 casualties. Churchill said allied casualties in the Tunisian campaign were "about 50,000."]

40,000 PRISONERS OF FRENCH WILL WORK IN AFRICA

ALGIERS, May 20 (AP).—The French administration in North Africa intends to put to work 40,000 German and Italian prisoners captured by 60,000 French troops but the French will not stoop "to the blackmail methods" used by the Germans in setting French prisoners to work, it was announced today. Robert Pelletier, a press official of Gen. Henri Giraud's staff, announced the policy with this assertion:

"Sixty thousand French took 40,000 axis soldiers prisoners. This two-thirds proportion indicates what our revenge will be when our victorious troops gather up the masses of demoralized, defeated 'occupants' not in Tunisia, but in France itself. As workers, these 40,000 German and Italian prisoners are going to contribute to victory—our victory," Pelletier said.

Surviving are a son, George R., and a daughter, Mrs. Fred Young. Her sister, Miss Leilah Emerson, is principal of the Jefferson school here. The funeral will be tomorrow.

BANKHEAD PLAN RAPPED AS CLUB OVER U. S. PRESS

New Deal Attacks Stir Mississippians.

Jackson, Miss., May 20 [Special].—New Deal burocrats were blamed tonight at the opening of the 77th annual convention of the Mississippi Press association for placing the American press in the "greatest jeopardy in its history."

Birney Imes, publisher of the Columbus, Miss., Commercial Dispatch and a radio station owner, declared that New Deal burocrats are holding a club over the heads of and seeking to coerce the editors and publishers of the nation's newspapers.

Imes charged the department of justice with "hatching a diabolical scheme" in its attack on the Associated Press for the "benefit" of a New Deal newspaper. He said the attack on the Associated Press was designed to force the A. P. to give the paper a membership in its news service.

Calls Move Coercion.

"The very act is a club and coercion against the press of this country," Imes said.

"The hope of this republic lies in the independent free press in this country. But today we who seek to uphold this freedom have the greatest task we ever had. The crackpots, the pinks, and the Reds in Washington have definitely put us in the doghouse."

Imes' address came at the outset of debate on the pending bill in congress by Sen. John H. Bankhead II. [D., Ala.], which would appropriate from $25,000,000 to $30,000,000 from the United States treasury to pay for government advertising in daily and weekly newspapers.

The association later will take a definite stand on the proposal by resolution. Most of the editors and publishers assailed the proposal in their speeches tonight.

Fears New Spending.

Imes expressed fear the proposal would lead to "a new type of government spending" and at the same time pave the way for a constant club over our heads..

Maj. Frederick Sullens, editor of the Jackson News, and long a torchbearer for the Democratic party, declared that he did not believe that "the press of this country can be seduced for a paltry $25,000,000."

"I still believe in the old adage: 'Beware of the Greeks when they come bearing gifts,'" said Maj. Sullens. "Perhaps if I were a member of congress I would support this bill because I would expect from the press of my state favorable action in the future. This proposal is just another dangerous tendency in this country."

KAISER PUTS JOB RACKETS ON PAR WITH KIDNAPING

San Francisco, Cal., May 20 (AP).—Shipbuilder Henry J. Kaiser called on congress today "to pass legislation providing the same federal penalty for labor racketeering and extortion as is now in existence for kidnaping."

Kaiser issued a statement to the press in which he said "New York state authorities should be commended for their courage in bringing to public attention any evidence they have discovered proving racketeering and extortion by labor leaders."

The reference was to the announcement yesterday of District Attorney Frank S. Hogan that two AFL labor union leaders had been indicted in New York on charges of extortion and conspiracy to extort. Hogan said the indictment charged the two had demanded and received $109,000 from John F. Shea Co., Inc., and Henry J. Kaiser company. Kaiser declared he had "never given a dollar of extortion or bribe money to any individual or any labor union," but added that it could possibly have happened in a company in which he was only an investor.

CAPT. FOSS SEES A BEATEN ZERO EXPLODE IN AIR

Gets Time to Watch a 2d Victim Fall in Sea.

[The Tribune today presents the sixth instalment of the thrilling personal story of Capt. Joseph J. Foss, America's ace of aces. In yesterday's instalment he described the battle in which he shot down his third, fourth, and fifth planes.]

BY CAPT. JOSEPH J. FOSS.
As told to Walter Simmons.

[Copyright: 1943: By The Chicago Tribune.]

Artillery shelling from the Jap lines and naval shelling from the sea continued to be an annoyance on Guadalcanal as October waned, but we had well protected foxholes now. They resulted from the mighty vows we made earlier in the month, as we lay in shallow trenches while Jap warships threw 16 inch shells into our camp.

We now had foxholes with tops on them so thick it would take direct hits to unearth us. We had steel plates with earth on top of them and logs and dirt and sandbags on top of that. Each of those holes smelled like an owl's nest. They were damp and moldy, and when it rained we would be bogged in mud. They never dried out.

But they were a comfort. Once a shell landed close enough to our bivouac area to throw dirt on the table. Every time we heard the whistle of an approaching shell, we would drop to the ground. An argument started as to whether or not it was too late to drop after we heard the whistle, but I notice the man who argued it was too late was always the first one down.

Zero Drives for Him.

On Oct. 20 we went up on an intercept. In the first headon attack a Zero drove straight at me, high over the water between Henderson field and little Savo island.

I had not started shooting yet, but already his bullets were streaming beneath me. Then, as he pulled up to correct his aim, his bullets continued to miss, altho they came within a few inches of my wing tips.

We were close together now, and I could see the hot tracers swishing past as he decided to turn out. As he maneuvered I bore around hard, swung onto his tail, and put a long burst into his wing base.

Plane Blows Up in Air.

His plane blew up with a flash and a shattering roar, high up there in the sky. Big pieces went hurtling down to the water, while the little pieces followed leisurely.

In an instant I was engaged with another Zero. We both tried to make long runs at each other, but neither seemed able to get a decent shot.

Finally I did a quick wingover, came down and made a deflected [side] shot at extremely close range. This was an odd thing. My bullets hit the side of the cockpit. The plane went into a spin with no signs of smoke or fire, and continued to spin down with increasing momentum.

Pilot Makes No Move.

I watched it twist downward for thousands of feet—on into the channel, where its impact raised a towering plume of water. The pilot never showed any signs of life or attempted to pull out. Apparently I had killed him.

We seldom had time, up there in that unhealthy sky, to watch our victims fall. It was a little different today because right after I had delivered my burst a Zero came by and gave me a dose of bullets which caused my motor to start smoking and burn out. I went into a long glide for the field, making it without any trouble. Those two Zeros brought my score to seven.

One of my flight—Lt. Eugene A. [Gene] Nuwer of Lancaster, N. Y., failed to return from that hop. The last I saw of him he was in full dive behind a Zero with another Zero on his tail. What happened to him I never learned.

Tries to Meet Bombers.

My next action developed when dive bombers were spotted coming in for an attack on the field. All our fighters were at high altitudes engaging Zeros and did not see the bombers. I got permission from Col. Joe Bauer of Coronado, Cal., the fighter commander, to take off in the one remaining Grumman Wildcat on the field. I hoped to catch the Japs as they came out of the dive.

The plane had been grounded, but no one seemed to know why. After checking the motor—it seemed to sound all right—I attempted to take off. Things did not sound too good, so I cut the throttle and taxied back to try a second time.

On this attempt the plane got about 20 feet in the air before the motor cut out completely at the end of the field, right over innumerable palm tree stumps.

Gets a Bump on Head.

This was a poor place to be without power. My landing gear struck a stump and was ripped off. We hit the second stump with terrific force, and the plane stopped cold. I kept on going till my head struck something which raised a big bump and tore a gouge out of my helmet.

I jumped out of the plane—hurriedly, in case of fire—and, since there was nothing better to do at the moment, sat down in the shade of a tree. There was a minor cut on my head which was beginning to bleed.

An ambulance came tearing up with a doctor in it—Lt. Rodney Peterson, Madison, Wis. He took a quick look in the plane, then around it, and couldn't find me. I yelled, "Hey, Doc, here I am." By this time the cut on my head was bleeding freely, sending streams down the side of my face. I guess I looked like a real case for the hospital.

Hunts "Maytag Charlie."

But I was really all right. In a few hours I was flying night patrol, looking for "Maytag Charlie." That was our name for a Jap who flew over nearly every night in some kind of seaplane that sounded like a washing machine. Sometimes he dropped a bomb; sometimes he didn't. But he didn't show up that night.

We shot down five planes that day and lost two of our pilots. None was from our squadron—VMF 121.

The next few days produced little in the way of hunting. One noon I took off on a scramble, but had to return to the field because of trouble with my oxygen equipment. On that hop my boys ran into five dive bombers and got them all, with no damage to themselves.

I took the late patrol and strafed the Jap lines. There was no answering fire.

Joins in Sniper Hunt.

For a few days there was little work for the airmen to do, tho there was plenty of ground activity on Guadalcanal. The constant roar of artillery would lull us to sleep at night. The Japs had started a drive within half a mile of the fighter strip. Their troops were slaughtered, but our losses were considerable, too.

I went hunting for snipers with some of the boys. It was a hot day—so sultry I came near passing out. I became separated from the rest and soon heard one of the men cut loose with his tommy gun. I yelled and asked him if he had anything. He said he saw a bush move, but could not find anything. That was enough for me—I left. This was about 200 yards from the field.

A few snipers slipped thru the lines and began firing at our mechanics at work on the field. Many of these Japs were terrible shots. Sometimes our mechanics would get sore, grab up guns, and take to the woods for a sniper hunt.

One big husky fellow—we called him Dude—didn't bother to take a gun. He slipped into the woods one day after being fired on too many times. He found the Jap and killed him with a knife. When he returned he had an entire Jap outfit, and he was covered with blood as if he had butchered a hog.

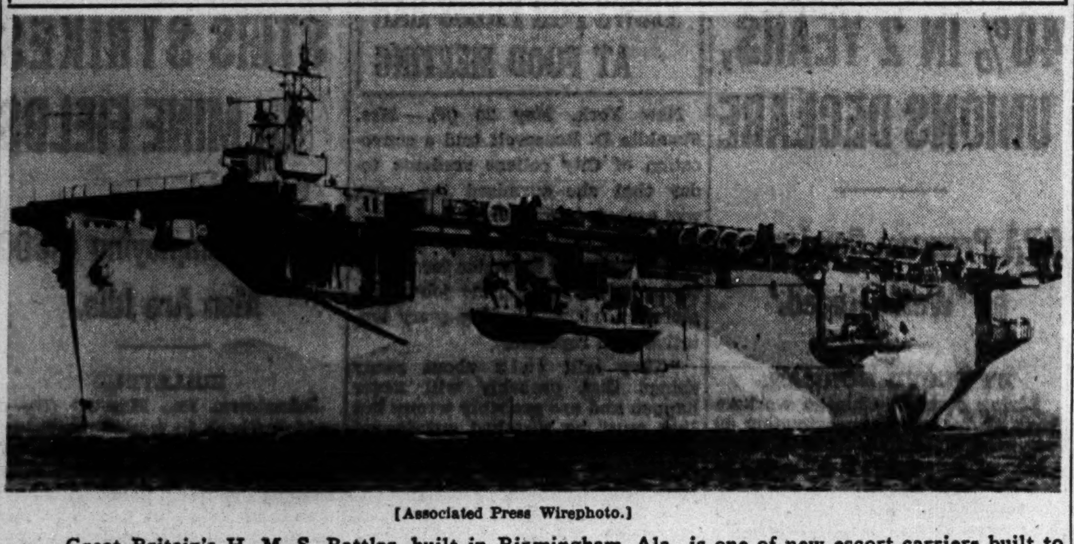
Ready to Fight Submarines in Atlantic



[Associated Press Wirephoto.]

Great Britain's H. M. S. Battler, built in Birmingham, Ala., is one of new escort carriers built to fight German U-boats in Atlantic. Escort carriers, laid down as freighters and converted to carriers, accompany convoys with fighter planes to search out and bomb undersea attackers.

HEAR SHIP CAPTAIN WENT DOWN WHEN NAZIS SCUTTLED SUB

RECIFE, Brazil, May 20 (AP).—The sinking of the 9,300 ton Greek ship Edifots became known today and reports were current that her captain probably perished as a manacled prisoner aboard a subsequently disabled U-boat which was scuttled when overtaken by a British destroyer.

Survivors of the Edifots and the imprisoned crew of the scuttled U-boat have arrived in Recife.

The Edifots was torpedoed and shelled to the bottom May 1 while en route from Buenos Aires to North Africa with a linseed cargo and the captain was taken aboard the attacking U-boat, the survivors related.

A U-boat was located early this month off northeastern Brazil with insufficient fuel to reach an axis or neutral port and unable to submerge because of engine damage. A few minutes after crewmen left the submarine and were picked up by the British, these reports said, a violent explosion sent the U-boat to the bottom.

U. S. WEAPONS GO TO RUSSIA ON U. S. RAILROAD

6,000 Tons Move Thru Persia Daily.

American built railroad cars on a Yankee built and operated railroad in Iran [Persia] are now carrying American made war weapons to be used by the Russians against the Germans, it was disclosed yesterday in an article written by Col. John A. Appleton, chief of the rail division, transportation corps, in the current issue of the Carbuilder, publication of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company. It was indicated that some of the equipment was built in the Chicago area.

Col. Appleton said that the all-American railroad is carrying 6,000 tons of war freight daily along the 650 mile railroad from the Persian gulf to Teheran, capital of Iran. The first trip was made March 30. The supplies destined for the Russians are landed by Americans, from American ships lying at American built docks on the gulf.

Credits Builders of Rolling Stock.

"A large share of the credit for this tremendous achievement belongs to the men who are turning out locomotives and rolling stock," Col. Appleton said. "I've just returned from Iran, where I've seen your equipment doing the job it was designed for. I think you'll be interested to hear something about the job.

Type of freight car being built by Pullman-Standard for overseas service.

"Our principal mission in Iran is to deliver lend-lease supplies to the Russians in Teheran, 6,000 tons of it to be moved by rail daily. Of course this is not all the lend-lease equipment the Russians are getting, but it is a mighty important part. At Teheran, the Red army takes over and moves the stuff north and westward to the Russian battlefronts.

Two Million Tons a Year.

"Six thousand tons daily adds up to the staggering total of well over 2,000,000 tons a year. We haven't attained that goal yet, but we're spurting toward it."

Col. Appleton said that upward of 3,000 flat cars, tank cars, box cars, and gondolas are being used in Persia.

72 ALLIED WARSHIPS, FREIGHTERS REACH GIBRALTAR, NAZIS SAY

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS.]

The Berlin radio reported yesterday that 72 ships, including the British aircraft carriers Argus and Formidable and the battleships Nelson and King George V., were in the port of Gibraltar today. The broadcast claims had no allied confirmation.

The report, attributed to Spanish correspondents, said that 25 of the ships arrived yesterday morning from the direction of the Mediterranean and that among them one American and two British merchant ships were damaged. A British destroyer also was damaged, it was reported.

CHICAGO POLE WITHDRAWS AS UNITY SPEAKER

New York, May 20 (AP).—Oscar R. Lange, University of Chicago professor, withdrew as a speaker at an allied unity rally in Carnegie hall tonight on grounds that efforts had been made to represent the meeting as "an attack upon the memory" of two Polish labor leaders executed by the soviet government.

Lange, a Polish refugee and former professor at the University of Krakow, said in a statement he objected to advertisments appearing in the Daily Worker, Communist newspaper, which he charged attempted to link the meeting to agitation over the execution of Henrich Ehrlich and Victor Alter.

Explaining that he knew both men personally and did not doubt their integrity as "anti-Fascist fighters," Lange said he felt the introduction of the issue into the meeting could make no useful contribution to relations between the governments of Poland and the soviet union.

AFL TO BORROW BEVERIDGE PLAN IDEAS FOR OWN

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—The American Federation of Labor executive council heard an explanation of the Beveridge "cradle to grave" plan today from William Beveridge, chairman of the British committee that formulated the social security project.

President Green told reporters later that the AFL's own social security program, embodying some features of the Beveridge plan, is being drafted in legislative form and will be completed in a few days for introduction in congress.

CATHOLIC PAPER RAPS 'MOSCOW MISSION' FILM

Calls It Soviet Vehicle of Propaganda.

Milwaukee, Wis., May 20 [Special]. —The Catholic Herald Citizen, official organ of the Milwaukee archdiocese, said today that the motion picture "Mission to Moscow," based upon the book by Joseph E. Davies, former ambassador to Russia, "stands condemned as a piece of dishonest showmanship. Warner Brothers are guilty of dishonest salesmanship."

"No matter how much the Communist party would be willing to pay Warner Brothers for a movie plugging their theories, they would not get a better propaganda vehicle than the producers' current "Mission to Moscow," the Herald-Citizen said. "Vehement objection to this film must be taken for several reasons.

Tells of Other Objections.

"These objections were made by a writer of the New York Times staff: The picture gives a false picture of America, a false picture of Russia, and a false picture of history. When the nation has been summoned by the President to do everything possible to aid the war effort and to make for a better understanding of our war aims, why should a movie company put out a false picture of this grand country of ours?

"When we are surfeited with distorted facts and half-truths tossed at us from every angle, why should a movie intended for entertainment confuse the issue by portraying false history?

"It was five years ago that Will Hays made this statement: 'In a period in which propaganda has largely reduced the artistic and entertainment validity of the screen in many other countries, it is pleasant to report that American motion pictures continue to be free from any but the highest possible entertainment purposes. The industry has resisted and must continue to resist the lure of propaganda in that sinister sense persistently urged upon it by sinister groups. . . . There is no place in motion pictures for self-serving propaganda. . . . Propaganda disguised as entertainment would be neither honest salesmanship nor honest showmanship."

Charge Democracy Belittled.

In its department "Men and Affairs," the Catholic weekly said:

"It might be expected that the moving picture industry would be engaged in presenting new films that would build American patriotism and enthusiasm. However in 'Mission to Moscow' everything possible is done to belittle the democratic processes of England and the United States and to glorify the Communist leaders of Russia.

"No American, and certainly no American Catholic should waste time and money to see this propaganda film for the Communist political setup in Russia."

52 Leaders Assail Play.

New York, May 20 (AP).—A statement signed by 52 Americans, educators, historians, authors, and trade union leaders was issued today denouncing the film version of "Mission to Moscow" as the "first full dress example of the kind of propaganda movie hitherto confined to the totalitarian countries."

The Warner Brothers film, based on the book by Joseph E. Davies, former United States ambassador to Russia, was criticized by the group on three counts: That it "falsifies history and even distorts the very book on which it was based. . . . Glorifies the Stalin dictatorship and its methods. . . . And has the most serious implications for American democracy."

Among those listed as signers were Eugene Lyons, editor of the American Mercury; John Haynes Holmes; Edmund Wilson, author, and Harry D. Gideonse, president of Brooklyn college.

F. D. R.'S SECRET NOTE HANDED TO STALIN AT KREMLIN BY DAVIES

MOSCOW, May 21 [Friday]—(AP). —The secret message of President Roosevelt was presented to Premier-Marshal Josef Stalin by Joseph E. Davies in the Kremlin last night. Tass, the official soviet news agency, issued a brief statement early this morning but omitted details of what occurred.

"On May 20," read the statement, "President of the Council of the Peoples' Commissars of the U. S. S. R. Stalin, in the presence of the Peoples' Commissar for Foreign Affairs Molotov, received Joseph Davies, personal representative of the President of the United States. Davies was presented to Stalin by U. S. A. Ambassador [Adm. William H.] Standley." Molotov received Davies prior to the Stalin meeting, and the two conferred at length.

The statement set forth that Davies arrived at Stalingrad from Kuibyshev, that Mr. Roosevelt's representative visited the common grave of Red army men who fell in the Stalingrad fighting and that he placed flowers on the grave and then addressed soviet soldiers and civilians gathering at the scene. But details of the meeting with Stalin apparently were left for later announcement.

House Passes $72,861,316 Interior Department Bill

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—The house passed without amendment and sent to the senate today the 72 million 681 thousand 316 dollar interior department appropriation bill for the fiscal year starting July 1. The total was 9 million 327 thousand 260 dollars below budget estimates and 119 million 999 thousand 475 dollars under current year funds, the bulk of the reduction being in bureau of reclamation allocations.

REDS FOIL NAZI TROOP SHIFT BY SEA OFF CRIMEA

LONDON, May 21 [Friday] (AP).—Russia today announced an attempt by the Germans to move troops by water in the vicinity of the Kerch strait between the Caucasus and the Crimea, but did not indicate whether the Nazis were trying to reënforce their army at Novorossisk or to evacuate it. The midnight communique recorded by the soviet radio monitor here said six self-propelled barges "carrying enemy troops" were sunk in this action, at the tip of the Crimea's Kerch peninsula.

The Russians also reported that northeast of Novorossisk the Germans futilely attempted to attack soviet positions with four infantry regiments after heavy artillery preparations. The Germans may have been attempting to relieve the increasing Russian pressure on the Black sea naval base.

The late soviet bulletin also reported minor activity on the Izyum, Lisichansk, and Sevsk fronts.

GERMANY'S CLAIMS.

The German radio yesterday said Russian troops have launched sharp attacks against the German lines in the Staraya Russa sector near Lake Ilmen, south of Volkhovo, and near Orel and Belgorod. There was no confirmation of these claims from Russian sources.

Yesterday's German communique merely said that Wednesday, "on the whole, passed without special events on the eastern [Russian] front."

BRITISH SUPPORT INTERNATIONAL PRICE SYSTEM

Ever Normal Granary Plan Up at Food Parley.

Hot Springs, Va., May 20 (AP).—A British declaration of support for an international policy of price stability raised talk at the allied nations food conference today of a post-war, world-wide "ever-normal granary" system.

Richard K. Law, chairman of the British delegation, told a news conference that his country believed international action should be taken to eliminate wide fluctuations in prices of basic agricultural and nonagricultural products. Such fluctuations, he said, are in time equally ruinous to producers and consumers.

The ever-normal granary idea, calling for storing surplus crops, is aimed at assuring ample food supplies in years of short harvests as well as preventing price depression when crop surpluses exist.

Congressmen Invited.

Congress meanwhile had an informal invitation to send observers to the conference following a one man "invasion" by Rep. Fred Bradley [R., Mich.].

Bradley drove up to the Homestead hotel grounds last night determined, he said, to find out about restrictions placed on newspaper reporters covering the conference and also to learn whether a congressman could attend the sessions.

Conference Chairman Marvin Jones, head of the United States delegation, assured him that he could, and added that any other congressman who wanted to come here would be given credentials permitting them to attend all meetings as observers.

The press, however, remained barred from the hotel where the sessions are held.

Sees World Food Shortage.

Belief that the world faces a post-war period of short food supplies was expressed by Paul H. Appleby, undersecretary of agriculture and an American delegate, who told a press conference he thought the United States should prepare to continue food rationing for several years after the war.

It will be necessary, he declared, to send huge amounts of food to Europe for some time after hostilities cease. He added that there is "nothing to the idea" that the food conference is designed to provide this country with an opportunity to "play Santa Claus" in an international scale.

AAA Practices Cited.

Law suggested no specific method or methods of bringing about and maintaining price stability. However, United States agricultural experts brought to the conference reports on the experience of this country in stabilizing domestic farm prices thru the agriculture adjustment administration with its "ever-normal granary" and commodity price supporting loan features.

In a joint discussion with Law of the price problem, L. Robbins, economic secretary of the British war cabinet offices and a member of the delegation, emphasized that Great Britain did not favor price fixing but rather action which would keep prices from going too high or too low.

It may be necessary, Robbins said, to establish an international organization to handle the price problem.

Similar to Wallace Plan.

This country's AAA operates on the principle that farm prices dip when supplies are large in relation to market demand, and advance when the demand is great in relation to the supply. Thru its Commodity Credit corporation system of grower loans or government purchase operations, the AAA takes excessive supplies off the market when prices drop too low and releases supplies back on the market when the demand and prices increase.

The suggestion has been made by Vice President Henry A. Wallace that this method of controlling prices and supplies be extended internationally.

Whether the conference will go so far as to suggest a method of establishing price stability was uncertain. Heads of several delegations have urged that the conference limit its recommendations to general principles, leaving the question of determining ways and means to future discussions.

GREETING CARDS (40 PCT. OF THEM) ON WAY TO WAR

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—Fewer greeting cards with fewer new designs will be available for birthday, Christmas, Valentine, and other anniversary uses under a war production board order issued today.

The order restricts greeting card makers to 60 per cent of the paper tonnage used in the comparable 1942 period. It also limits new designs for the rest of 1943 and each subsequent year to 60 per cent of the 1942 total, and restricts reproductions of old designs to 80 per cent of the 1942 figure.

Paperboard used for packaging greeting cards was also reduced to two-thirds of the 1942 rate.

Mrs. Lillian Sekofetz, 30 years old, of 1743 Monroe street, and her husband, Charles, 54, didn't see eye to eye on his old fashioned ideas about marriage, she told Judge Thomas J. Lynch in Circuit court yesterday, where she was granted a divorce on her charge of desertion.

"He thought a woman's place was in the home and she should never get out of it," she said. "In the seven years we were married I never saw a show, went to a dance, or ate in a restaurant."

USED TIRE TUBES REMOVED FROM RATIONED ITEMS

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—Used passenger car and truck inner tubes today were removed from rationing restrictions.

Heretofore, used tubes could be sold only to holders of rationing certificates. These certificates could be used to buy either used or new tubes, and there were a few sales of used tubes.

The office of price administration said it removed used tubes from rationing to encourage the use of about 765,000 used passenger tubes and 225,000 truck tubes now idle in dealers' stocks.

In another order, OPA sought to increase the flow of tires to dealers. It authorized dealers who need larger inventories to meet customer's requirements, to obtain supplies and pay for them later with rationing certificates. In the past, dealers have been able to obtain tires only to the extent of their certificates.

EDITOR DEFENDS FSA, CALLS FOR ITS CONTINUANCE

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—Any belief that there are "subversive tendencies and communistic trends" in the farm security administration is "utterly without basis of fact," Ralph McGill, editor of the Atlanta Constitution, declared today.

He testified before a house agriculture subcommittee today which has been studying the organization with a view, as Chairman Harold D. Cooley [D., N. C.] said, of preserving its good features but eliminating those which may be found objectionable.

"If mistakes were made in the early days of the program," McGill said, "let's profit by them and not destroy FSA.

"The chief trouble with its program today is that we are skimping its funds when we should be expanding it to meet a critical combination of food shortages on the one hand and underemployment among small farmers on the other."

URGES POST-WAR SETTLEMENT OF RUSS-POLE FEUD

Territorial claims of the soviet government against Poland should be postponed for amicable adjustment after the war, Dr. D. Z. Krinkin, editor of the Russian language newspaper Russky Golos [Voice of Russia], published in New York, said last night in Chicago.

"Stalin and the Polish government in exile have a treaty to fight together against the Germans, and this treaty is intended to prevent any boundary controversy," Dr. Krinkin told a meeting of the American-Russian Young Women's club at the Hotel Sherman.

He declared the rupture of Russian-Polish relations is being "promoted by hostile interests." Krinkin said he was speaking as an American, and was not expressing soviet opinion.

OPA IS ASSAILED AS 'INADEQUATE' BY FOOD CHIEFS

Quartermaster General Blasts Illegal Markets.

BY ROBERT YOUNG.

The office of price administration came under further criticism from the food industry yesterday when trade representatives and ranking army quartermaster officers met in the Drake hotel for a conference to improve the fulfilment of war food requirements. They assailed the "inadequacy" of the OPA, and warned industry to be on guard against controls and social reforms in the guise of war measures.

In a press conference Maj. Gen. Edmund B. Gregory, the quartermaster general, disclosed that illegal markets in certain areas continue to hinder army food procurement. He advocated more strict OPA enforcement of rationing and price ceiling regulations as the best means of correcting this situation.

"Crackpots Must Go."

Clarence Francis, president of General Foods corporation, and chairman of the food industry war committee, asserted that "no crackpots, theorists, or idealists must stand in the way" of increased food production, which he urged as the most effective method of meeting shortages. "Too many things" have blocked expanded food output so far, he said, and men of practical experience must be placed in key government positions.

Paul S. Willis of New York, president of the Grocery Manufacturers of America, told the meeting that the free enterprise and competition of the food industry, which has made its progress possible, are being threatened seriously by "unnecessary controls."

"Unfortunately, there are those in Washington who are placing ahead of the war the attaining of social reforms and the control of industry," he said. "I warn you with all my might to be on guard and investigate the purpose behind these so-called war measures, which are social reforms in disguise."

Willis said an example of the type of regulation that should be opposed by the industry was the proposed mandatory grade labeling of canned fruits and vegetables, which was withdrawn this week by OPA after a storm of protest from congress and the trade. He warned after his talk, however, that the "issue is not yet dead."

"Lid May Blow Off."

G. Sherwin Haxton of Washington, D. C., vice president of the National Canners' association, expressed apprehension that "the lid on inflation will blow off because of the inadequacy of the OPA." Illegal markets in many commodities are growing rapidly, he declared.

Gen. Gregory asserted that there is sufficient food in the United States to take care of all requirements provided it is properly distributed, but that when supplies leak out thru illegal markets, "that creates a bad situation." He said the entire war food program of sharing equitably available supplies is imperiled by such markets.

The quartermaster corps has not been able to procure sufficient beef, chicken, and potatoes in some areas because of violation of price and rationing regulations, said Gen. Gregory, altho the over-all army food supply is adequate. He warned, however, that it may be necessary to reduce the current meat ration of a half pound a day per man.

Excess Hoard Is Denied.

Gen. Gregory in his formal address termed "misconceptions" the apparently widespread beliefs that the army has vast quantities of food hoarded in warehouses in excess of requirements and that much waste is resulting from giving soldiers more food than they need or can eat. He asserted these beliefs arise from a lack of understanding of the size of the army and of the tremendous amounts of food needed to keep the army properly nourished.

The quartermaster general said measures taken in the last six months have cut food waste in the army to a minimum.

The quartermaster general said the feeding of axis prisoners held in the United States—which he indicated eventually might reach a total of 200,000 to 300,000—would not affect civilian food supplies seriously.

The conference was sponsored by the Grocery Manufacturers Sales Executives of Chicago.

ADMITS GROCER MARKUPS BELOW PREWAR LEVELS

But Brown Declares Total Profits Rise.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—Prentiss M. Brown, price administrator, admitted today that grocers' percentage markups have been reduced to less than pre-war levels by OPA regulations, but asserted that actual dollar margins have been boosted by increased food sales.

Brown's statement came in reply to attacks by food distribution organizations, which have charged that new OPA ceilings on foods, especially canned goods, have so drastically cut margins that many grocers face extinction.

Reports Record Profits.

Brown cited figures which purported to show grocers are making "record breaking" profits—before taxes.

"Retail food sales totaled 13 billion dollars in 1939," Brown said. "In 1942 they amounted to 22.9 billion dollars, an increase of 76 per cent. At the present time they are running at a still higher rate, and dollar sales for the year will break all previous records.

"Dollar margins over replacement cost for food distributors stood in March at a level 27 per cent above the average for the years 1935-'39 and 15 per cent above the average for 1942. Percentage markups over replacement costs were somewhat lower than in prewar years, but a decline of percentage markups has always been associated with an increase in the volume of business done.

Claims 156% Profit Hike.

"Profits in 1942, before taxes, for large food chains stood 156 per cent above the level of 1936-'39. Over the same period profits of incorporated food wholesalers, before taxes, showed a somewhat greater increase.

"While specific data on the small independent food establishments are not published, net income of proprietors, individual and partnerships, in retail trade as a whole, is estimated to have increased 64 per cent between 1936-'39 and 1942."

RATIONING WILL AFFECT VOTE IN 1944: SPANGLER

Philadelphia, Pa., May 20 (AP).—Harrison E. Spangler, Republican national chairman, said today the "bungling in the administration of the rationing program will have a tremendous effect" on the 1944 Presidential campaign.

"Rationing as rationing will have no effect on the 1944 election," he told reporters in an interview. "But . . . there has been so much confusion and quarreling among those who have been administering it that they don't know where we are going or why."

Spangler conferred with state and local Republican leaders at the Union League club. Asked if he thought President Roosevelt would run for a fourth term, he replied:

"There is no question about it. He is already running and the inner bunch of the New Deal crowd is spending a great deal of time promoting his fourth term candidacy."

TRAIN KILLS PEDESTRIAN.

She had been partially deaf for a number of years and it is presumed she failed to hear the train.

LIVING COSTS UP 40% IN 2 YEARS, UNIONS DECLARE

OPA Program Condemned as 'Weak Kneed.'

BY LLOYD NORMAN.

Living costs of Chicago workers have skyrocketed approximately 40 per cent since Jan. 1, 1941, labor union officials asserted yesterday in condemning the office of price administration for what they termed its "weak kneed" stand against rising prices.

Criticism of the OPA continued from both sides of the fence: from consumer groups that charged that the agency had failed to keep prices down, and from merchant associations that asserted the OPA was squeezing them with price ceilings set too low.

Fullerton Fulton, president of the Chicago Industrial Union council [CIO], said that, altho government statistics indicated living costs in Chicago had risen about 28 per cent since Jan. 1, 1941, that actually the jump was higher. He explained that the government statistics are based on merchant reports which usually reflect their legal prices and not the prices they charge.

Charges Merchant Violations.

"We have found in our own surveys," Fulton said, "that merchants are not generally abiding by OPA ceilings and that there is considerable chiseling on quality. Chicago workers now are paying 40 per cent more for the necessities of life than they were almost 2½ years ago."

Fulton said the OPA will lose the confidence of the consuming public unless it forces living cost prices back to Sept. 15, 1942, levels, which are the basis for government wage fixing policies.

Statistical demonstration of the sharp rise in living costs was offered by Harry O'Reilly, regional director of the American Federation of Labor in Chicago. He said that a comparison of current food costs in Chicago with those of January, 1941, discloses price increases as high as 400 per cent.

OPA price markup restrictions on wholesale food dealers will break down traditional food distribution, Sidney M. Libit and Henry D. Lindauer, counsel for the Wholesale Grocers' Association of Chicago, said.

"The percentage markups allowed wholesalers on canned milk, sugar, canned vegetables, and fruits and other items are inadequate to permit the firms to remain in business without operating at a loss," they charged.

MRS. F. D. R. GIVES VIEWS FOR PRESS BAN AT FOOD MEETING

New York, May 20 (AP).—Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt told a convocation of City college students today that she surmised the press was excluded from the current food conference at Hot Springs, Va., because "it would be easier for people trying to do a scientific job of exploration without having every tentative idea reported."

"They will talk about many things that probably will never happen and are probably wrong but that must be threshed out to get methods for bringing about a world outlook on food and peace," she said.

"I don't know why the press objected so strongly, or why they were excluded."

ICKES HINTS CUT IN GAS RATION OF MIDDLE WEST

East's Shortage Blow at Food Crops.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—Fuels Administrator Harold L. Ickes warned today that the east coast ban on pleasure driving soon may be extended to middle western states in an effort to relieve a growing shortage of petroleum supplies in the east. The pleasure driving prohibition was revived in 12 eastern states at noon today.

Ickes voiced the threat at a press conference, but did not amplify it. Officials of the office of price administration, which would be responsible for actually extending the pleasure ban, said, however, there are no immediate plans for so doing.

Food Production Suffers.

Ickes also said additional gasoline cuts will have to be imposed in the eastern states, which is facing a crisis in food producing operations as well as transportation because of the gasoline shortage.

The war food administration reported today that food production is being hampered in eastern states from Virginia northward because farmers cannot get gasoline for their equipment.

Officials of government agencies handling gasoline rationing were in an all day conference today, and it was predicted that new cuts will be made in "T" gasoline rations to divert gasoline supplies for farm uses. This will mean a cut in bus transportation, it was said.

Predicts Little Relief.

Ickes, in a weekly report on petroleum supplies in the east, said little improvement is expected for many weeks. The continuing shortage will result partly from huge demands of the army and navy for petroleum, Ickes explained, and partly from the midwest flood, which has broken a section of the 24 inch emergency oil pipeline in Arkansas and is slowing up railroad and barge traffic.

TRUMAN GETS $100,000 MORE FOR WAR QUIZ

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—The senate voted unanimously today to authorize its war investigating [Truman] committee to spend an additional $100,000 to carry on its inquiries into all phases of the military program.

Sen. Carl A. Hatch [D., N. M.], a member of the committee, headed by Sen. Harry S. Truman [D., Mo.], said previous appropriations totaled $200,000.

CONTRACT SNARL STIRS STRIKES IN MINE FIELDS

14 Pits Employing 6,000 Men Are Idle.

BULLETIN.

Johnstown, Pa., May 20 (AP).—A sudden "back to work" movement, pressed by high officials of the UMW, tonight developed in central Pennsylvania's soft coal fields, with more than 2,200 of about 6,000 idle men voting to end their walkout in protest against failure to get a new wage contract.

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—Strikes began to spread again in the coal mines today, even as the war labor board aimed for a cleanup decision which may give an indication by Tuesday whether peace or turmoil shall follow in the mine wage controversy.

The disgruntled miners' chances of getting WLB approval of their demands for a flat $2 a day increase are not generally regarded as bright, but a majority of the WLB's fact-finding panel is reported to favor their call for extra pay to cover all the time they spend underground.

Even the United Mine Workers' leadership concedes that nothing is due under the little steel formula as it now stands. The miners want to discard the formula but even under existing stabilization rules they are not necessarily precluded from obtaining some concessions other than a straight wage boost.

Concessions in Doubt.

Whether such concessions are made and, if made, whether they will satisfy UMW President John L. Lewis and his followers remains to be seen.

But there have been these definite stands on the government side of the controversy:

1. A statement by Secretary Harold L. Ickes, as federal boss of the mines, that "any contract must have approval of the war labor board."

2. A WLB description of Lewis' attitude in ignoring it as one that "challenges the sovereignty of the United States in time of war and gives aid and comfort to our enemies."

Lewis has said the miners will not work without a contract; he has extended to May 31 the truce under which the old contract provisions were continued under government operation of the mines.

6,000 Men Idle.

Today, however, strikes of miners protesting their lack of a working contract spread in Pennsylvania and broke out in Ohio and Kentucky. When 14 mines had closed it was estimated that 6,000 men were idle.

A problem unrelated to the contract dispute—a sudden shortage of railroad cars—had a more severe effect in West Virginia, the nation's leading coal producing state. Twenty-six mines closed and coal output in the state's northern section was curtailed because no cars were available in which to load coal.

A commerce department representative said transportation facilities were taxed in the region because "war developments have eliminated most of the coastwise water traffic." Some alleviation of the car shortage was expected tomorrow.

RATION STAMP NO. 18 VALID AFTER JUNE 16 FOR A PAIR OF SHOES

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—Stamp No. 18 in ration book No. 1 will become valid June 16 for the purchase of one pair of shoes, but the office of price administration has not yet decided the period for which it will be valid.

OPA said, however, that present indications are that the shoes available for release to civilians will make it possible to maintain the same basis as the first shoe rationing period. Stamp No. 17, the first for shoe rationing, became valid Feb. 7 and is good thru June 15.

Lewis was assigned to the 8th air force to take pictures for the British Newsreel association.

AIRCRAFT PLANT LABOR BACKLOG HELD ADEQUATE

Survey Shows More Help Will Be Available.

Aircraft plants in the Chicago area generally are not handicapped by lack of man power at present, a survey indicated yesterday. Altho war censorship regulations prohibit the disclosure of man power totals and requirements for individual plants, it was learned that at least three of the aircraft production centers in this area consider their current supply of workers adequate.

The Studebaker corporation reported that it is employing 21,000 to 22,000 workers in its plants in Chicago, South Bend, and Fort Wayne, Ind., and Los Angeles, Cal. With the exception of one of the two plants in South Bend which is manufacturing heavy duty trucks, the plants in the four cities are engaged in aircraft production.

Help Will be Allocated.

The corporation estimated that when production under existing contracts reaches its peak this summer, 2,000 to 3,000 additional workers will be needed. This additional man power is to be allocated proportionately among the five plants.

A company official said that no difficulty is anticipated in obtaining the additional employés because war contracts were accepted only when it was known that the necessary labor could be hired. He said that the company has had no man power problems in any plant so far as the result of its policy of building plants in various areas where labor is available. The labor supply in each area was known before the plant was built, he added.

The Studebaker official said that in Fort Wayne and South Bend workers have been supplied thru the United States employment service. No program of that type has been necessary for the Chicago plant, he said.

Finds Systems Effective.

The company spokesman said that it has not been necessary to enlist the aid of unions in obtaining workers because other systems so far have been effective, altho he added that undoubtedly the unions have been instrumental in attracting employés thru the personal contacts of members.

The aircraft division of the Pullman-Standard Car Manufacturing company reported its aircraft schooling system has been so successful that its present labor requirements in the south side plant are more than met by the workers the training program is able to supply. When production schedules require it, the system can produce 500 employés a month, despite the fact that only women and draft exempt men are now being accepted for enrollment.

Training in Three Phases.

A company official said that largely as a result of this training system man power is not a problem in the Chicago aircraft plant. The system includes training in a vocational school, under the direction of the Chicago school board, graduation to an "in-plant" or "vestibule" school, then graduation to the production line. Employés are urged to continue training designed to raise them to supervisory positions.

The Buick aviation engine plant reported that labor demands are being met without difficulty. Information of the labor supply status of the Chicago aircraft assembly plant operated by the Douglas Aircraft company was not available. No employment estimates were available for the Dodge-Chicago plant, a division of the Chrysler corporation, which is not yet in production.

PRINTERS' UNION HAS 4 RUNOFFS FOR ELECTION

Four runoffs will mark the June 2 election of Chicago Typographical union, No. 16 following the tallying of Wednesday's ballots for the oldest labor organization in Illinois.

With 3,396 votes counted, Thomas Canty, incumbent president, led the balloting with 1,629 votes for reelection. George J. Chiles is his runoff opponent. He received 937 votes. Canty and Chiles are Tribune employés.

Other officers to be chosen in the runoff election are: Vice president, secretary-treasurer, and recording secretary and organizer.

THE QUESTION.

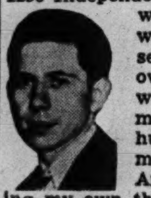
What adult privilege did you desire most when you were a child?

WHERE ASKED.

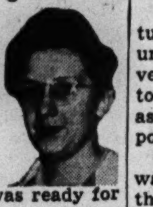
The North American building, 36 South State street.

THE ANSWERS.

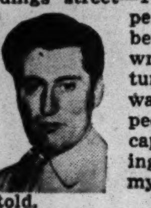
Theresa Gapinski, comptometer operator, 6143 Diversey avenue—As long as I can remember I have enjoyed reading most after I was comfortably in bed. But I didn't like to go to bed on time and my mother usually turned the light off right away. Even now my mother often asks if I'm still reading.



Harvey Schiller, jewelry salesman, 1256 Independence boulevard—It always seemed like I would be enjoying myself more if I were my own financier. I always had to subject myself to the same humiliation of asking my father for money. After I started earning my own there was much more satisfaction in it.



Margaret Pecina, waitress, 4231 Gladys avenue—Wearing and owning a new dress that was mine to start with was an event I anticipated for many years. Because my older sisters were more fortunate that way it seemed I always had to start wearing their clothes years before I was ready for them.



Ludwig A. Janse, grocer, 6125 Giddings street—To be able to independently distinguish between right and wrong was an opportunity I waited for. I was anxious to have people think I was capable of determining these things for myself without being told.

Jerome La Fond, junior clerk, 6623 Ingleside avenue—After I had a few lessons in citizenship I was thoroly convinced that a man was not an adult until he had voted. For years I looked forward to that "responsibility of being a citizen," and now I have only a few more months of waiting.

Eleanor Altnow, switchboard operator, 77 West Hickory street, Chicago Heights—When I was younger my parents kept me on quite a strict schedule. I had to be home and in bed at a certain hour and many times it embarrassed me. I looked forward to deciding for myself when I should be home and in bed.

ONE DAY STRIKE OF MILK TRUCK DRIVERS ENDED

A strike of 33 milk truck drivers, which prevented the delivery of milk to 800 stores served daily by the Dean Milk company, was settled last night, according to Thomas Haggerty, secretary-treasurer of the milk wagon drivers' union. The strike was called at the Melrose Park plant of the company yesterday morning. The company agreed last night to make milk deliveries to customer stores on Sundays, instead of serving these stores double supplies of milk on Saturday for Saturday and Sunday sales, said Parke Livingston, vice president of the company. The union had objected to a six day delivery week as violating contract agreements. Livingston said the company had agreed to pay the drivers for the time lost during the strike.

ROOSEVELT ASKS 72 BILLIONS FOR NEEDS OF ARMY

Brings Military Budget to 101 Billions.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—The cost of putting the army and navy on the offensive around the world in the next fiscal year, which begins July 1, will exceed 100 billion dollars.

President Roosevelt today submitted to congress the largest military budget in all history—one of $71,898,499,700 to provide every foreseeable need of the army thru June 30, 1944. The army appropriation bill will also constitute the largest single appropriation bill in history.

The budget reached congress shortly before the house passed and sent to the senate the $29,463,687,198 naval appropriation bill. With almost 72 billion dollars going to the army and 29½ billion dollars to the navy, the cost of the military establishment in the coming fiscal year will approximate 101 billion dollars.

Invasion Funds Voted.

Construction of 1,000,000 tons of landing craft for invasion operations was also authorized by legislation passed by the senate today and sent to the White House.

The senate also amended and returned to the house another measure authorizing the acquisition, conversion, or construction of 1,000,000 tons of auxiliary naval vessels, such as tankers, repair vessels, transports, and hospital ships.

Cost of the landing boat program was estimated at $1,700,000,000, while the auxiliary ship outlay was reckoned at $1,238,100,000.

Vote Is Unanimous.

Not a single vote was recorded in the house against the naval appropriation bill, which included 9 billion dollars for new ship construction, 6 billion dollars for aircraft, and 2 billion dollars for ordnance. The vote was 360 to 0. It is expected that the army budget will also be passed without opposition.

The army budget contemplates new appropriations of $59,425,586,500. In addition, the presidential message contemplates the expenditure of unobligated balances of 1943 appropriations to the total of $12,472,913,200 to bring the total appropriation to almost 72 billion dollars.

The appropriation estimates exceed by more than 6 billion dollars, the war department estimate made by the President in his annual budget message last January. The White House said this increase is largely due to expansion of the air program.

Army of 8 Million.

The new aircraft program provides for 1,417,000,000 pounds of airframe weight to be produced in 1944, compared with 911,000,000 in 1943, which would be in excess of the combined total production of all other countries in the world.

"The war department budget provides for pay, food, clothing, and equipment for over 8,000,000 individuals in the army, including 375,000 members of the Women's Army Auxiliary Corps, for whom an intensive recruiting program is under way," the White House said. [This figure compares with the present WAAC authorized strength of 150,000 and recruited strength of some 60,000.]

"Ample funds are provided for overseas construction, including facilities to meet the needs of the rapidly expanding air transport command in its operation of ferry routes thruout the world, and construction in theaters of operation. Military construction in the United States will be much smaller than in recent years.

"More than $11,000,000,000 will be required to pay for the military establishment and allotments to their dependents. Approximately 2½ billion dollars will be required to feed the army."

Summary of Budget.

Following is a summary of new appropriations:

Pay and travel	$12,305,686,000
Subsistence	2,487,641,000
Clothing and equipage	1,894,038,000
Transportation	1,556,839,000
Signal corps	4,658,898,000
Air force	23,655,481,000
Medical department	455,112,000
Engineer service	2,576,404,000
Ordnance department	8,038,925,000
Chemical warfare service	342,260,000
Mfg. plant facilities	749,000,000
Miscellaneous	705,302,500
Total	$59,425,586,500

No breakdown was given of the unexpended balances, expected to be on hand when the new fiscal year begins. For the current fiscal year it has been estimated that the army would spend 62 billion dollars.

GIANT FURNACE COLD SIXTH DAY IN PAY DISPUTE

For the sixth consecutive day a huge open hearth furnace remained cold at the Gary works of the Carnegie-Illinois Steel corporation yesterday. This furnace would have produced 2,040 tons of steel—340 tons every 24 hours—to be used for armor plate and torpedo parts had it been in operation, a company official said yesterday.

The furnace is down because eight charging machine operators, members of the CIO Steel Workers' union, have refused to put metal into it, because they want an increased pay rate schedule to do so, which was refused by the company, an official said. The furnace has been out of operation since 1:45 a. m. Saturday morning.

Yesterday an offer was made by the union to reopen negotiations in an effort to settle the differences, but no offer was made to put the furnace in operation, a company official said. A meeting will be held today. The company has offered to make the wage schedules agreed to, retroactive to May 14, so there is no reason for the men to continue to refuse to charge the furnace, an official said yesterday.

ELEVATOR UNION HAS SETBACK IN SUIT FOR O'GRADY

Master Would Dismiss Injunction Plea.

A fight by members of the Elevator Operators and Starters' union to restore James L. O'Grady to the office of president of the union was given a setback yesterday in a ruling by Samuel B. Epstein, master in chancery.

Epstein recommended to the Circuit court that a suit for an injunction, filed against William L. McFetridge, president of the Building Service Employes' International union, and other officers of the union, be dismissed because it "contains a mass of immaterial, impertinent, and scandalous matter" and is replete thruout with "generalities, conclusions, and arguments" that do not sustain a cause of action.

Questions Citizenship.

Last year McFetridge suspended O'Grady. He charged that O'Grady was not a citizen as he was required to be by the union's constitution, and charged that O'Grady was fostering a "dual union." O'Grady appealed his suspension to the executive board of the international. The board is considering his appeal now.

Friends of O'Grady in the union in the meantime, thru Atty. Francis Heisler, filed suit in Circuit court for an injunction against McFetridge and the other officers of the union, and charged there were other motives for suspending O'Grady. The court assigned the suit to Master Epstein for hearing.

Call It Vindication.

Daniel D. Carmell and A. C. Lewis, attorneys for the international officers, hailed the decision of Master Epstein as a complete vindication of McFetridge and the other officers.

Carmell said that since McFetridge was elected president of the B. S. E. I. U. he has waged a relentless fight against gangsters and charges made by the members in the suit to the contrary were "ridiculous."

'UNFREEZE' PAY, MIDWESTERN CIO OFFICIALS URGE

Washington, D. C., May 20 [Special].—Eighty delegates representing Congress of Industrial Organizations unions today requested federal officials to take "action" on wage, price, and labor policies affecting some 500,000 constituents in Indiana, Illinois, Wisconsin, Minnesota, and Iowa.

They asked William H. Davis, chairman of the national war labor board, for action to correct wage inequalities and "unfreeze" wages.

The delegates urged office of price administration officials to accelerate a roll back of prices to levels of last Sept. 15, charging price ceilings were not protecting the wage earner. They suggested the extension of a price warden system they said was being installed on a precinct basis in Chicago.

Spokesmen were Albert E. Glenn, vice president of the Illinois CIO industrial council; George Nordstrom, regional director of the United Auto Workers CIO, and Harold Christoffel, head of the Milwaukee CIO industrial council.

OKLAHOMA ENDS 3 YEAR FIGHT TO CONVICT 3 REDS

Oklahoma City, Okla., May 20 (AP).—The state today abandoned its three year effort to convict three members of the Communist party of criminal syndicalism.

George Miskovsky, Oklahoma [Oklahoma City] county prosecutor, said he would ask dismissal of the cases against Alan Shaw, Eli Jaffee, and Mrs. Ina Wood.

Yesterday the Criminal Court of Appeals denied a rehearing of its original opinion reversing convictions of the trio. They had been sentenced to 10 years imprisonment and $5,000 fines each.

Shaw was local secretary of the party, Mrs. Wood the wife of State Secretary Robert Wood, and Jaffee a party worker when they were seized.

DRAFT DIRECTOR SEEKS JOBS FOR MEN 38 OR OVER

Refusal of employers to hire men over 38 years old who are classified 1-A [H] in the draft was assailed as unpatriotic yesterday by Col. Paul G. Armstrong, Illinois director of selective service. The practice, Armstrong said, works a hardship upon the registrant and increases the critical man power shortage.

"Regulations," Armstrong continued, "provide that men over 38 be reclassified, but there is no provision at this time for their induction. They have been deferred by executive order of the President and will not be ordered for military service until the President finds it is in the national interest to end their deferment.

"Under the circumstances, I hope that employers will realize that it may be months before the 1-A [H] men are called. It is possible that they never will be called for military service. In the meantime, let us not prevent these men from earning a livelihood and at the same time serving their country by working in industry or agriculture."

U. S. to Produce Plenty of Quinine Substitute

Washington, D. C., May 20 [Special].—The United States will produce one billion tablets at atabrine, chemical substitute for quinine, Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson announced today. He said this would provide a sufficient quantity of the anti-malarial drug to supply the needs of the military forces and the civilian population.

TRAPPED RAPE KILLING SUSPECT SLAYS HIMSELF

Body of Victim Found at Camp Forrest.

Tullahoma, Tenn., May 20 (AP).—Trapped by police at a Nashville bus station, a Tullahoma Negro café proprietor sought in the rape slaying of an army officer's wife at Camp Forrest, near here, today shot and fatally wounded himself.

The Negro, George [Slim] Johnson, was sought in connection with the slaying of Mrs. Norma Faye Scogin, 19 years old, wife of Lt. George L. Scogin of Des Moines, Ia., whose body was found early yesterday beneath a brush pile on the reservation.

Mrs. Scogin had been shot twice thru the breast and her head beaten, apparently with a pistol. A coroner's jury returned a verdict of murder and rape.

Admits Shooting, Officers Say.

The pistol with which Johnson shot himself after being accosted by officers at the crowded Nashville bus station this morning had a broken handle. At the hospital before he died officers guarding him said that Johnson mumbled a desire to have "a pistol and three shots so's I can save all this trouble."

Sgt. J. J. Jackson of the state highway patrol said that before losing consciousness Johnson admitted shooting Mrs. Scogin and beating her with the butt of his pistol.

Youth Held as Witness.

Johnson had been sought on the basis of information furnished by Pittman Ward, 20 year old Tullahoma Negro, who first reported the crime to Coffee county officers and directed them to the body of the victim. He was being held in the county jail at Manchester as a material witness.

Last night a crowd estimated by Sheriff Sim Banks at 200 gathered around the jail but was induced to disperse after Banks told them Johnson had not been arrested and led two persons thru the building to prove his statement.

250,000 'BOMBS' TO RAIN SUNDAY IN CHICAGO AREA

The Chicago metropolitan area will get a realistic touch of aerial warfare Sunday when 200 planes will drop 250,000 mock bombs in an air test that will include all of Cook county, the southeast quarter of Lake county and the eastern half of Du Page county. The total area involved will be 1,000 square miles containing 90 towns and villages.

Among the 200 planes will be 50 navy bombers. The rest will be civil air patrol planes. Approximately 200,000 workers from the office of civilian defense will patrol the area.

The signal for the mock attack will be a two minute steady blast of sirens at 2 p. m. The types of bombs to be dropped will be: Red, incendiary; blue, demolition; green, unexploded, and yellow, gas. The test will end at 4 p. m.

The office of civilian defense emphasizes these "don'ts" for the general pubic: Don't interfere with OCD workers. Don't use telephones during the "raid." Don't stand on the streets during the "raid." And don't telephone the police or fire departments if you see a bomb fall. Notify the nearest OCD worker.

POSTAL WORKER DENIES LOTTERY CHARGE BY U. S.

Des Moines, Ia., May 20 (AP).—William F. D. Clevinger, 53 years old, longtime employé of the Des Moines postoffice, pleaded innocent today before United States Commissioner V. U. Sigler to an indictment charging conspiracy to defraud by interstate transportation of lottery tickets. Clevinger posted a $500 appearance bond and is to report to the federal District court in Chicago, June 2.

The Des Moines man was one of 14 Iowans indicted on the lottery charge in connection with alleged sale of lottery tickets of the Lucky Strike company [no connection with the cigaret firm] at Chicago.

The indictment set out that the lottery concern sold chances on totals of runs scored by various groups of baseball teams, on figures and digits in the United States treasury balance, as published in the newspapers, and on parimutuel "prices" of horses in certain races. The lottery operated all over the midwest and south, according to the indictment.

10 Norse Slain by Nazis for Plan to Help Allies

STOCKHOLM, Sweden, May 20 (AP).—Ten Norwegians who allegedly were making preparations to join the allies in the event of an invasion were executed by the Nazis yesterday, it was officially announced in Oslo today. Swedish reports said the Germans had seized seven other Norwegians as hostages because relatives had escaped from the country. A new decree provides that Norwegian men between 16 and 60 years of age will be subject to seizure should any of their relatives flee.

FOOD LADEN TRUCK STOLEN.

Police yesterday were searching for a truck, loaded with fruits and vegetables valued at $100, stolen from a garage at the rear of the home of its owner, Harry Dimopoulos, 635 Shakespeare avenue.

HOLD OF STATE ON CONVICT CUT, BY EXTRADITION

Supreme Court Lets Down Prison Bars.

A precedent in extradition law in this state was established yesterday when the Illinois Supreme court denied a mandamus action brought by Atty. General George F. Barrett to compel Judge James V. Bartley of the Will county Circuit court to rescind his order freeing a prisoner from Stateville penitentiary on a habeas corpus writ.

The Supreme court ruled that a paroled prisoner was outside the jurisdiction of the state parole board after the governor had permitted his extradition from the state at the request of the governor of another state.

The case involved concerned Hugh McLaughlin, 45 years old, who was sent to the penitentiary from Winnebago county in 1934 to serve a 1 to 20 year sentence for passing fraudulent checks.

On May 16, 1936, the late Gov. Horner granted extradition and ordered McLaughlin paroled to stand trial in Milwaukee. He served a prison term in Wisconsin—then in Ohio.

Upon release from the Ohio prison, McLaughlin was returned to Illinois as a parole violator and ordered to complete his original sentence.

After another year at Stateville, McLaughlin, thru Attorneys Ode L. Rankin and Sol R. Friendman, filed a petition for a writ of habeas corpus in Will county. This was granted by County Judge Bartley, and McLaughlin was released. Barrett's appeal to the Supreme court followed.

RELIEF HOSPITAL BILLS TO BE PAID FROM STATE AID

George Klupar, city welfare commissioner, said yesterday any bills his department receives from the county for medical care of city relief clients would be paid from Illinois public aid commission funds, as long as the city relief load remains above 9,000 persons. The city levies 30 cents per $100 of assessed valuation for relief, and the remainder of the relief costs are paid by the state. Earlier in the week Corporation Counsel Barnet Hodes gave an opinion that the city is liable for expenses incurred at County hospital by relief clients sent by the city welfare department. The county government announced plans several months ago to bill the city for such expense, but so far has presented no bills to Klupar's office. In the past the county has received no reimbursement from the city for these medical expenses.

FITCH INFORMED ABDUCTOR HUNT STILL GOING ON

Morgan L. Fitch, who was kidnaped and held prisoner for several hours by several Negroes April 4 when he was a candidate for city treasurer on the Republican ticket, yesterday inquired of State's Atty. Courtney and Police Commissioner Allman as to the progress being made in the search for his abductors. Courtney referred Fitch to Allman, explaining the state's attorney's office is powerless to act until an arrest is made. Allman assured Fitch that police investigation into the kidnaping was "continuing."

HOLD DANVILLE FIREMEN'S WAGE AGREEMENT VOID

Springfield, Ill., May 20 (AP).—The Illinois Supreme court ruled today that agreements whereby 42 Danville firemen surrendered their rights to minimum wages under the state minimum wage law were contrary to public policy and therefore invalid.

The decision upheld the firemen's claim for about $60,000 in back wages from Danville. It reversed the Supreme court's own ruling of last November. The case came up for today's second opinion on a rehearing.

FIND MARYLAND WIFE GUILTY OF MANSLAUGHTER

Jury Out 2 Hours in Fatal Shooting of Student.

Annapolis, Md., May 20 (AP).—A jury of 12 men tonight found Mrs. Helen Aileen Randle guilty of manslaughter in the death of Allen Willey, 17 year old high school boy.

The jury deliberated more than two hours in the case of the third wife of a well to do horseman, and its verdict ignored the plea of State's Atty. Marvin I. Anderson that she be convicted of first degree murder. The verdict was returned at 9:31 p. m.

Mrs. Randle heard their decision with no show of emotion. The court recessed until 9:30 a. m. tomorrow, and Chief Judge Ridgely P. Melvin told newsmen he would pronounce sentence at 9:30 a. m. Tuesday.

Breaks Down on Stand.

Under the Maryland criminal code, manslaughter conviction carries a prison term of from 2 to 10 years, or a fine up to $500, or both.

Mrs. Randle, 31, broke down several times on the stand today as she declared she had intended only to frighten the boy from her Bay Ridge home when she confronted him with a rifle.

She asserted that the bullets which caused Willey's death and sent her wealthy husband, Ulmo S. Randle, 34, to a hospital with a leg wound, were fired during her husband's attempt to wrest the gun from her.

She testified that Willey "called me the vilest names." When William Curran, defense attorney, asked her to state what they were, she sobbed: "I can't, I can't."

Witness Tells of Epithet.

Later she added that her husband seized the gun, which was "held loosely in my hand . . . I never intended to use the gun. I never brought it to my shoulder."

She related that during the struggle the shots were fired and the gun apparently cocked after the first shot.

Earlier, a Bay Ridge matron, Mrs. Leonard R. Stinchcomb Jr. testified that the shooting occurred after Willey called Mrs. Randle a prostitute and asked her husband if he should "get those pictures and show them to her?" The direct testimony of the prosecution witness failed to bring out any further references to the pictures.

RADIO TESTERS PLEAD GUILTY TO FEDERAL THEFTS

Four Western Electric company radio parts testers charged with theft of government property pleaded guilty before Federal Judge Philip L. Sullivan yesterday. Their cases were referred to the probation office for investigation and the four will return to court June 14 for sentence.

The guilty pleas were entered by Bernard B. King, 25 years old, 3409 Jackson boulevard; Carl G. Zobel, 29, R. F. D. 2, Palatine; Joseph C. Juel, 28, of 509 Hannah avenue, Forest Park, and Frank J. Merlik, 28, of 4319 Cermak road. Nine others have been implicated in the thefts. Three will appear May 27 for plea and arraignment and six who pleaded not guilty will be tried June 14.

John D. Owen, assistant United States attorney, told Judge Sullivan 12 of the accused were arrested in the plant April 29. The thirteenth man surrendered. Owen said all admitted having taken parts worth from $6 to $175. The four who pleaded guilty said they took rejected parts for experimental work at home.

SPANISH NAVAL ARSENAL BURNS, NAZIS REPORT

New York, May 20 (AP).—The German news agency, DNB, in a dispatch recorded by the federal communications commission today, said a new Spanish naval arsenal at the Atlantic port of El Ferrol "has been destroyed by fire."

The fire occurred May 13, from an undetermined cause, according to the broadcast which was transmitted for publication within Germany.

"Altho local fire services, as well as units of the army and air force station at El Ferrol, were called in immediately, the building could not be saved," the dispatch said. "An important workshop for electrical installations was housed in the building."

An Associated Press dispatch from Lisbon said that according to information from authoritative sources no Spanish naval units were damaged or destroyed by the fire.

Many sufferers relieve nagging backache quickly, once they discover that the real cause of their trouble may be tired kidneys.

The kidneys are Nature's chief way of taking the excess acids and waste out of the blood. They help most people pass about 3 pints a day.

When disorder of kidney function permits poisonous matter to remain in your blood, it may cause nagging backache, rheumatic pains, leg pains, loss of pep and energy, getting up nights, swelling, puffiness under the eyes, headaches and dizziness. Frequent or scanty passages with smarting and burning sometimes shows there is something wrong with your kidneys or bladder.

STATE OFFICIALS SEE GIRLS FILL TWO TON BOMBS

A party of about 50 legislators and state officials yesterday visited the Elwood and Kankakee ordnance plants on an inspection tour arranged and conducted by State Sen. Richard J. Barr [R., Joliet], dean of the legislature, in whose district the plants lie.

The group, which came from Springfield, included State Treasurer William G. Stratton and State Auditor Arthur C. Lueder. Gov. Dwight H. Green had planned to go along, but was prevented by business.

The visitors spent most of their time at the 24 mile square Elwood shell loading plant near Wilmington where they saw girl workers pouring powder into two ton bombs eight feet long which John J. Cole, assistant general manager of the plant, said were the largest made in this country.

TRIBUNE AWARD GOES TO WORKER ON WOLVERINE

The months of early rising and long hours required for his job as a civilian worker on the aircraft carrier Wolverine were recognized last night when Thomas M. Lyons, 57 years old, was given The Chicago Tribune War Workers for April in a ceremony broadcast over W-G-N. Capt. R. L. Bowman, United States navy, skipper of the Wolverine, presented the diamond studded Victory Eagle gold pin "for unusual devotion to duty."

Lyons, who resides at 6441 South Aberdeen street, was assigned to the carrier when his employer, Gallaher & Speck, Inc., Chicago piping firm, was given a contract to place the ship's heating system in operation and be ready for any kind of repair work. He and his fellow workers left shore about 7 a. m. daily and were carried by boat from the Naval armory to the carrier.

W. J. Benoit, superintendent of Gallaher & Speck, Inc., also spoke on the program. G. A. McKinley, secretary-treasurer of the Steamfitters' Protective association, local union 597, of which Lyons is a member, announced that the organization had a check for $5,000 ready for the Red Cross.

Tavern Looters Flee Police Shots, Leaving Stolen Car

Wabash avenue police recovered a stolen car two Negro burglars were using early yesterday to haul away merchandise from the Kansas City tavern, 5917 Prairie avenue. The thieves fled on foot amid a hail of police bullets but abandoned a small amount of loot in the car. Harry G. Sawalish, 2804 Logan boulevard, owner of the car, reported its theft Wednesday from a parking lot.

COURT REVERSES 1941 CONVICTION IN GOON SLAYING

The Illinois Supreme court yesterday reversed the Criminal court's conviction in 1941 of Dave Goldblatt, prohibition era gangster, for the goon slaying of Anton Gorczak, cleaning house driver, and remanded the case to the trial court.

The Supreme court held that the evidence upon which Goldblatt was convicted was "insufficient." The state's case was based upon a 35 page confession which recounted the slaying in detail. Goldblatt later claimed the confession had been forced from him by third degree police methods.

Goldblatt was sentenced to life imprisonment by Judge U. S. Schwartz. Gorczak was beaten to death by two men on April 23, 1941.

HONDURAS' WAR CROPS: QUININE, ROPE AND RUBBER

Former Banana Capital Eases Orient's Grip.

BY CHARLES LEAVELLE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LA LIMA, Honduras, May 14 [By Air Mail].—Two years ago Honduras was the banana capital of the world. The war time changes that have come to the industry have been swift. Because of them, a new and diversified agricultural economy has been given a mighty shove forward. It has opened the prospect of a western hemisphere no longer dependent on the orient for rubber, quinine, and fibers.

A start in this direction was made by the United Fruit company several years ago. Since 1940 and especially since Pearl Harbor the program has been quadrupled. The Standard Fruit company, second largest in the industry, also is furthering a long range program of diversification.

Both companies are carrying on in the face of reverses. United was dealt its first blow in 1939 when England took over the ships of a subsidiary which were of British registry. After Pearl Harbor the American government followed a like course.

Banana Ships Serve Troops.

Refrigerated banana ships began carrying meat, eggs, and vegetables to American fighting men on various fronts. The spick and span hulls of other days are a dull battleship gray now. And not a few ships of the two fleets lie at the bottom of the Gulf of Mexico, the Caribbean, and the Atlantic.

By the end of 1942 banana exports had dropped to 8 per cent of normal. Years ago, however, the United Fruit company had adopted a policy of coöperating with the United States department of agriculture and private corporations in experimental plantings aimed at building up a reservoir of food and other essentials in Central America.

It was in 1926 that the company collaborated with the department of agriculture in test plantings of abaca, source of Manila type rope. Five varieties of bulb were brought from the Philippines and set out and grown on a company plantation near Almirante, Panama.

Grows in Only 20 Months.

In 1936 the company became aware that the Japanese largely controled the abacá plantations of the Philippines. Expansion was begun.

In Panama, Costa Rica, Honduras, and Guatemala, thousands of acres were planted. Thousands more are being planted now. Of great value to the war effort is abacá's relatively short growth span. This fibrous vegetable is little more than a wild banana plant and it is harvested 20 months after planting.

In 1936 the Goodyear company brought superior rubber cuttings from Malaya and the East Indies. They were set out on old banana lands provided by the fruit company in Costa Rica. In the years that followed, United Fruit began experimental rubber growing elsewhere in Central America.

Diversification Laboratory.

With cinchona [quinine] the history and chronology is much the same. Again it was carried out thru an alliance with the department of agriculture and a private concern—Merck & Co., drug manufacturers.

Honduras, especially its northern coastal area, might be called the No. 1 laboratory and production center for the diversification program. All the new crops and soy beans as well are growing here. All of them are essentially tropical crops except soy beans and peanuts—and these originated in the tropics.

YOUNG OFFICER FROM WAUKEGAN SHOT BY SENTRY

Mr. and Mrs. Warren G. Siver of 521 North Jackson street, Waukegan, were notified yesterday that their son, Lt. Robert Siver, 19 years old, had been shot and critically wounded at Fort Benning, Ga., when he failed to answer the challenge of a sentry.

Maj. R. J. Hammergren, public relations officer at the post, said Lt. Siver is in the station hospital in a critical condition with a gunshot wound in the back.

Maj. Hammergren explained Siver was observed in an "off limits" area on the post by a guard who shouted to him to halt. Instead, Lt. Siver leaped into an automobile. The guard fired five rounds from his rifle.

Military police who investigated the shooting said sentries are under orders to shoot when any military or civilian personnel fail to halt when challenged in guarded areas.

Young Siver was graduated from the Missouri Military academy at Mexico, Mo., in May, 1942, and entered the army immediately as a second lieutenant. His father, who is business manager and secretary of the Waukegan Township High school board of education, and Mrs. Siver, left for Fort Benning immediately.

REVEALS U. S. HAS CAMPS FOR ALL AFRICA CAPTIVES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—Secretary of War Henry L. Stimson today announced sufficient prison camps have been established thruout the United States to house the axis prisoners captured in North Africa.

About 224,000 prisoners were taken in the Tunisian campaign—125,000 Germans and 99,000 Italians. The number to be allotted to this country has not been determined and will depend upon ships available for transportation, food, and supplies, Stimson said.

He reported the war department is studying plans for the prisoners' use for farm work and other types of labor permissible under the articles of the Geneva convention relating to treatment of war prisoners.

Camps will segregate men as to nationality, Stimson said, indicating that the army believes there would be friction if German and Italian prisoners were confined in the same camps.

ALUMNUS OF AUSTIN HIGH BAGS 2 PLANES; WINS FLYING CROSS

Sergt. Burkhardt.

Staff Sergt. John F. Burkhardt, 20 years old, has been awarded the distinguished flying cross with oak leaves, according to a letter from the youth received by his father, Sergt. John W. Burkhardt of the west park police. The youth is a gunner on a bombing plane fighting in North Africa.

The letter, which is dated April 24, says the award was made for shooting down two ME-109 German planes and damaging six others during an air raid over German installations. It is not enemy planes that bother bomber crews but the anti-aircraft barrages, young Burkhardt wrote.

Sergt. Burkhardt was graduated from Austin High school in June, 1941. He entered the air corps shortly after, and was sent to Africa several months ago. A brother, James, 18, is in the air corps reserve. His parents live at 5567 Quincy street.

SNYDERS DIVIDE CHILDREN'S CARE IN DIVORCE WRIT

Superior Judge Joseph Sabath yesterday granted a divorce on the ground of cruelty to Mrs. Elva G. Snyder, 31 years old, 1220 North State parkway, who "kidnaped" her two children from her husband's Oak Park home May 11.

Custody of the children, Sandralee, 6, and Albert Jr., 9, was divided between Mrs. Snyder and her husband, Albert G. Snyder, an insurance broker. Snyder is to have them during school months, and their mother during the summer vacations and all holidays. She was awarded $600 in cash, and $2 a day for support of the children when they are with her.

Mrs. Snyder testified that on Mother's day her husband dragged her thru their home at 911 North Harvey avenue, Oak Park, and threw her into the street. She insisted there was no possibility of a reconciliation, but told the court she believed her husband was a fit person to retain care and custody of their children.

DOCTORS URGED TO DO MORE TO CURB SYPHILIS

Physician Cities Increase Among Civilians.

Members and guests of the Illinois State Medical society were chided yesterday for not disseminating more information on preventative measures for venereal disease among civilians by Dr. Paul A. O'Leary of the Mayo clinic, Rochester, Minn. Dr. O'Leary made the closing address at the 103d annual convention of the society in the Palmer House.

He pointed out that while there has been a striking decrease in the venereal disease rate in the army and navy in the last six months syphilis among civilians has increased 21 per cent. He attributed this partly to the fact that soldiers and sailors are better informed on the prevention, as well as the treatment, of venereal disease.

Army's Progress Cited.

"There is a conspicuous absence among the civilian population of discussion, instruction, and the application of prophylactic measures against these diseases," he declared. He urged civilian doctors to be more broad minded and speak frankly to patients on this subject. In the army, he said, where prophylactic kits are inexpensive and easy to buy, the rate of syphilis is less than 5 per 1,000.

Dr. O'Leary praised doctors, health officers, and policemen who in many parts of the nation are coöperating successfully to halt the spread of venereal disease. Chicago has the lowest rate—24.7 per 1,000 population—among the five largest cities in the United States and is an outstanding example of how the disease can be controled, he said.

Cites Chicago Measures.

He asserted Chicago gave a striking demonstration of how control measures can be enforced when Dr. Herman N. Bundesen, health director, caused taverns to close by posting signs on the premises that the occupants of the building had syphilis or gonorrhea. [At the close of the convention the reference committee on public health and welfare urged that Chicago's type of venereal disease control program be expanded thruout the state].

Dr. O'Leary said the syphilis rate in Illinois is 22.5 per 1,000 population in comparison to certain southern states whose rate has climbed to 189 per 1,000 population.

The state maternal welfare committee reported to the convention that Illinois now is lower than all other states in the union, except Minnesota, in mother and infant mortality. The death rate is one-fourth as large as it was six years ago, the committee stated.

Dr. E. P. Coleman of Canton was named president elect of the society by the house of delegates. He will take office in 1944.

SENATORS FIND JUDGE GUILTY IN IMPEACHMENT

Order Removal of Michigan Jurist.

Lansing, Mich., May 20 [Special].—Michigan senators late today voted guilty on two of three malfeasance and misfeasance impeachment counts against Judge Michael E. Nolan of Gogebic county Probate court, and ordered his immediate removal from office.

The impeachment trial was brought to a speedy conclusion after the defense closed its case with only a single witness called. He was Judge Frank L. McAvinchey of Genesee county Probate court, Flint.

Vote on the first impeachment count, that Nolan had "scandalously perverted" the secret marriage law by conducting a wholesale business in secret marriages, was 27 to 4. Democratic Senators Charles Blondy, Charles Diggs, Stanley Nowak, and Leo J. Wilkowski, all of Detroit, were the only dissenters. Nolan himself is a Democrat.

Denies Violation.

Only three Republicans, Senators John B. Smith, Alma, Don Vanderwerp, Fremont, and Arthur Wood, Detroit, approved impeachment on the second count, charging Nolan with violation of statutory provisions requiring physical examinations of marriage license applicants as a prerequisite to issuance of licenses. William G. Cloon, counsel for Nolan, had based his argument almost exclusively on the contention that the law had not been violated by his client in this regard. The only defense testimony supported that claim.

On the third count, that Nolan had collected excessive fees, "in accordance with his estimate of ability to pay" from marriage license applicants seeking to evade the Michigan five day waiting period, the impeachment tally was 29 to 2 with Senators Blondy and Wilkowski casting the only "no" votes.

Demand Removal.

After the three votes, the 31 senators sitting in the case unanimously approved a motion of Sen. Joseph A. Baldwin [R., Albion] that an impeachment order be filed with the secretary of state removing Nolan from office.

Final arguments were presented by Representatives Nelson Miles [R., Holland] and Howard Carroll [R., Van Dyke], two of the three managers who served as prosecutors under the constitutional provisions for impeachment proceedings. It was the first impeachment case tried in Michigan in 71 years.

Chief charges against Nolan were that he turned his office into a Gretna Green, marrying scores of couples secretly at allegedly excessive fees and in defiance of the law's provisions that licenses may be issued only after a five day waiting period and after both parties have submitted to examinations to prove their freedom from venereal disease.

Downstate Navy Man Found Sane in Slaying

San Diego, Cal., May 20 (AP).—James E. Hale, 28 year old navy chief petty officer from Lincoln, Ill., has been declared sane by a Superior court jury when he killed his wife, Catherine, 23, with a submachine gun last Aug. 30. On May 12 the same jury found Hale guilty of second degree murder. He will be sentenced Friday.

THE SENIOR PARTNER REPORTS.

We in America have heard Mr. Churchill at his best, the greatest parliamentarian of his age, justifying his policies. In theory, of course, the prime minister addressed congress as a distinguished visitor and the leader of our ally. Actually, he accomplished the brilliant feat of transplanting for a day the practices of Westminster in Washington.

He was replying to Sen. Chandler and other members of the senate who the day before had demanded that the administration recognize the fact that Japan is our first enemy. Mr. Churchill replied because Mr. Roosevelt's record of neglect of the Pacific makes it inadvisable for him to discuss operations in that area, and because in the face of Sen. Chandler's arguments the New Deal leadership in the senate proved itself bankrupt. Mr. Churchill did for Mr. Roosevelt what Mr. Roosevelt and his henchmen were incapable of doing for themselves, and in so doing established beyond doubt who is the senior partner in their political combination.

Sen. Chandler and others who participated in the debate of Monday had stated the American objectives in the war and, as Chandler had said, we have the right to make the decision on the basis of American interests. Mr. Churchill frankly and eloquently, as always, put forth the British point of view. It is the point of view that will be shared by all Englishmen. To them Hitler is the first enemy. If Britain had fallen, the heart of the empire would have been pierced and the people of London, Coventry, Hull, and Plymouth will not breathe freely so long as the Luftwaffe is able to put a single plane in the air.

Their point of view, however, is not ours and it will be fatal to our future if out of misdirected sympathy we should adopt it. Disasters and perils in the homeland may permit them to push to the back of their minds the memories of Hongkong and Singapore, but we cannot similarly dismiss Pearl Harbor, Bataan, Corregidor, Wake, and Kiska.

Mr. Churchill voiced the joint conclusion of himself and Mr. Roosevelt that while the defeat of Japan would not affect the fate of Hitler, the defeat of Hitler will make inevitable the defeat of the Japanese. This is forcing facts into the mold of preconceived theory, and the facts stubbornly will not fit. Hitler is beleaguered and tottering. Time can only worsen his plight. Japan has a freshly conquered empire and every month that is allowed for its organization and exploitation means an added cost of thousands of American and British lives in the final reckoning.

Nor was Mr. Churchill's excuse of logistic difficulties convincing when he sought to palliate the failure of Gen. Wavell's army to obtain more significant results. The logistic problems, those of transportation and supply, are, indeed, difficult in the Pacific area. They were equally difficult for the Japanese when they were advancing their wave of conquest. They will become more difficult and not less the longer we give the enemy to dig in. The problems must be solved to give us victory, and postponing only aggravates them.

The two points of view have been made crystal clear. It now remains to see how many American citizens are going to be Americans and how many are to be English. This goes for newspaper editors, members of congress, and all administrative officials. Japan is our first enemy. We must turn our main strength against her, and we have a right to expect full coöperation from both Britain and Russia in return for the strength we have diverted to aid them against their first enemy, Hitler.

LAW AND THE MILITARY.

Mrs. Olga Schueller, who owns and runs a restaurant in Philadelphia, is an American citizen of German birth. A military commission ordered her to get out of the eastern area and stay out. She says she never was told what the charge against her was or why her presence in Philadelphia was thought to menace the national safety. She has appealed to the federal courts for protection.

We don't know whether Mrs. Schueller is a menace. Of themselves, the facts that she has one son in the navy and another in a war factory do not prove that she isn't dangerous. We do know that Judge J. Cullen Ganey did the right thing when he characterized the military proceedings as "very close to what I would call a star chamber hearing"; when he commented that "I do not think the European powers could do it any worse, except that they do it at night and we are doing it in the day time," and when he insisted that persons like Mrs. Schueller be told what they are charged with, so that they can defend themselves.

Proceedings by the military against citizens raise two questions: One is whether a civilian can be exiled by order of a military tribunal. This question the judge has not yet answered. The other is whether the military tribunal, if it has the power to exile, can disregard all the established norms of fairness in arriving at its decisions. Judge Ganey's words suggest that his answer to the second question is an emphatic no.

We can hope that his answer to the first will be an equally emphatic no. If Philadelphia had actually been invaded or were in such imminent danger of invasion that martial law had been declared, there might be some excuse for permitting the military to give peremptory orders to civilians, but, as matters stand, there is no reason why the ordinary processes of the courts should not be followed. If Mrs. Schueller is aiding the enemy, the facts can be proved in court. If the military authorities have nothing against her more substantial than a hunch and a suspicion she ought not to be deprived of her liberty and property.

There is some danger, of course, that insistence upon proof of guilt will enable some few people to go unpunished, but there is much greater danger in allowing the military unchecked dominion over civilians.

GUADALCANAL'S TOLL.

We recommend to the attention of congress the address made recently before the American Psychiatric association by Lt. Comdr. E. Rogers Smith, a naval surgeon attached to the Mare Island hospital. Dr. Smith came nearer to telling the whole truth about Guadalcanal than any man has yet done in public. He knows what he is talking about and he speaks with scientific detachment.

These marines whose mental and nervous breakdowns he describes went into action on Guadalcanal on Aug. 7 and remained there, fighting without rest and without relief for months. For weeks on end they got little sleep. The Japanese had devised a whole series of fiendish tricks to rob our men of rest. Supplies ran short and for a time the marines subsisted largely on rations captured from the Japanese.

The marines were carefully chosen. They had passed tests intended to weed out all but the better men, physically and mentally. They were in superb condition when they went in, toughened by training and filled with military ardor. They stuck it out. They held on despite all that the enemy, a foul climate, and tropical disease could do against them, but when relief finally came, scores of them were broken men. As Dr. Smith puts it:

"Rain, heat, insects, dysentery, malaria—all contributed; but the end result was not bloodstream infection or gastrointestinal disease, but a disturbance of the whole organism, a disorder of thinking and living or even wanting to live. And this incredible strain lasted not one or two days or nights but for weeks and weeks."

Here was something new in war neuroses, different from the so-called shell shock of the last war.

"To us," the doctor reported, "the similarity of complaints, symptoms, and objective findings is almost beyond comprehension. In this group we have all types of physiques, mentalities, environmental and educational backgrounds, yet clinically they were all the same individual with identical symptoms."

The doctor hoped that most of his patients could be made fit for civilian life and thought that some of them might even recover sufficiently to perform limited military duties. It is doubtful, he said, that any of them will ever be equal to front line service again. The men had been subjected to prolonged strain far beyond human capacity to endure, and it had left its permanent mark.

"Hope left most of these men, hope of winning the battle, hope of being aided or rescued. Fatigue wore them down—painful, aching fatigue that they felt never could be relieved or cured," the report continued.

As is well known, the marines were sent to Guadalcanal, where fierce fighting awaited them, but events were to show that preparations to supply and relieve them were inadequate. Moreover, they had not been trained especially for jungle fighting, yet they were required to fight in the jungles for months on end without relief. Eventually army units took over and the enemy was overcome, but by that time the strain had exacted its terrible toll.

It is for congress to determine the responsibility for the slipshod execution of this military operation. It has been said—with what truth congress may be able to discover—that the soldiers were not sent in sooner because the navy wanted to reap all the glory of the Guadalcanal campaign. Possibly the navy command had not learned before Adm. Halsey took over how to coöperate with the army. Possibly the men at the top were simply unequal to their responsibilities.

It becomes the duty of congress to discover the facts if only to make certain that the men who bear the blame will not be in a position to repeat their mistakes. One witness who should be able to throw a great deal of light on the matter is Vice Adm. Ghormley, who was in command when the operation was undertaken and, after being relieved by Adm. Halsey, was assigned to command in Hawaii.

AIRPLANE ACCIDENTS.

Yesterday's terrible airplane accident in Chicago was only the latest in a long series. Almost every day we read of a number of army and navy flyers killed in training. The officials in charge say that the losses are smaller in relation to the number of men learning to fly and the number of hours flown than might have been expected from previous military and civilian experience. The high speed and heavy wing load of many of the combat planes now in use have, of course, added to the hazard.

However valid these extenuations may be, the record remains appalling and complacency will make it worse. Progress in accident prevention on the highways, in the factories, and in homes has been achieved by insistence on the principle that all accidents are preventable if only intelligence and forethought are brought to bear. The same principle must be kept uppermost in the minds of those concerned with the training program. They must feel a personal accountability for every life entrusted to their care.

If, as is said, the toll is less than experience had indicated it would be, we have proof that methods of preventing some kinds of accidents have been devised and applied with favorable results. Much more remains to be done. The sacrifices are needless. They are costing the lives of scores of the best young men in the land and anguish to their relatives and friends. It must never be conceded for a moment that the losses are inevitable and that everything has been done that can be done to prevent them.

HOPEFUL SIGN.

[The Evening Star, Washington, D. C.]

Much condemnation has been heaped on the head of burocracy since this war started and there will be more of it before this war is over. All the more reason, therefore, to give credit where credit is due. In this case it is due the office of price administration and the war food administration for their joint assurance to the harassed citizen that it is illegal to force him to buy, with his ice cream, an equal amount of sherbet or some other frozen confection. This practice has been going on for some time and it is to be hoped that some day of judgment will decree fit punishment to those responsible for this gastronomic crime. The innocent customer, knowing he could not get a tube of tooth paste without turning in an old tube, accepted without complaint the edict that made him purchase a frozen mixture of indescribable content along with his ice cream. He thought it was part of the war effort. To learn that it is not is one of the most hopeful things that has happened in Washington since gasoline was rationed.

THE FARMER IN THE DELL.

[Impressions of country life around Chicago in 1836, written by "Long John" Wentworth in a letter to his sister. This document was recently found by the present John Wentworth, grandnephew of "Long John," among his heirlooms. The region described is in the vicinity of Hinsdale and Naperville.]

"We passed thru the woods and came out upon one of the finest countries I have ever seen. . . . It was really amusing to see how the inhabitants had settled. Instead of living on the road, as many would suppose, they built their houses in the edge of the woods so as to have timber behind and prairie before. And, as far as the eye could reach along the extent of the forest, houses were scattered along the edges within about one-half a mile of each other. Whilst, on the road, running straight, few houses were built and those were houses of entertainment. . . .

"At 9 o'clock I arrived in Warrenville, where there is a tavern kept by Col. Warren, a mill, two stores and six dwelling houses, within one-half mile of each other, all built of timber sawed. . . . For dinner we had a wild goose roasted, a pigeon pie, black cherry sauce, and cranberry pies. We also had tomatoes, an article resembling in size and color the red pepper, but not in taste. The article is very healthy and is much eaten here.

"At dark I was sent for to open a public ball in the Warrenville tavern. I begged to be excused as I had never attended any balls in the state and had danced only at private parties. But no excuse would be taken. So I took my partner and led on. We commenced at dusk and danced until broad daylight.

"I was really surprised at the accomplishments, intelligence, and beauty of the whole mass of the ladies. From those log cabins along the Big Woods I little expected such silks, satins, and wrought muslins to emanate."

TO A LADY MOTORIST.

Lady, lady—sweet, seraphic
Lady—never drive in traffic!
For at the wheel you turn to demon,
Striking fear to hearts of he-men.
At the wheel a wild eye claims you
[And some pedestrian misnames you].
Tho at home you're calm, serene—
Mistress of a planned demesne—
At the wheel you're most erratic,
And breaking rules comes automatic.
You're kind to uncles, aunts, canaries,
But drivers curse your wild vagaries.
Lady, lady—stay at home!
If, perchance, you need to roam,
Take a bus and join the ranks,
And also—earn our heartfelt thanks!

Saturday Night Bath, Old Style.

And so it was Saturday night and the wooden washtub was brought forth and filled with nice warm rain water, but I rebelled against the brown laundry soap. It smarted. I knew.

We used the wooden tub rather than the tin one because it had a nice round edge, and the small bather could sit on its edge without cutting himself in twain. Then he was scrubbed from top to bottom with laundry soapsuds, and at the end rinsed in the warm water.

I refused to submit to this mundane operation unless I were given a cornstarch rubdown afterward to ease the smarting. It was costly, but it must be done, for harmony must reign at home, and love must be supreme. I imagine I must have resembled a little marshmallow.

After the bath there was a mad scramble for the nightshirt which had been hung on the nickel-plated rod above the open drop door of the oven in the "table top" old kitchen range. It felt warm, smooth, and lovely, unless perchance one of the buttons had been warmed a bit too strong and it scorched the skin. The burned place was caressed by mother's blown breath and delicately rubbed with unsalted butter, kept handy for such emergencies. It worked every time.

O, sweet memories of the cornstarch rubdown. Should have been talcum, you say? What is talcum but cornstarch? What is cornstarch but love? What is love but heaven?

What is heaven? Sometimes it is cornstarch.

I've never understood just why
There's always such a hue and cry
When cuckoos, as unbidden guests,
Lay eggs in other species' nests.
For cuckoos outgrow babyship
Like blocks from a parental chip,
And tiny birds seem proud to see
The size of their young progeny!
So if some thought you chance to find,
Just sow it in a stranger's mind,
And leave it to ferment or shock
While you wink at the cuckoo clock!

SOME MEN CAN'T BECOME SOLDIERS.

MORE than two generations have elapsed since J. M. Da Costa described a peculiar state of the heart and the circulation which prevented the victim from becoming a dependable soldier. It should be made clear that the malady is not the fault of the individual altho it is due to his nervous system.

The chief symptoms are breathlessness, palpitation, fatigue, chest pain, and dizziness. During a seizure the pulse may be rapid, the extremities cold, and the skin covered with sweat. Fundamentally, the emotional stimulus is fear, which is quite apart from cowardice.

The potential sufferer can be detected if he has experienced a previous emotional breakdown. In appearance he may be underdeveloped with a flat, narrow chest. Perhaps, as a child, he was told that he had a "weak pump." In consequence, he became heart conscious. Because of the supposed handicap, he may have sought clerical employment.

When examined for induction, however, no murmur or other sign of disease could be found. Nevertheless, when subjected to strenuous drill, he is quite unable to meet the requirements.

The case is related of an English lad who met these specifications accurately. The medical officer, who encountered him in the hospital where he had been for a month, recognized the symptoms and promptly ordered him home. It is out of the question to rehabilitate a weakened nervous system anywhere near the front.

Another source of trouble presents itself with those who have failed to make an adequate comeback following an attack of influenza or pneumonia. The heart rhythm remains rapid, beating regularly from 90 to 100 a minute. During activity the rate will rise to 130 or 140 with a good deal of breathlessness and exhaustion.

These persons make poor recruits for our fighting forces. They will do well, however, in positions of minor importance, in zones of comparative safety—provided they are not pushed too far or subjected to pressure. Back home, restoration can be accomplished with graduated exercises and from one-half to two-thirds of these men will be efficient in some capacity if they can be persuaded to renew their faith in their ability to perform physical tasks.

On the other hand, if the chap is convinced that he is a weakling and that he will never be any better, there isn't a particle of use in persisting in the effort to make a soldier out of him.

Occasionally, these unfortunates can be saved. A regimental medical officer, understanding this type, observed that certain men would drop out while on a fatiguing march. He made it a practice, however, to watch these lads, and walk beside them one by one, until confidence was regained.

But unless exercise and activity can be answered with interest, it is inadvisable to continue army or navy training of these below par personalities.

YELLOW EXCITES.

None, unless eyestrain is experienced because of poor illumination. Our grandmothers who used kerosene lamps were, if anything, less jittery than the present generation. Ultra-violet is stimulating.

AFTER-EFFECTS.

Much will depend upon the type of the disease and the skill which characterizes treatment. A severe infection may injure the heart, the kidneys, the spleen, etc.

PAN-SLAVISM.

Evanston, Ill., May 15.—It seems well nigh impossible for me to follow the reasoning of all singers of the Pan-Slav song. Perhaps, as a citizen of the United States of America, I am just too ignorant to be capable of unprejudiced thinking. Be that as it may, I fail to understand how it can be contended that nations like Poland, Latvia, Estonia, Finland, and a large part of Rumania were created out of Russian territory. Certainly these regions were not Russian territory until the Russians had by the might of the sword subjugated the peoples living therein. Does a gunman's seizure of another man's pocketbook give him legal title to the pocketbook?

Why does Mr. Zavertnik [April 30] speak about the dissimilarities of the Scots, Welsh and the English, all of whom live side by side on an area that is but an infinitesimal fraction of the territory of the U. S. S. R., and who also understand the same language, without saying anything at all about the huge non-Slavic components of Stalin's huge empire? Out of Russia's 180,000,000 people, only about 100,000,000 are said to be true Slavs. The rest are neither Slavs nor do they speak any Slav dialect. Why, then, all this cry for a still bigger "Slavic" state?

If the answer is that Russia will be weak until she has the very last Slav under her wing, how then can we understand her present lack of strength in spite of centuries of ruthless militarism? Without ours and Britain's aid Russia would be a conquered nation today. The true answer, it seems, is that Russia will continue to shake with fear until she has all of Europe and all of Asia under her absolute domination. Perhaps she would insist upon an inclusion of North America as well, seeing that we have many people of Slavic origin in our happy family. Pan-Slavism is suggestive of Pan-Slaveism.

THERE IS A LAW.

Des Plaines, Ill., May 11.—Inhuman beings in a car traveling Rand road Monday morning threw their dog out of the car at a closed gas station and drove away leaving the dog behind. The dog was running up and down the highway and no one could get near it to give it something to eat and water. Finally a big truck ran over the poor animal and killed it. Why could not a law be passed against abandoning dogs?

A GOOD TRADE.

Chicago, May 17.—In the coming campaign we will hear much of not trading horses while crossing the stream.

As an antidote to this will you remind your readers that the New Deal has no horse to trade. And hence the slogan should be, "Who would not trade a jackass for an elephant?"

JOSEPH GEARY.

OUR FIRST ENEMY.

Chicago, May 18.—Most encouraging was the speech of Sen. Chandler [D., Ky.] in pleading for recognition of Japan as our greatest potential enemy and the first for us to deal with.

In his speech declaring "Americans are citizens and not subjects" he has hit upon the question that has been in so many minds, particularly during the last two years. We Americans are fighting in every way we know how to retain our individual independence. We have been subjected to the political minds of our European allies in their own selfish interests and purposes long enough.

The victories in Africa and the credit given by the English press to their own armies for the defeat of the axis forces was merely a repetition of World War I. When Hitler is defeated in this war and England has been saved, the cry will be the same, "England has won the war for America" and we in turn should pay the bills for the favors they have done us.

Let's prosecute the war against Japan, keep up the 24 hour aerial attacks to weaken Germany and Italy, and ask Stalin for a second front against Japan or at least air bases for American planes to attack the heart of Japan.

Let the English armies in India show us what they can do in Burma, the Australian army in the Southwest Pacific, and the Russians in the north. If we can get this coöperation, the American people will really show their appreciation thru an all-out fight for our allies in clearing the axis hordes from the face of the earth.

Until then, let's fight our own fight against the only country that has attacked us—Japan.

LLOYD M. SMITH.

EXCESS PROFITS TAX FOR INDIVIDUALS.

Chicago, May 12.—The income tax should be graduated in ratio to the percentage of increase in income over 1941. As it stands now, the small salaried worker, with 15 per cent or less increase since 1941, will have 30 per cent of his present pay cut off in income tax and war bonds. The remaining 70 per cent will buy only about 56 per cent of goods compared to 1941. All in all, his living has to be cut down about one-third, which is certainly not likely to cause a bidding up of prices and inflation.

The factory worker and the farmer, however, do have the means of causing inflation. Their incomes have gone up over 50 per cent, and in many cases have doubled, leaving them, even after taxes and war bonds, far more than they have been accustomed to have. These people, then, have money to burn, and I know some myself who are really throwing it around. No price is too high for something they want.

If it is desirable to skim off this excess purchasing power to prevent inflation, then the only way to do it is to have the income tax increase in proportion to the increase in earnings since 1941.

TRAINING FOR THE WHITE HOUSE.

Omaha, Neb., May 14.—All doubt I had that Willkie would be a candidate for President in 1944 vanished when I read he had gone into active training for that high position. When it was published that he had returned from a secret trip to a secret destination where he spent a secret vacation I knew he had gone into training.

A YEA FROM GLASGOW.

GLASGOW, Scotland, April 26.—As regards your plan of uniting the English speaking nations, I think it's a swell idea and I hope it comes true.

I am an ordinary working class Scotswoman, not very well educated, but who has every reason to believe that Scotland as a member of the United States would be better in every way, more than ever. I realize the American idea of life is much more common. It's hard to describe just what I mean, but perhaps it will be clearer to you when I tell you, I believe most working class Britons [There I go again. We are so class conscious in Britain] are heartily sick of the lord and lady stuff and especially the "old school tie."

The royal family and their satellites are probably quite nice people, but that's not really the point. Kings have outlived their usefulness. This is only one of the reasons why I hope Scotland uses her head and will in time become a state of the United States. It sounds a long way off, but who knows? I have never been to America, but I feel sure the Yanks have the right idea and I heartily wish their 130 millions every success for the future, and especially your plan.

MAY HOGG.

FOUR FREEDOMS OR FOUR TERMS.

Meservey, Ia., May 17.—If anything in connection with the recent meeting of so-called Republicans in Chicago is worth mentioning, it probably is the effrontery of the planners in attempting to sell out the party without the advice and consent of real Americans who are scattered over the face of the earth, giving their lives for their country. Why should we heed the parlor brigade?

We understand that an Iowa editor insists that he doesn't have to ask any one whether he may call himself a Republican. That is true. But it takes more than a label to prove authenticity. Who accepts Willkie, Knox, Stimson, and others of that ilk as Republicans? Certainly no observant and wholly sane member of the party will thus permit himself to be deceived. Do not forget that Judas Iscariot also was a disciple in name.

Are our boys suffering and dying to establish "four freedoms" or are the fighting, scheming, maneuvering, and "planning" intended to guarantee the "four terms!"

Test Your Horse Sense

By Dr. George W. Crane

Select the answers which you consider best. The last problem counts five points. Then look for the correct answers on page 27.

1. The statement, "As wise as an owl," would be more fitting if it read, "As wise as a ——?" Crow Robin Wren Swallow.
2. A doe is the female of which one of these creatures? Sheep Cow Swan Rabbit.
3. A dictionary of geographical names is called a Concordance Gazetteer Lexicon Kymograph.
4. A harvest moon is associated with which one of these months? June July August September.
5. Linseed oil is a product of which of the following? Flaxseed Cotton seed Petroleum Castor bean.
6. Try to answer the questions below with a single letter of the alphabet. For example, "A common slang word?" could be answered with "G." You are entitled to one point for each correct judgment.
   [a] A boy's name? ——————
   [b] A common female domesticated animal? ——————
   [c] Present indicative plural of the verb "be"? —————— [d] What the British say the Americans are giving the Japanese? ——————
   [e] A valuable garden vegetable? ——————

Score yourself as follows: 0-2, poor; 3-6, average; 7-8, superior; 9-10, very superior. [Note—The last question counts five points.]

FARM INTERESTS OF U.S. MENACED, SEN. NYE WARNS

Audience Boos Mention of Willkie's Name.

American agricultural interests are being completely surrendered by global thinkers who, trying to create a post-war dream world, forget realities and hard facts, Sen. Gerald P. Nye [R., N. D.] charged in addressing a Republican rally in the Morrison hotel Mural room last night.

"The American farmer is being put in a straightjacket which is supposed to hold him helpless to resist his being traded out of existence in this 'one world' which some people are going to create," he said.

Sen. Nye said Vice President Henry Wallace, "accepted as the great champion of the American farmer for years, has made it painfully plain that in his thinking we are going to have to be ready to surrender American agricultural interests in a measurable wey."

Ridicules Milk Pledge.

Global thinkers, he said, promise a quart of milk a day to everyone in the world, yet such delivery is not made even in America. Global thinkers also plan an international police force, he said. The impossibility, he declared, could be shown by calling a conference now to decide who was going to run this police force.

Further, he charged, such a police force would set off the world's largest armament race, for each nation not only would have to be ready to fight any other nation or combination of nations, but also the international police.

He urged that Americans become vocal to make global thinkers face the facts. He said one ugly and persistent rumor is that Stalin is demanding the allies accept Russia's claimed right to Finland, Norway, Sweden, and the Bosporus. He said he hoped the rumor is false, but that now is the time for America to bring its influence to bear.

Delivers Blast at Willkie.

"Wendell Willkie enjoys the privilege of building a little world all his own and living in this dream world," he said. "But I shall never forget Willkie is never to be taken at his word. He indulges freely in words, but he also has given Americans notice that what he says or does may be just plain politics or campaign oratory."

Mention of the names of Willkie and Winston Churchill by Sen. Nye drew husky boos from the 2,000 persons present.

"I am glad to hear you boo Willkie," Nye said, "because never has there been such betrayal of the party system as he contributed three years ago. But I wish we had a man who could do for America what Winston Churchill is doing for England."

Burden on U. S., He Believes.

Despite the assurance given congress by Churchill, Nye said he still believes that "the job of finishing the Pacific war will be left up to the United States."

Sen. Nye asked voters to join in "smothering the Willkie-Roosevelt-Carnegie Foundation kind of leadership that would deny the American people any choice in determining their own future."

WIDOW RECEIVES MEDAL; SEAMAN DIED FOR OTHERS

A distinguished service medal awarded posthumously by the United States merchant marine commission to Thomas Crawford, 44 years old, who stayed on a sinking ship to lower two lifeboats filled with other seamen, was accepted last night by his widow, Hannah, of 8945 Muskegon avenue.

The presentation was made by John M. Carmody, merchant marine commissioner, at a meeting of the Propeller club in Hotel Sherman. Carmody was introduced by Mayor Kelly.

Crawford, who had been a sailor when he was younger, returned to the merchant marine as an able bodied seaman after the Pearl Harbor attack. On March 31, 1942, his ship, which had been damaged in one storm in the North Atlantic, encountered an even heavier one. All lifeboats but two were wrecked. These two were filled by members of the crew, while Crawford and another man volunteered to man the davits. Crawford was drowned, but the men in the boats he lowered were saved.

Club Employe Killed in Elevator Accident

Leo T. Smith, 40 years old, 228 East Huron street, was crushed to death yesterday in an elevator accident in the Medinah club, 505 North Michigan avenue, where he was employed as a bar porter. The operator, Wesley James, 25, of 2120 Cleveland avenue, told Chicago avenue police that the elevator went up suddenly as Smith was entering at the second basement level. Smith fell partly inside the elevator and was trapped against the basement ceiling.

Prosecution Is Demanded for Negro Boy's Killing

The youth was killed last week. The policemen said they called upon him to halt after he had showered them with rocks, but that he continued running.

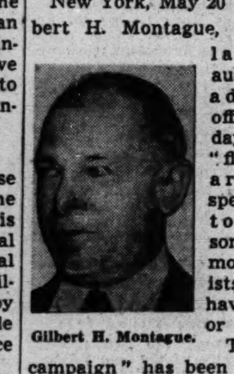
RIPS NEW DEAL AIDS FOR 'SLURS' AT TRADE CHIEFS

Montague Says Nazis Aided by Smears.

New York, May 20 [Special].—Gilbert H. Montague, widely known lawyer and author, attacked administration office holders today for their "flood of books, articles, and speeches designed to show that some of the foremost industrialists in America have been traitors or saps or both."



Gilbert H. Montague.

The "smear campaign" has been conducted for several months by department of justice and other government officials, Montague told the inter-American conference on foreign trade and arbitration, against industrialists who are chiefly responsible for America's vast production of war goods.

Attacks Based on Patents.

"The technique of half truths, suppression of truths, and untruths by which this burocratic smear mill has been operating from the heart of official Washington deserves careful study," he asserted, "for if Dr. Goebbels himself had planted it there it could not serve Hitler's cause better than it has been doing."

Montague said the New Deal attacks have been based on American industrialists' action in connection with patents issued in this country on scores of products developed in Germany. The legality of most of the limiting provisions surrounding the patents, such as their markets, had been established by many Supreme court decisions until the New Deal began attempts to upset the decisions, Montague said.

Develop German Processes.

Recalling American companies' development and extension of some of the German processes thru use of the patents, he continued:

"This has enabled America, in its hour of greatest need, to produce 100 octane aviation gasoline now used by all bombers and fighters of the united nations; buna synthetic rubber, which is the chief part of the government's synthetic rubber program, and substitutes for quinine like atabrine whose production has been raised from 5 million tablets annually before the war to one billion tablets this year, without which our troops could not take the field against the enemy in any malaria infested region of the world."

To obtain for American industry the right and "know-how" to use the German inventions covered by these patents, United States companies were forced to agree to the German terms, Montague said.

Only Limited Right Granted.

Sometimes the German company would grant only a limited right, with restrictions on market or price, and again a reciprocal arrangement would be required, he added.

"Before 1938 the scope and validity of such limitations and conditions had been broadly established in a succession of Supreme court decisions," he said.

"Fairness, of course, is too much to expect from a burocratic smear mill, but a decent respect for truth, it would seem, might impel the critics of agreements made in the '20s and '30s to disclose the highly important fact that these government bureaus are judging American industrialists not by the law as established when the agreements were made, but by something the anti-trust division hopes will become the

WIFE CAN STAY AWAY, BUT FRANK WANTS ICE BOX

He didn't mind his wife taking the other household furnishings, but he does want his ice box back, Frank Skwirut, 48 years old, a city bridgetender, told Judge John J. Lupe in Superior court yesterday.

"My neighbors are getting pretty annoyed because I have to keep my milk and butter in their refrigerators," Skwirut told the court. "Because of priorities I can't get another one."

Skwirut sought a divorce from his wife, Barbara, 40, charging desertion. He told the court that his wife left him March 16, 1942, and took all the furniture with her.

"After she had gone I discovered I was No. 4 in a series of husbands, all of whom lost their household furnishings to my wife," he testified.

Judge Lupe granted Skwirut a decree, and a mandatory injunction, asked by his attorney, Samuel A. Hoffman, directing Mrs. Skwirut to return the ice box—if she can be found.

Likes His Coffee

Margie Adams with Charlie.

The appetite of Charlie, a pert young squirrel who has taken up his abode in a sandwich shop adjoining the Evanston police station, has become a rationing problem to the restaurant proprietors.

For one thing, Charlie has developed an inordinate fondness for coffee, and saucily insists upon a cup after each of the many meals he consumes during the day.

"I never saw such a squirrel," said Margie Adams, of 1306 Sherman avenue, Evanston, a waitress. "He wants to eat all the time, and he eats everything from pie to ham sandwiches. And after every meal he chatters and scolds till we give him a cup of coffee."

Charlie isn't particular whether he has music with his meals, but he demands it after he has eaten, Miss Adams said, explaining:

"His nest is on top of the juke box, and he crawls into it for a nap after every meal. But he won't go to sleep unless the juke box is playing, and he jerks his tail and scolds until somebody puts a nickel in."

Charlie made his debut at the restaurant a few weeks ago when a neighbor boy, who found him on his back porch, gave him to the sandwich shop.

MAIL 100,000 RATION CARDS IN SINGLE DAY

Chicago mailmen delivered yesterday 100,000 applications for war ration book No. 3—the first day's quota—Ernest J. Kruetgen, postmaster, said. He indicated more than 1 million application cards would be distributed thruout Chicago by June 1. The cards are not addressed, the postman dropping one into each home mailbox.

Consumers are expected to fill out the application card and mail it to the office of price administration after June 1. The new ration books will be distributed to consumers as rapidly as their applications are processed.

Distribution was described as the largest mailing operation in history by Edward F. Stegen, regional rationing executive.

The coupon pages required 3,000,000 pounds of paper specially processed to forestall counterfeiting. Seventy-five tons of stapling wire, enough to buy 1,500 Garand army rifles, were saved by pasting the pages to a heavy Manila cover.

The paste used for binding amounted to 7,500 gallons, about the capacity of a railroad tank car. The ink used in printing amounted to 87,000 pounds. All the books would fill 128 boxcars.

McSWEENEY WINS JUDGESHIP BY WRITE-IN VOTES

The right of John R. McSweeney to hold office as an associate Municipal court judge was upheld yesterday in a ruling by Circuit Judge John Prystalski, who decided that McSweeney's write-in election last November was legal.

The court also sustained a motion by McSweeney's attorney, Arthur A. Sullivan, to strike a reply filed by the Chicago Bar association in its suit to have the election declared illegal. McSweeney, a former state senator, received 23,000 write-in votes.

Atty. Floyd E. Thompson, representing the bar association in the quo warranto proceedings, argued that no notice of the election to fill the vacancy was given, and that the people thus were deprived of their right to select some one to fill the office. He indicated that an immediate appeal from Judge Prystalski's ruling would be taken to the Supreme court.

OFFER PROGRAM TO KILL PEGGED LEVY INCREASE

Seek to Shift Costs to Other Tax Units.

BY GEORGE TAGGE.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 20.—A program to knock out the increase in the proposed pegged tax levy for Cook county was introduced in the Illinois house today by four Republicans. Cook county lobbyists indicated the belief that the higher pegged levy is doomed.

Some burdens would be shifted to other taxing units, but economy would be fostered by the program. Most features of the plan have been approved by the county board.

Most important of the series of five bills would transfer the $1,400,000 annual cost of the Oak Forest infirmary to the city and the so-called country townships in the county.

Would Shift Court Expense.

Another bill would shift the county's $400,000 yearly expense for the Chicago Municipal court to the city. The charge to the county for cost of state cases and jurors' fees accounts for about half of the county's 9 million dollars in unpaid bills. Referendum approval of the change would be required.

Another bill would give the Cook County hospital the same lien rights as private hospitals. The practice of charging for care given in accident cases where the patients are able to pay would bring in an estimated $150,000 a year, it was said.

Purpose of the two final bills is to enable the county board to create a centralized purchasing department. A department of purchasing would be set up to take purchasing functions from Joseph Donohue, 47th ward Democratic committeeman who is superintendent of the public service.

Would Classify Jobs.

Establishment of a department of central services also would be permitted.

Classification of county employés' jobs, aiming at "equal pay for equal work," would be permitted under these bills.

Sponsoring the bills are Representatives William G. Thon [Oak Park], Alan E. Ashcraft Jr. [Evanston], Noble Lee [Chicago], and Mrs. Bernice Vander Vries [Winnetka].

County pegged levy bills call for a permanent peg of $10,800,000 for 1944 and future even numbered years and $9,000,000 for 1945 and future odd numbered years. The 1942 peg was for $9,000,000, while that for 1943 was $7,300,000.

GOVERNORS HOLD POST-WAR PLAN SESSIONS TODAY

The first meeting of the newly formed interstate committee on post-war reconstruction and development, which is composed of state governors and other state officials and representatives, will be held today at the Council of State Governments, 1313 East 60th street.

Gov. Herbert R. O'Conor of Maryland will preside. Gov. Leverett Saltonstall of Massachusetts and Gov. Herbert B. Maw of Utah will be present. Gov. J. M. Broughton of North Carolina and Gov. John W. Bricker of Ohio may attend. There will be state officials representing every section of the country. The meeting will consider post-war state problems of finance, public works, unemployment compensation, education, and public health.

The committee was set up after four regional conferences of state officials on post-war problems held in Chicago, New York, Atlanta, and San Francisco during April and early May.

This evening members of the executive committee will meet to complete plans for the annual governors' conference to be held in Columbus, O., June 20 to 23.

Nazis Report Mail Boat Sunk; All on Board Saved

LONDON, May 20 (AP).—The German controled Par radio reported today that the mail boat General Bonaparte, operating between Corsica and Nice, was torpedoed yesterday 40 miles off the French coast while carrying 192 passengers and a crew of 50. All the passengers and crewmen were reported picked up by two German destroyers and taken to Nice. The ship was a French passenger vessel and mail boat of 2,796 gross tons, and was based at Marseilles before the war.

Friend of the Yanks' Kin

BY SALLY JOY BROWN

[This department answers questions covering problems related to the social welfare of relatives of service men, both in the column and by mail, if stamped, addressed envelopes are sent with inquiries.]

E. E. D. asks: "My son, who is in the army, has been absent without leave for the second time. He is married, and his wife is receiving an allowance. I'm afraid he will be in the guard house for some time, and I wonder if his wife will continue to receive her allowance if his pay is stopped. I am unable to help her out financially."

ANSWER: Unless your son is convicted of desertion, his wife's allowance will continue. If he is forced to forfeit part or all of his pay thru action of a court martial, his contribution to her allowance, which he is unable to pay, will be charged against his future pay. If a soldier deserts, however, the monthly allowance will terminate at the end of the month in which notice is received of his conviction of desertion, or after he has been absent in desertion for three months, whichever occurs first.

Mrs. E. L. writes: "Can you advise me about the new plan for maternity care for wives of service men? My husband is in the army and is now overseas. I am expecting a baby, and have no income but the 50 dollar monthly allowance, but do not wish to go to a clinic. I would like to have our old family doctor care for me, but wonder if that's possible.

ANSWER: There is no reason why you may not have your own physician attend you, if he is willing to provide maternity care for $35, the maximum sum provided under the plan now being administered by the division of maternal hygiene of the state department of health. Apply to the physician of your choice, and he will make a recommendation to the division concerning your eligibility. If the application is accepted, care will be authorized, in case of need, for both medical and hospital expenses. I am forwarding a bulletin which explains the plan, as administered in this state. Other interested readers may obtain it by sending in a request, plus a stamped, addressed envelope.

Mrs. F. P. J. asks: "My son, who is in the army and is now overseas, has been providing an allowance for me. In a recent letter, I notice that he wrote "T/5" in front of his name. Does it mean that he has been promoted, and if so, will I continue to receive my allowance?"

ANSWER: Your son is a "technician, fifth grade" but since he is still in one of the four lowest pay grades, your allowance will continue.

BURGLAR SLEEPS HOURS BENEATH HIS VICTIM'S BED

Imagine Claude Logan's embarrassment when he discovered a hand sticking out from beneath a bed in his apartment at 330 South Hoyne avenue last night. He called Warren avenue police, who hauled the intruder out by the heels. He said he was Robert U. Logan discovered the boy at 11 p. m., so Robert had several hours' sleep. On his wrist when police arrested him was Logan's $40 wristwatch.

EXCLUSION LAW REPEAL URGED BY PEARL BUCK

Writer Says Act Tests Chinese Patience.

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—Urging repeal of the Chinese exclusion law, Pearl Buck, author of many novels about life in China, today told the house immigration committee that to continue the law in effect is an "unwarranted test" of Chinese patience.

Repeal of the law, which has barred them from entrance into this country for more than half a century, is necessary as a war measure, she said, adding that the Japanese are using the exclusion act as part of their propaganda program in China.

Used as Jap Propaganda.

"They are taunting the Chinese by telling them—'Look, is America really your ally? You are being discriminated against.'" she said.

The author asserted that passage of the Japanese exclusion law was the biggest single thing that made Japan our enemy. "They felt hurt," she explained.

Asked if there is much evidence of communism in China, she replied: "I think they feel about communism as we do. The Communist menace there is about like it is here."

Quotes Jap Radio.

Richard Walsh, husband of Miss Buck and magazine editor, quoted Japanese radio broadcasts charging that introduction of the bill to repeal the exclusion law was "merely a gesture to kid the Chinese."

Kermit Eby, representing the Congress of Industrial Organizations; Oswald Garrison Villard, journalist, and representatives of the Methodist church also asked passage of the bill.

O, THE RAIN? WHY, IT'S DUE TO AIR STREAMS

Warm Currents Beaten Back by Cold.

Why all this rain? What are the reasons for the steady downfall that has flooded midwestern streams and worn wet and cold pedestrians' patience right down to the breaking point?

It's not so simple as Cartoonist Carey Orr puts it in his cartoon on today's editorial page of THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE. Old Jupiter Pluvius did not depart absentmindedly and leave the faucet running.

The reasons are scientific and reach all the way to the north pole.

Battle of Atmosphere.

As Father Alphonse Schmitt, seismologist at Loyola university points out, currents of warm air from the equator flow northward and are cooled in great masses as they reach the polar regions. These masses of cold air are of much greater density than the warm air to the south, and the dense masses push against this warm air, seeking a way out.

Inevitably the cold air finds a point of least resistance in the encircling band of warm air, and breaks southward thru the low pressure channel. The break may be over Europe, Russia, Asia, or, as in the present case, over North America.

As the cold air billows southward, it comes in contact with more warm air and then precipitation, or rain, results. And the rain will continue until a blast of wind from the northwest, strong enough to blow away the warm front, comes along.

Polar Front Breaks Variable.

These breaks in the polar front may follow the same southward channel for several years in succession, or they may carry their afflictions southward by different routes each year.

The current weather is similar to the weather conditions in the spring of 1936, which caused floods in the Ohio river valley, said Dr. Helmut Landsberg, associate professor of meteorology at the University of Chicago.

Rainfall since the first of May, as recorded at Loyola university, has been 6¾ inches, Father Schmitt said, setting a record for the nine years the records have been kept at the university. The previous high was 5.16 inches during May, 1940.

Amateur Theory Discarded.

For the benefit of those persons who live near army or navy rifle pits or gun ranges, experienced weather men doubt that rain follows the firing of heavy guns, a theory often heard during World War I when American doughboys did much of their fighting kneedeep in the mud of sunny France.

"These pressure areas reach as high as 8 miles," one weather expert said. "It would take a mighty big gun to make any impression on all that air."

One explanation of the reason battles are frequently followed by rain is the fact that rain falls periodically and most generals start their battles in good weather. When the battle is over the rain that falls is due anyway, regardless of the firing of heavy guns.

Cold, wet springs like the one Chicago and the midwest has had to put up with this year usually follow what is known as an "open" winter. Did you know that this last winter was "open?"

Coal dealers have "open" and "cold" winters figured right down to a science. They say 10 per cent more coal is used, on an average, during an open winter, when fresh air fiends sleep with their windows open, thus letting much precious heat escape.

During cold winters, on the other hand, even the fanatics are unable to withstand open windows, and the heat in the house is conserved.

So far as the present polar break is concerned, with all its drizzles and deluges, the weather bureau put forth an optimistic note yesterday. That blast of air from the northwest must be on its way.

AWARD OF NATIONAL SAFETY COUNCIL IS PRESENTED TO CITY

Col. John Stilwell of New York, president of the National Safety council, presented Mayor Kelly yesterday with the council's grand award for 1942, symbolizing the city's winning first place in the council's national safety contest for that year.

The presentation was made at a luncheon in Hotel Sherman, at which Ned H. Dearborn, executive vice president of the safety council, presided.

The award was made on the city's reduction of traffic deaths below the average of the preceding three years, and on general accident prevention efforts, such as educational programs and engineering advances. A total of 466 persons met death from traffic accidents in Chicago in 1942, compared with 623 in 1941, representing a 25 per cent reduction. In accepting the award, Mayor Kelly stated that thus far the city's record for 1943 surpasses that of last year.

POLICE HUNT GARROTER.

Austin police were searching last night for a tall man wearing a leather jacket who forced Mrs. Rose Feinzimer, 53 years old, into a rear room of her dress shop at 4933 Chicago avenue and attempted to choke her.

ICC CONSIDERING MORE TRANSFER POINTS FOR CITY

Use of 57 Present Ones on Increase.

Proceedings that may result in an increased number of points at which surface and bus lines will transfer passengers to the elevated system were started yesterday at an Illinois Commerce commission hearing.

The present 57 points of intercompany transfer were put into operation some years ago. The city's engineers have asked for 35 more, and these, as well as those in use, will be considered by the commission.

The exchange of transfers by the companies was regarded in 1935, when the plan was inaugurated, as pioneering. No other city had tried such a system. That its value to the public has grown is shown by the fact that the number of such transfers has grown from 30 million to 53 million a year.

Riding Habits Change.

With the passage of years, changes of riding habits have taken place and experts believe that many adjustments should be made in transfer points and the rules under which transfers are issued.

At yesterday's hearing the examiners in charge, James R. Clark and Howard West, outlined the program to be followed. Engineering representatives of the city, the commission, and the three companies will hold a series of conferences, beginning June 9, to work out the operating details.

Hearing on Coach Fares.

In these discussions the city will be represented by Maj. R. F. Kelker and the commission by Merrill B. Knox. The examiners will sit in. Specifically three questions will be dealt with—the new points, enlargement or modification of the tributary zones of the present transfer points, and revision of the transfer rules when necessary.

William E. Helander of the commission staff is conducting another hearing in which, by the commission's own order, the Chicago Motor Coach company is to show cause why its present 10 cent fare should not be reduced. The company has started presentation of evidence on its invested capital and earnings with a view to showing that the return is just and reasonable.

Members of V. F. W. Plan Memorial Rites Sunday

Memorial service for deceased war veterans will be conducted Sunday by the Veterans of Foreign Wars before the plaque at 611 North Sacramento avenue that is dedicated to the veterans. A parade from Chicago and Hamlin avenues will precede the services. Music for the service, sponsored by the 14 posts of the 5th division, will be supplied by the 33d division junior drum and bugle corps, Connley post Junior American Legion drum and bugle corps and the V. F. W. band from Hunt post. Maj. F. G. Houlehan of the 6th service command will represent the army, and Henry F. Marquard of Bell post, V. F. W., will deliver the memorial address.

". . . a Wife to Raise" . . . . By Margaret Weymouth Jackson

Copyright: 1943: By Margaret Weymouth Jackson

SYNOPSIS: Paul James, medical student, living with Dr. John Lockerbie and his wife, Mary Ellen, has been embittered and has hated Will Presser, prosecuting attorney, ever since his father was sent to prison after a bank scandal. His mother died of a broken heart and his father died in prison. Altho Paul likes Sue Craft, who has a crush on him, he has no time nor money for girls. Paul and Dr. Lockerbie are called to the home of Polly and Lem Richards and find Polly dying after being struck with a poker, and Lem too drunk to know whether he did it. Lem is arrested. Paul is sympathetic toward Polly's daughter, Isabel. He kisses her and tries to give her courage.

INSTALMENT V.

NEW JOB.

Sue was silent. Paul was embarrassed and shoved the money at her.

"Look, Sue," he said, "get flowers for Polly, will you, please? The biggest show you can get for the money and never mind being refined. Have several showy bouquets made up, one from me, and one from the James family, and one marked from Lem."

"I understand," Sue said. She picked up the money and counted it and put it in her pocket. She stood looking at Paul somberly for a moment.

"Are you sure you want to do this for Isabel, Paul?" she asked. "You know you can't afford it. I'm afraid she will never appreciate it."

"Of course I want to do it," said Paul impatiently.

"It's pretty swell of you," Sue said. And quite unexpectedly she leaned across the table and took his face in her two hands and kissed him quickly.

Paul spread out his books and Sue returned to the doctor's office. Paul did not look up until Mary Ellen came in and told him that the doctor was waiting in the car for Paul to drive him out to Whites'.

Late that night, dozing behind the stove at Whites', waiting on Dr. Lockerbie, Paul thought about Isabel, about her despair and her troubles and her need of a friend. He could see his troubles and Isabel's as following a similar pattern. She would find, he resolved, that she had as good a friend as the doctor had been to him.

Dr. Lockerbie called him and they went out and Paul drove to town in the cold of early morning.

Paul's first thought on waking was that he had forgotten to take care of the doctor's bag the night before. He had not forgotten it in years. In the surgery he emptied it, cleaned all the instruments, and put them in the sterilizer. Alice Nightingale was scrubbing the office. She was a little woman with knotted hands and a cutting tongue. She talked incessantly.

"You know well's I do, Paul James, that Polly Richards was a proud woman. Only trouble with her was that she was sentimental. Any girl in her right mind would have knowed that Lem Richards wouldn't never amount to nothin'. But he was a pretty boy. He sure wanted Polly. She never had much time for him, then all of a sudden she took up with him. They got married and moved to the city. Polly was ambitious, those days. But after a couple of years she saw Lem wasn't going nowheres and she was glad to bring her baby, Isabel, and come back to Hilltown where Lem's folks and his old friends could help her look after him. Them girls, Isabel and Betty, they got good stuff back of them but they sure won't never have much chance in this town."

"O, they'll be all right," said Paul. "All humans have a mixed inheritance."

"Yes," said Alice Nightingale, wringing her mop, "but some of it's more human than others."

Paul was glad to finish his work and escape to the kitchen where Mary Ellen gave him his breakfast.

Paul had Isabel on his mind. One thing she needed, he decided, as he rode his noisy steed to University Town, was a good job! Something that would improve her earnings and build up her self-esteem. As often happens, Paul's energetic thought stirred up an unexpected opportunity. In his 2 o'clock class his friend, Patrick, told him that one of the seniors in the medical college had married Dr. Conklin's laboratory assistant and that she was leaving her job.

Paul went at once to the Biology building where Dr. Conklin was conducting his research in invertebrate zoölogy. The doctor had a grant for research. Paul asked him about the job.

"No, I haven't any one," said Dr. Conklin in response to Paul's question, "and my grant doesn't allow for a trained laboratory assistant."

"Could any one do the work?" asked Paul.

"Well, no," said Dr. Conklin. "Not just any one. But the girl doesn't need technical training, if that's what you mean. She's got to be neat and prompt and faithful. If she has good eyesight and enough sense to learn to use the microscopes and keep records as she's told—if she can make lettuce infusions and count, she can do the work all right. She doesn't have to know what she's doing. She just has to do what she's told."

Paul asked what the job paid. Eighteen dollars a week! It would be a fortune to Isabel.

"I know a girl that needs a job pretty darn bad," he told Dr. Conklin. "Her mother just died and her father's in a jam. She's a high school graduate—made good grades. [I hope, he told himself.] I wish you'd let her try it, doctor."

"What's her name?"

"Isabel Richards. Her father was bookkeeper in my father's bank for years. Maybe you'd be good enough to see her anyhow, Dr. Conklin. I don't suppose she could come over until after her mother's funeral tomorrow. There's not much chance in Hilltown for a girl to get a good job."

"Why, sure, James—bring her over. If she could be here Friday and Saturday so Miss Macey could show her the work—I'd rather have her than some co-ed who is thru school and only hanging around to be near the one she loves."

Going back to Hilltown, Paul's elation faded and doubts assailed him. He knew that in this research a day's carelessness could wipe out weeks, even months, of patient labor. Did he know how faithful Isabel would be? And how would she get back and forth to the university? He remembered then that Johnny Henkle drove a carful of Hilltown students over to University Town every day. She could ride with them. Paul's courage came flooding back at this sign that things could work out in detail. He increased the speed of his motorcycle, driving over the slippery roads at breakneck speed to be home a few moments early so that he could stop and talk to Isabel. But she was not at her grandmother's. She was at work.

"Why, she shouldn't be working today!" Paul was scandalized.

"Mrs. Engleman needs her, with Polly gone, and Isabel needs the money," said Mrs. Richards, simply enough. "Paul, your flowers are beautiful. Isabel just cried her eyes out when they came this morning. Polly's got lots of flowers," she added with satisfaction.

Paul left Isabel's grandmother's house with a few moments to spare and he decided to go to the jail to see Lem Richards.

"He's sick, Paul," Sheriff Anderson told him. "The county nurse is in there with him now, but you go on in. Last cell at the back there—"

Miss Meggs, the county nurse, opened the door and stepped out into the corridor with him a moment.

"What's wrong with him?" Paul asked in a low voice.

"Bad case of shock, and the liquor wearing off," she said. "Maybe he did kill Polly, but even so, the poor thing wasn't in his senses. I don't suppose the good Lord would count it murder. I told Sheriff Anderson he's not to devil Lem any more, trying to get him to confess. And don't you go asking him questions! Why, his confession wouldn't mean a thing. He's on the verge of D. T.'s. He's just plain gone to pieces right when he needs any courage he could muster."

"Can he go to the funeral tomorrow?" Paul asked.

"Not unless he's a lot better," said Miss Meggs.

ADM. H. WILEY, ONCE COMMANDER OF U. S. FLEET, DIES AT 76

Palm Beach, Fla., May 20 (AP).—Adm. Henry Ariosto Wiley, 76 years old, retired naval officer who formerly was commander of the United States fleet, died here today.

Adm. H. A. Wiley.

Wiley was commander of the fleet with the rank of full admiral from 1927 until his retirement from the navy in September, 1929.

Born at Troy, Ala., Jan. 31, 1867, Wiley was graduated from the Naval academy at Annapolis in 1888. He served aboard the U. S. S. Maple during the Spanish-American war.

Wiley attained the rank of captain in 1915, and served at various times as commander of the battleships New Jersey and Wyoming. Appointed rear admiral in 1918, he became commander of destroyers with the Pacific fleet in 1919. He became a vice admiral in 1923. After his retirement from the navy he was a member of the United States maritime commission for four years.

THREE SPEEDERS LOSE GASOLINE BOOKS FOR GOOD

Gasoline rationing books of three motorists were revoked permanently after hearings last night by members of rationing board No. 11 at 3130 South Halsted street. The motorists who lost their books, all of whom had been convicted of speeding, are John Kudla, 3609 South Wood street, A and B books; Raymond Weyher, 901 West 37th place, and Alvin Hayes, 1658 West 35th street, both A books.

Other boards suspended for varying periods the rationing privileges of 11 motorists convicted of speeding, as follows:

BOARD 28—220 North Kedzie avenue:

Robert Clifford, 731 North Christiana avenue, A and B books revoked for 15 days.

Edward Schwartz, 3459 Franklin boulevard, A and B books revoked for 15 days.

Miss Evelyn Bulownez, 1932 Erie street, A book revoked for 30 days.

Beverley Steenbergen, 1938 Ohio street, driving the car of Earl B. Steenbergen, same address, A and C books revoked for 30 days.

BOARD 50—6426 North Western avenue:

Daniel Glazer, 6334 North Bell avenue, A and B books revoked for 14 days.

William Armed, 1847 Greenleaf avenue, C book revoked for 14 days.

Morris Wolf, 2047 Pratt boulevard, A book revoked for 10 days.

BOARD 23—4233 West 26th street:

Joseph Sugar, 1856 South Komensky avenue, A and B coupons revoked until June 5.

David C. Boubelik, 4222 West 26th street, 13 C coupons revoked and current A book taken up.

David Pielet, 1551 South Kolin avenue, A book revoked until Jan. 1, 1944.

Louis Bernstein, 1916 South Hamlin avenue, current A book revoked.

Bernstein, who is about to enter the army, may have gasoline for two weeks' pleasure driving during his furlough immediately after induction, the board ruled.

HEAD-ON CRASH WITH STREET CAR KILLS MOTORIST

Edward Prusener, 29 years old, 2424 Belle Plaine avenue, employed as a foreman in a war factory, was fatally injured yesterday when an automobile he was driving collided with an east bound Irving Park road street car at Oakley avenue. The motorman, Edward Logenhan, 39, told police that Prusener apparently lost control of his car, which swerved across the center of the road and met the street car head-on. Prusener was dead when police took him to Martha Washington hospital.

Street Car Lines Ready to Use Women if Needed

Officials of the surface lines said yesterday that so far they have not found it necessary to train women to take over the jobs of men in the street car service, but that a training plan had been formulated that could be used on short notice

Crests of swollen rivers moved on last night, abating flood dangers in northern Illinois and Indiana, but bringing new perils to river towns in the southern parts of those states and to Missouri, Arkansas, and Oklahoma.

Associated Press dispatches from the high water area said the Red Cross had estimated that more than 0,000 persons were homeless. The dispatches indicated that crop damage had reached 30 million dollars. More than a million acres of fertile farm land was reported under water.

Attention centered in the mighty Mississippi, which was receiving torrents of water from its tributaries. At St. Louis, army engineers announced evacuation warnings had been issued for the Fort Chartres, Stringtown, Ivy Landing, and Grand Tower, Ill., levee areas. The engineers said they expected all other levees to hold between St. Louis and Cape Girardeau, Mo.

2,000 Soldiers on Levees.

Two thousand soldiers from Scott field, Illinois, and Jefferson Barracks, Mo., were assigned to bolster levees at Prairie du Pont, Ill.; Claryville, Mo., and nearby points. All troops at the big air force radio school at Scott field were being held at the post subject to call for flood duty.

The Missouri river broke thru its channel in St. Charles county, Missouri, and poured overland to meet the overflow of the Mississippi near West Alton, Mo.

The midwestern area office of the Red Cross in St. Louis said latest information was that flood conditions would be increasingly severe in Illinois counties along the Mississipp below St. Louis within the next 24 hours. The Illinois river, meanwhile, was reported at levee peak from Peoria south.

More than 15,000 civilian defense workers have been called out for flood duty in the midwest, OCD Director Landis said, and many additional thousands were reported standing by.

Evacuate Peoria Families.

At Peoria, preparations were being made for a 26 foot crest of the Illinois river expected today. The highest crest on record in that city was 26.9, reached in 1884. A steady stream of trucks hauled household goods from the Richland district of Peoria.

High water forced the R. G. Le Tourneau company, Peoria war plant, to abandon two of its buildings and a third building was being operated by a skeleton crew.

At Beardstown, on the Illinois river, 150 soldiers from Camp Ellis, near Lewistown, were strengthening the Coal creek levee across from Beardstown, while civilian volunteers toiled all night to erect a 3 foot extension of the 27.75 foot seawall which protects Beardstown itself.

Green Plans Plane Tour.

Gov. Green announced after a conference with department heads in Springfield last night that he would make an airplane inspection trip of the flooded areas today if weather permits flying. The governor named Adjt. Gen. Leo M. Boyle coördinator of all state flood relief activities and directed him to coöperate with the Red Cross in sending food, bedding and other supplies to districts which need them.

Howard Leonard, state director of agriculture, was ordered to begin a survey of the seed situation in preparation for replanting thousands of acres of ruined crops.

Gov. Schricker Tours Area.

Gov. Henry F. Schricker of Indiana, after a boat tour along the Wabash river in the Terre Haute area, said the situation was serious there. Two companies of army engineers were in Vincennes, building an earth filled timber box 3 feet high along 5,100 feet of concrete levee, and sandbagging 3,000 feet of earth levee.

Navy crews from the Indianapolis armory were sent to Newport, and military police from Fort Benjamin Harrison at Indianapolis went to Peru, Terre Haute on the Wabash, and to Washington, which lies in the fork of the White river's two branches. High water halted work in the Block coal fields around Sullivan.

The Chicago Motor club reported that Illinois roads covered by high water probably would be passable in a day or two. Motorists are now able to detour around most places where highways are submerged. The motor club reported many roads still are closed in Indiana, Missouri, Arkansas, and Oklahoma.

RAINS DESTROY BUNGLERS' HOPE OF BUMPER CROP

U. S. Now Must Seek Great Imports.

farm boys were taken into the army. The result is that 25 to 40 per cent of the spring pigs were lost because of lack of skilled care."

Rep. Paul Shafer [R., Mich.] said the nation was at the mercy of the burocrats.

Too Little and Too Late.

"It's always too little and too late with them," he asserted. "The damage caused by the flood brings up a good problem for the allied food conference."

Rep. Harold Knutson [R., Minn.] said a famine, if it occurs, will be the fault of "the starry eyed planners who killed 6½ million pigs, plowed under every third row of cotton and paid millions to farmers not to produce." Knutson said nature has a way of striking a balance every five years, and now nature is doing it, in spite of Vice President Henry A. Wallace's scheme for an ever-normal granary.

"Here is a case where all the best laid plans of mice and men here in Washington have been disrupted by the weather man," said Rep. Everett M. Dirksen [R., Ill.]. "Now all the government agencies should remove restrictions on farmers so that not a single additional moment will be lost in producing food."

Dairy Production to Drop.

John Brandt, president of the Land o' Lakes creamery, Minneapolis, Minn., told a conference of grocery executives in the Drake hotel yesterday that dairy production would decline by many million pounds below the national estimates before the end of the year.

"Regardless of how willing the farmer might be to produce sufficient supplies of dairy products, it becomes an economic impossibility, for he cannot afford to hire the labor even tho it is available," he said.

Experts said that if crop yields this summer are equal to the five year average, 1938-'42, there will be enough to allow an output of animal products in 1944 equal to that in 1943. This will be possible however, only if the United States imports tremendous quantities of feed from Canada and Australia. All surplus reserves will be gone in 1944.

In response to the call for more food the farmers have increased their numbers of live stock tremendously. Shipment of stocker and feed cattle into the midwest has increased 14 per cent above last year. The department of agriculture has called for a 15 per cent increase in the number of sows farrowing this fall.

Burocracy Delays Farmer.

All these demands could be met, the farmers assert, if they had been permitted to grow the feed. Yet restrictions on growing wheat were lifted only a few months ago, when Washington finally realized the nation was rapidly consuming its feed surplus.

The drain upon food supplies has been made topheavy by huge purchases for lend-lease shipment and army and navy requirements.

During the first three months of the year approximately one-tenth of America's meat supply was shipped to the nation's allies. Edward R. Stettinius Jr., lend-lease administrator, expects 1943 food shipments to exceed those of last year by approximately 6 per cent. He announced that this nation is supplying Great Britain with 10 per cent of its food supply.

Meat Going Abroad.

This year lend-lease beef and veal will be sent out at the rate of one pound out of every 100, compared with two-tenths of a pound from every 100 pounds last year. Eighteen per cent of our lamb and mutton supply will be shipped, as well as 13 per cent of our pork supply.

Figures on the amount of food purchased for the army and navy are a military secret, but the war department has declared that it is purchasing approximately 15,000 tons of food each day for an army of 5 million men.

Of the tremendous quantities of food used by the army, a large portion is lost thru waste. A senate war investigating committee last month reported that after a two year study of selected army camps they found the army was wasting 21 per cent of its food.

Government Buys Too Much.

A 20 per cent reduction in government purchases of canned fruits and vegetables and juices was ordered Wednesday by the war food administration. This action followed complaints by members of congress that purchases of canned goods have been made far in excess of actual requirements.

Civilians face egg rationing as a result of heavy government purchases. Half a pound out of every 100 pounds of butter, fats and oils also is going abroad and lessening civilian supplies.

All of these factors will be affected sharply by the lowered crop production which seems inevitable this year as a result of the rains and lack of foresight in planning by government officials.

The inevitable short feed supply will effect a drastic change in the kinds and weights of meat animals produced. Farmers now are fighting unfavorable cattle feeding ratios, with a resulting lack of interest in restocking empty feed lots.

Lack of feed will send cattle and hogs to market at light weights, more cattle will move directly to slaughter from the range, and dairy cows will receive less grain and produce less milk.

These factors, the farmers and processers assert, will combine to change proposed lend-lease shipments, imperil the food supply of the army and navy, and probably result in a reduction of the amount of food now available for civilians.

There is little chance farmers now will be able to meet their increased food goals, and the nation will be fortunate if they can equal last year's production for labor and machinery shortages add to their burden.

INDIANA GENTLEMAN SENDS 2 BITS—IT'S HORSE ON W-G-N MAN

This is a story about Raymond Beever, a gentleman from Indiana, more specifically from rural route 8, Lafayette, Ind. It also concerns Jack Brickhouse, W-G-N's baseball announcer.

Brickhouse, during the baseball reports, occasionally slips in an announcement about a baseball record book that is available to listeners. Besides some wrappers, Brickhouse asks for "two bits: 25 cents." The other day Brickhouse received a package from Beever. It contained two bits: two heavy bridle bits. Brickhouse sent Beever the record book.

Joel Kupperman, the youngest Quiz Kid, marked his seventh birthday on Tuesday in bed with the measles. [He recently had the mumps.] When the doctor took his temperature he found it was 102 degrees. "Change that to centigrade," said the doctor as he got out his pills. Joel quickly came up with the answer: "Thirty-eight and eight-ninths degrees." A Quiz Kid is still a Quiz Kid, whether plain or splotched.

Richard Williams will make his 100th appearance on the show Sunday. He has beat all the rest. That means that Richard, now 13, has earned $10,000 in war bonds on the show.

ASK 125 SUBURBS TO JOIN UNIFIED CHARITY DRIVE

Plans to include 125 suburban communities of Cook, Du Page, and Lake counties in a single unified solicitation campaign for the Community and War Fund of Metropolitan Chicago, Inc., were outlined at a meeting at 122 South Michigan avenue yesterday. Civic leaders of some 90 suburbs were present.

The plan contemplates designation of one agency in each suburb to conduct the campaign. From the amount raised, it is proposed that 12 monthly payments be made to all suburban agencies heretofore supported by local campaigns. The annual allocation to an agency is not to exceed the amount it received in the preceding year.

The National War Fund, Inc., and the Illinois State War Chest, Inc., have assigned to the three counties 69 per cent of the Illinois quota for all war funds, with the exception of the American Red Cross. Paul S. Russell, vice president of the Harris Trust and Savings bank, was appointed head of a committee to develop a plan of suburban coöperation.

PAMPHLETS' USE IN WAR ON JAPAN URGED BY GREW

Appleton, Wis., May 20 (AP).—Joseph C. Grew, former ambassador to Japan, declared here tonight that the Japanese war lords would fear pamphlets of truth, dropped from American planes, almost as much as they fear bombs.

He characterized Japanese people as "voluntary slaves," in a speech at the executives' conference of the Institute of Paper Chemistry, and said they were "not racially bad," but "are badly misled at the present time."

He said he had no doubt that "when our bombers start regular routine flights over the military objectives of the main island of Japan, the Japanese government will fear the dropping of pamphlets almost as much as they fear the dropping of bombs."

"The Japanese people can be made free by the truth," he said, "and Japan's militarists know it."

SOFT DRINK
Operations
Executive

National food organization has an unusual opportunity for a man with executive qualifications. This permanent position carries major responsibilities and has an important post-war future. Preferred: a man between 35 and 40 years of age, not necessarily a college graduate but with thorough knowledge and experience in the production of soft drinks from the creation of syrups and extracts to the finished drink, and in the sale and marketing of soft drinks. This background should include experience in production methods, plant care and maintenance, distribution and merchandising, and a working knowledge of laboratory control methods. Personal habits must include consistent temperance in both drinking and smoking. The most important consideration is management ability, and the salary will be commensurate with the responsibilities. If you think this position fits you, send details on age, education, employment history, draft status, and any other subjects that seem appropriate. Replies will be held in strict confidence; however, they may be made through a third person.

DAY BY DAY ON THE FARM

The FARM by Gail Compton

THE Shorthorn cattle at the farm, one of the three beef types being fed, have more history back of them than the Angus or Herefords. Aside from this they have many excellent qualities which make them fine beef animals, well suited to midwestern farming conditions.

The Shorthorns were the first beef type to be imported to America. A few arrived in Virginia in 1783. In 1791 more were imported to New York. The first direct importation to the middle west was made in 1817 when some were shipped to Kentucky.

First Registered.

Since these early days the Shorthorns have spread rapidly thruout the nation and have become a favorite. The Shorthorn type also can boast the first herd registration ever made of any breed of cattle. This was created in 1822.

The importance the Shorthorns have had in breeding up the common cattle of the country lies in the fine beef qualities the breed possesses. They are noted for their large size, and indeed are the largest of all beef breeds. Mature bulls in show condition may weigh more than 2,200 pounds.

The color of the Shorthorn may range from deep red thru roan to a pure white. Now the dark red is the favored color among breeders, and the cattle at the farm all were purchased with this color.

Shorthorns Easily Handled.

The Shorthorn has undoubtedly the best manner and disposition of the beef types. It is quiet and mild and consequently is easily handled. For these reasons it makes an excellent animal in the feed lot. Beef type Shorthorns usually furnish plenty of milk for their calves. The dual purpose, or milking type Shorthorn, makes a good family cow producing both beef and milk.

Shorthorns are only fair grazers and for this reason were not as widely utilized on the western ranges as were the Herefords. They are excellent feeders, however, and make large daily gains on full feed.

The Shorthorn carcass has a good shape and is well developed in the high priced cuts. Some may tend to be a little light in the round, but the flesh is well marbled and has a good texture.

To top all these qualities the Shorthorns are beautiful animals. Their coloring, form, and style make them a valuable addition to any field or barn yard. In stories to follow the qualities of the Aberdeen-Angus and the Hereford cattle at the farm will be evaluated.

The GARDEN by Ben Markland

Gardening is temporarily listed as "inactive" as far as Illinois residents are concerned. Gardens on high, well drained plots are not being seriously hurt, but the saturated soil is providing its own signpost, which reads "Keep Out."

Many gardeners have bought tomato plants in the last week so that they would be ready for planting as soon as the weather breaks. Plants deteriorating in basements or garages give the gardener an urge to work them into the ground even tho it is wet. New plants packed in wet gardens will have little chance to survive, and inasmuch as they can be safely kept in a cool place for several weeks, they should be held until the ground is friable.

Gardens most seriously damaged by the persistent rains are those in low areas which have little natural or artificial drainage. Seeds already planted in such plots may survive unless water is standing on the plot, in which case the seeds or young plants will decay from lack of air circulation.

Dying Man's Note Gives Clew to $750 Bank Fund

Clifford Pitts, 61 years old, 4036 North Mozart street, a gateman at the Chicago State hospital, was found dead in his room in the Amneta hotel, 2417 South 52d avenue, Cicero, last night. Police said roach powder was in a glass on a table in the room. Pitts left a note saying his bank book was in his coat. It showed a balance of $750.

Chicago's First War Nursing Schools Open

Chicago's first war nursery centers for "day shift orphans" opened yesterday.

The opening of 11 centers, former settlement houses financed by WPA and strategically located thruout the city to care for the children of mothers employed in war industry, was announced by Mrs. L. Robert Mellin, a member of the board of education, as the first step in the board's new war time extended schools' service program.

Twenty-seven other nursery schools will be set up under the program in public schools within the next two weeks, she said.

The schools, which are being sponsored by the board with the cooperation of the OCD committee on child care, are being financed by a $130,876 grant provided under the Lanum act to care for such war time emergencies and by the parents of the children.

It is anticipated that 1,600 children between the ages of 2 and 5 will be cared for in the city's 38 war time nursery schools, Mrs. Mellin stated. The children will be supervised by a staff of professional welfare workers and child care experts, and will be given nutritive meals, naps, and other attentions necessary for healthy childhood at a cost of 40 cents a day.

The centers will be open from 7 a. m. to 6 p. m. daily. The children will be delivered to the centers and called for by their parents or relatives.

The opening of the nurseries to pre-school children will relieve a drastic situation for hundreds of working mothers whose "day shift orphans" wander the streets or are under the inadequate care of adolescent sisters and brothers during the day, Mrs. Mellin contended.

The centers which opened yesterday were the Abraham Lincoln center, 700 Oakwood boulevard; Baptist missionary training school, 2969 Vernon avenue; Bethlehem creche settlement, 235 West 53d street; Christopher House, 2507 Greenview avenue; Howell Neighborhood club, 1365 East 65th street; Jewish People's institute, 3500 Douglas boulevard; Newberry avenue center, 1335 Newberry avenue; Parkway community center, 5120 South Park way; South Chicago Neighborhood House, 9135 Brandon avenue, and the University of Chicago settlement house, 4630 McDowell avenue.

Calls Problem Grave

Industry's widespread employment of Chicago mothers has brought about a grave problem concerning the care of children, Miss Mary E. Murphy, director of the Elizabeth McCormick Memorial fund and chairman of the children's committee for the office of civilian defense, said yesterday.

Miss Murphy spoke yesterday at the second annual public conference of the Illinois Welfare association, an organization coördinating resources and programs of all welfare organizations in the state, in the La Salle hotel. The conference, sponsored by the Chicago district of the association, was called for study of problems involving children during the war.

"A contradictory situation faces mothers today," she said. "They know they should stay home and care for their children, yet the war man power commission is asking for 125,000 women to work in factories. The result is that great numbers of women are leaving their children for lucrative jobs.

"The OCD children's committee has found that not only are the women coming from the industrial areas, where welfare agencies have already set up day nurseries, but from every other community thruout the city as well."

At a conference business session, Miss Mary L. Thompson, executive secretary of the Chicago Society for the Hard of Hearing, was reëlected president of the Chicago district of the association. Others elected were Mrs. Elthea Atwater and George J. Klupar, vice presidents, and Mrs. Katherine Lain Marsh, treasurer.

5 Popes' Peace Plans Put Into Book Form by Archbishop Stritch

Archbishop Samuel A. Stritch yesterday announced early publication of a volume containing the peace planning and pronouncements of five popes from Leo XIII. to Pius XII. which were compiled under his direction. The volume, to be published next month by the National Catholic Welfare conference, will contain 920 pages.

Research on modern papal peace leadership by church scholars under the direction of the Rev. Harry C. Koenig, librarian of St. Mary of the Lake seminary, Mundelein, was suggested at a meeting of the hierarchy of the United States three years ago in Washington, D. C., when the Chicago archbishop was named chairman of a special committee for the task.

The five peace points of the present pontiff are the subject of a detailed study in the forthcoming volume. Other popes whose peace leadership is presented in the book are Pius X., Benedict XV., and Pius XI.

Urges Women to Prepare for Greater Tasks

American women should prepare to fulfill satisfactorily the increasing opportunities for them in the war and post-war years, Mrs. Alexander Thomson, president of Western College for Women, Oxford, O., said yesterday at the Hotel Sherman, where she was luncheon guest of the Kiwanis Club of Chicago.

Mrs. Thomson was speaking both as an educator and as the "American Mother of 1943" selected by the Golden Rule foundation and given a citation at New York on Mother's day. The tall, handsome, college president is well qualified to speak in both rôles—the daughter of Dr. Charles William Dabney, former president of the University of Tennessee and University of Cincinnati, Mrs. Thomson is the mother of four sons, all in service or war work.

"Homemaking will remain a woman's most important work, but she may be asked to fit it in with another job—she'll have a two-fold career," Mrs. Thomson said.

"She'll succeed only if she has a thoro and basic education and training. I mean the kind of education that is a maturing, that provides both spiritual and intellectual values. Germany has given us an example of training people to be efficient tools. I don't think we want that.

"That is why I say of our girls—let's keep them in school as long as we can, because they are going to have new work and more difficult work than ever before."

Mrs. Thomson explained that many war service jobs must be done now, but she also urged that women remain in school long enough to carry on the important work of training other young people. She said the country was short 500,000 teachers.

As the 1943 mother, Mrs. Thomson visited the Chicago Service Men's centers as the guest of Mrs. Kelly yesterday afternoon. She said service men from all over the country and Canada had written to her since she was selected "mother." The Golden Rule foundation has been choosing an outstanding woman for that title annually since 1935.

Alumnae of Western college heard the president speak last night at the College club. Mrs. Thomson said she planned to return to Ohio today after appearing on a radio program.

Lutheran Youth League to Mark 50th Birthday

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

The 50th anniversary of the founding of the International Walther league, youth group of the Evangelical Lutheran Missouri synod, will be celebrated Sunday thruout the country. The celebration will be led by the Rev. Otto H. Theiss, executive secretary of the league, from the new Lutheran Youth building, 875 North Dearborn street.

Paster Theiss will address the 77,000 members of the league, together with the radio audience of the Columbia Church of the Air, at 9 o'clock Sunday morning. The musical portion of the radio program will be offered by the league's a cappella choir from Milwaukee, Wis. The same group of singers will appear in an anniversary concert at Grace Lutheran church, River Forest, Sunday afternoon.

Among other celebrations conducted by leagues in local churches will be that addressed by Lt. Comdr. Raymond Hohenstein at St. Phillip's church, North Campbell and Bryn Mawr avenues. Lt. Comdr. Hohenstein was awarded the Purple Heart in recognition of wounds received during the bombing of Pearl Harbor.

The Rev. Thomas Coates, member of the league staff, will be the anniversary speaker at Christ church, Richmond street and McLean avenue, at the regular Sunday morning service.

The league was founded in Trinity church, Buffalo, N. Y., on May 23, 1893, when 12 societies comprising a membership of 693 young people launched the league on its career.

At present there are 2,584 local societies. The league was named for the Rev. Dr. C. F. W. Walther, one of the pioneers of Missouri synod Lutherans of America. Sixteen thousand members of the league are with the fighting forces of the country.

Dr. Albert G. Butzer of Buffalo, N. Y., who for many years was associated with Dr. Harry Fosdick at Riverside church, New York, will be the principal speaker Sunday night at the Sunday Evening club, Orchestra hall. The subject will be "Have Faith in the Future."

During his student days at North Central college, Naperville, Dr. Butzer was a regular attendant at Sunday evening services. Dr. Edwin E. Aubrey, University of Chicago, will be the speaker at the 7 o'clock services at the club.

Replacing the annual session of the Northern Baptist convention, war time sessions of the denomination's general council and the council on finance and promotion will convene in four day meetings Monday at the Hotel La Salle. The convention had been scheduled for Denver, Colo. Dr. Walter Van Kirk of New York, Dr. Earl V. Pierce of Minneapolis, Minn., former president of the convention, and Prof. Elmer A. Fridell of Berkeley, Cal., new head of the church's foreign missions board, will be principal speakers.

News Received of Weddings and Betrothals

BY JUDITH CASS.

ANNOUNCEMENTS of weddings and engagements have been received from several out of town places. From Camp Polk, La., Maj. Charles Edwin Galloway of the army and Miss Jean Elizabeth Donaldson have sent announcements of their marriage on April 26 in Stanford Memorial church, Stanford, Cal.

The bride is a sister of Dr. Lincoln Bruce Donaldson, whose wife is Maj. Galloway's eldest daughter, the former Gertrude Galloway. Their mother, Mrs. William L. Donaldson, and her family, moved to California after living for many years in Evanston. Dr. Donaldson now is a lieutenant [j. g.] in the navy, and he and his wife also are in California.

Major Galloway, who is in the medical corps, is stationed at Camp Polk. He and his first wife, Mrs. Hagar Gallaway of Hubbard Woods, were divorced last March.

Anne Witherspoon's Betrothal of Interest.

The engagement of Miss Anne Witherspoon to Midshipman H. Bartow Farr Jr., which has been announced by her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Preston Witherspoon of New York, is of interest here because Midshipman Farr's late mother and grandparents, Mrs. Mildred Blair Farr and the Chauncey J. Blairs, lived in Chicago. Miss Witherspoon, a member of the Junior League of New York, was graduated from the Brearley school in 1940 and was presented to society the following season in New York and in Richmond, Va. She is a descendant of James Witherspoon, brother of John Witherspoon, who was a signer of the Declaration of Independence and president of Princeton university at the time of the Revolutionary war.

Midshipman Farr, son of Mr. Farr of New York, was graduated from St. George's school and from Princeton university, where he was a member of the Colonial club. He is attending the naval training school at Columbia university. The wedding will take place next month.

Eastern Girl Betrothed to Charles F. Henrotin.

From Roslyn, N. Y., comes word of the engagement of Miss Elizabeth Curtis Harvey, daughter of Walter Miles Harvey of that city, to Charles Fernand Henrotin, son of Mrs. Victor Henrotin and the late Mr. Henrotin of Le Havre, France, and Chicago. Mr. Henrotin is a nephew of the late Dr. Fernand Henrotin, for whom Henrotin hospital was named.

Miss Harvey is a descendant of Gen. William Bartlett, of John Pepper of Philadelphia, and of John Jay Knox, one time United States controler of the currency. Her fiancé, a graduate of Haileybury college in Herts, England, held a commission in the British army during the first World war. His brother, Frederick F. Henrotin, formerly was American vice consul in Casablanca, North Africa, where he resides. The wedding is planned for May 29.

News of Corp. Ralph Chatillon's marriage on Saturday in La Jolla, Cal., to Eleanor Colt Hudson comes as a surprise to Corp. Chatillon's Chicago friends, as he and his bride have known each other only a few weeks. They are living in La Jolla, where Corp. Chatillon is stationed with the marine corps. The bride, a daughter of Mrs. Lemuel P. Dean of La Jolla, has a young son by a former marriage. Corp. Chatillon's two previous marriages to Mary Elizabeth Reid, now Mrs. Russell T. Foster, and to Mary Louise Robinson both ended in divorce.

Corp. Chatillon's cousin, Lt. [j. g.] Lefens Porter, has arrived from San Francisco to spend a two week leave with his wife and little daughter and his mother, Mrs. Frank S. Porter.

Entertainment Scheduled for Two Notable Visitors.

The arrival in Chicago of two distinguished visitors — Dr. Eduard Benes, president of Czecho-Slovakia, and Sen. Burton K. Wheeler—account for several large functions jotted down on hostess calendars for the coming week. Dr. Benes, who arrives tomorrow from New York and Washington, will make the first appearance of his three day stay at 1 p. m. tomorrow before the Chicago Council on Foreign Relations. To celebrate his return President and Mrs. Robert M. Hutchins of the University of Chicago will give a dinner party on Monday in the Hutchins home.

Sen. Wheeler, who will be here with his wife over Memorial day week-end, will speak before the University of Michigan club of Chicago at its spring dinner on May 28 in the Red Lacquer room of the Palmer House. He was graduated from the university its 1905 law class.

Following the Hutchinses' dinner on Monday, Dr. Benes will speak at 8:30 p. m. in Mandel hall for University of Chicago students and faculty members on "The Policy of the Present War and the Future of Peace." The subject of Sen. Wheeler's talk on the 28th will be "War and Peace." Several of the speaker's classmates have reserved tables for dinner. Altho the meeting is primarily for Michigan alumni, a limited number of reservations will be available for nonmembers of the club.

Arts Club's Tea Starts an Hour Earlier Today.

The Arts club's tea today will start at an earlier hour than usual, 3:15 p. m., when professional musician members will give a musical. Mrs. Charles H. Swift, hostess for the afternoon, will be assisted by Mrs. William E. Ragland. Mrs. John Alden Carpenter will "do" the tea table.

The last Sophomore Assembly party of the season had been planned as a formal dinner-dance tonight at the Sunset Ridge Country club, but because of food rationing the club finds that it cannot serve supper. Instead the committee is having box suppers packed by a caterer in town and taken out to the club so that the festivities may go on as scheduled. Mr. and Mrs. Russell Stern, Mr. and Mrs. Leon Ellis, and Mrs. Francis T. Wilson will be hosts and hostesses for the evening.

The Highland Park-Ravinia center of the Infant Welfare society, headed by Mrs. Franklin J. Lunding, and the center's senior board, of which Mrs. D. Dean McCormick is president, will meet for their annual luncheon at 1 p. m. on Monday at the Hotel Moraine-on-the-Lake. New members will be introduced. Special guests of the two groups will be Mrs. Gordon D. Shorney, president of the women's auxiliary, and Miss Jeannette Townsend and Miss Sara Place of the society's administrative staff.

Women in War Work

By Kate Massee

In a cheery suite in the Fine Arts building, just down the hall from a series of busy song studios, the Chicago Society for the Hard of Hearing quietly conducts a program of adjustment and aid for those whose hearing has been lost or impaired. Organized in 1916 by Miss Gertrude Torrey and Miss Rose Dickinson, who are still members of the board, the society is the third of the 160 now in the American Society for the Hard of Hearing.

The Chicago group's contributions to the war have been many. Thru its lip reading classes, which are open to the public, many women as well as men have so mastered lip reading that they are now employed in war industries, where employers are enthusiastic. Miss Mary L. Thompson, executive secretary of the society, said the demand for these persons far exceeds the supply.

The society has 360 members today, not all of whom are hard of hearing but who are interested in the society's work, which also covers prevention of this handicap. Individual contributions, membership fees, and benefits partly support the unit. This year it also has been accepted by the Community fund.

Miss Thompson, a trained social worker formerly associated with the Council of Social Agencies, estimated there are about 325,000 hard of hearing persons in Chicago. And this figure does not include the deaf. Those who lost their hearing before the establishment of good speech are in the latter category, she said.

One of the dangers accompanying a loss of hearing is social isolation, Miss Thompson said, and this is one of the things the society works to eliminate. Its lip reading classes enable persons to retain contact with their fellow men, giving them courage and understanding. Eight are held weekly during the day and evening, and all are taught by competent volunteers.

The society has a hearing aid bureau where more than 20 types of hearing aids are available for trial by persons seeking to determine which type to purchase. None is sold by the society, but by appointment persons may try them. Many of the hearing aids have been lent to persons seeking employment, to those having important court appearances to make, or to those in hospitals.

The society has a Red Cross unit and its 64 members piled up the enviable score of 7,666 hours of work in an 11 month period. A first aid class was conducted, and 35 members received their first aid pins.

Educational and musical programs are conducted regularly in the society's headquarters, and a group hearing aid makes the speaker and the music audible to the attendants.

Dances are held occassionally to the music of a phonograph. The dancers respond to the vibrations of the music, and the events are enormously successful. Card parties are held frequently and a recent photo exhibit attracted considerable interest.

Miss Thompson said that during the first World war 3.6 per cent of those who received disability compensation were men whose hearing had been impaired. With no knowledge of how these figures will increase in this conflict, the society is preparing itself to meet any challenge.

White Collar GIRL

BY RUTH MACKAY

Diary of a Successful Man.

"Monday: Got down to the office on time . . . secretary late, as usual. That's the trouble with women . . . they get the idea that they are due on the job when they get there. Now where did she put that file I wanted? O, here. And here's a folder from the transcribing department. What lousy service they're giving nowadays. I sent this cylinder down at 4:30 last night . . . you'd think they could get it back here by 5. I wonder who the dame is that transcribed this cylinder . . . she's got a note on that I didn't spell out the name. It's a wonder they wouldn't get some women down there that could spell a simple name like Kzlensky.

"Tuesday: I guess I'd better get caught up on my correspondence. Here's a note from the Boston office dated January, marked RUSH. I'd better answer it right away, AIR MAIL, SPECIAL DELIVERY. I wouldn't want them to think the men in the Chicago office aren't as prompt as they are. This letter answered one I sent them back last June. . . . Well, let me see. Operator, take a letter to Mr. Palmer, App. Prod. Co-ord re Mrs. C. H. Homeyer, Care of Bronswood Cemetery. What has been done with respect to selling the above 'live' prospect various lines of insurance on the tombstone she has been inhabiting. [Joke, what?] That's all, operator . . . O, never mind the letter. I changed my mind. Cancel it.

"Wednesday: Secretary late as usual. I guess I'd better get at this heap of mail and get that cleaned up. Operator, take a letter to Mr. Jack Smith. I haven't got his address here but I'm sure you can find it somewhere down there. Dear Jack: How's tricks? I hear your golf game has improved considerably. I intend to spend my vacation fishing this summer . . . hope I get a chance to see you in the meantime. Yours very truly. Operator, postscript. Your automobile, compensation, fire insurance, and boiler policies all expire within the next week. Be sure to wire me if you wish them renewed.

"Thursday: Good morning, Miss Jones, on time for a change? Let's get down to work. What, a sore finger? O, all right, I'll use the ediphone again. Operator, the attached are instructions on copywork. They're a little long and it would be too tedious for me to write them out, so I'll let you do it. I want 15 copies on white, 4 copies on yellow, and be sure to have only 2 names appearing on the original showing the carbon copies are to go to Mr. . . . [telephone rings] . . . to go back to the instructions . . . if there is anything you don't understand, be sure and don't call me.

"Friday: [My anniversary.] It's a wonder my wife wouldn't congratulate me for staying married to her this long. I feel just as tho this were Friday the 13th. . . . Well, look at this. The transcribing department sent back a folder with a note 'needle not down while dictating . . . did not register.' They could say 'sorry.' And here's another one saying I sent down the dictation without correspondence pertaining to the subjects dictated upon. I wonder what they could have done with my correspondence!

"Maybe I should have stayed down on the farm like my father wanted me to."

Thru the Looking Glass

You should, you really must conserve on your beauty aids.

Not because we face the horrible prospect of not having any. We're producing them at a great rate and will continue to do so—but the demand has increased furiously.

When you cream your face, using three times more than you need to do the job well, stop to think of a few things like this: There are defense plants where thousands of women must use cleansing cream and a protective three times a day. It's a compulsory ritual, on morning and afternoon relief and at noon. Its purpose, of course, is to help prevent industrial dermatitis.

That takes a lot of jars of creams, used up in a succession faster than we've ever known before for a comparable number of women!

Then, remember that there are more women working. They have the money to buy cosmetics and, being in business, must groom themselves well. Every working woman, of choice and necessity, uses more cream, lipstick and beauty aids in general than the woman who tends her house and makes up just when she goes out to lunch or when her husband comes home for dinner.

The manufacturers are faced with the problem now of trying to meet an enormous demand for their products—a greater demand than they've ever experienced before. On the other hand, their factories are coping with less man power; transportation of the jars and bottles isn't a smooth-as-silk job, since military men and material must come first on the rails.

Every single woman who uses beauty aids can and should help to some extent. Buy larger sizes. Use your preparations in such a way that you get efficiency without waste. Cap your bottles to prevent evaporation. Buy wisely.

Be saving of everything you choose and use, from nail polish to cleansing tissues. There will be enough to go around if all conserve.

Real Maderia Embroidered Goods Arrive

BY REA SEEGER.

Typical feminine finery gets thru the submarine hazards, for some exquisitely sheer embroidered vestees, gilets, and jabots made in Madeira have arrived to tempt the appreciative shoppers.

This lovely Madeira work is well known, the delicate microscopic stitches of the beautiful designs, the handwork in the drawn thread motifs, and the scalloped edges rival the breath taking embroidery work on baby's christening robes.

This is the sheer flattery that disappears in record time, so shop now while the collections are complete. The vestees come in several models, some with delicate little narrow frills around the collar line, others with turnover or convertible collars and some with a dainty scalloped edge instead of any kind of a collar.

The embroidery is lavishly worked where it will dramatize the V neckline of dress or coat, also along the collar when the collar is used.

Tiny bows of embroidered organdy [the gilets and vestees are of fine, sheer lawn] and jabots are as beautiful as the rest of this Madeira collection.

Wear the jabots with your tailored dresses and suits, the butterfly bows can be used in numerous ways. Pin them on your pocket, high under your chin, or pinned to your sleeve cuffs.

Some are small enough to be pinned to the instep of your summer linen pumps, and both sizes of bows are slick ideas for a plain white pill box. Madeira finds such as these are exceedingly rare, but when they are available buy them for they're white magic for any wardrobe.

New Schweppe Nurses' Home Opening Today

BY ELEANOR PAGE.

The story of how two years of planning and three-quarters of a million dollars have been made into what is surely the most beautiful as well as the most practical nurses' home in the world will be illustrated today at the dedication of the Schweppe Memorial building of the St. Luke's hospital school of nursing.

The more than 1,200 who have rontributed $693,532.48 to the building fund have been invited to come between 3 and 4 p. m. to see what the hospital's 22 men trustees and 68 members of the woman's board have done with the money.

The 200 student nurses who will call Schweppe Memorial home during their many months of training will be able to call it just that, and from the bottom of their hearts. It's not magnificent, it's not grand, and it's not too formal. It is the meticulous attention to detail, right down to the ash trays and lamp shades, the long, weary hours that Miss Cornelia Conger and Mrs. I. Newton Perry of the hospital's woman's board devoted to matching colors and chintzes, that is magnificently impressive.

The building is unusual in that it was built from the inside out. Miss Conger and Mrs. Perry, who were responsible for the decorating, conferred many months with the architect, Carl Ericson, before ground was broken in February, 1942. He drew the plans after their designs. For the furnishings, a separate fund totaling $40,198.81 was raised.

Not only is each floor decorated differently, but the disposition of some of the principal rooms is different. That, too, was the result of careful planning.

It is in the cunningly contrived bedrooms, principally, that the hand of the women who planned the hospital is most clearly seen. Each room is only 13½ feet by 8 feet 7 inches, including closet space at the entrance and a built-in washbowl opposite it that is hidden when the door is open. The window is off center, so there will be no drafts to blow on the head of the bed and no light in the eyes of the student when she sleeps in the day time.

Against the closet wall is a bureau, a rather high one, topped by a good mirror which reflects the light from the window, and over which is an electric light. An easy chair, upholstered in some light, colorful stuff, is on the other side of the window from the bed, and occupying the remaining wall space is a sturdy kneehole desk, with plenty of work space on top. Above it are hanging shelves. Low beds help the illusion of spaciousness.

The rooms are painted in a variety of pastel shades, and no two colors are next to each other or across from each other in the long corridors. Some of the beds are covered in solid colors and some in stripes; harmonizing chintz curtains often match the pillow covers. Each room cost $200 to furnish.

The living room on each floor is comfortable and pretty, and each has a kitchen where the students may prepare lazy Sunday breakfasts or snacks. The china was selected to match the wall paper colors and each room has a card table. In one Miss Conger has used a pair of brown couches and a pair of blue chairs that had been in the old building. She matched these colors exactly in a fascinating paper with brown and blue figures of men and women. The lamps are of gold.

The director and assistant director of the nursing school were consulted on their decorating preferences for their seventh and eighth floor suites at the south end of the corridors. Green and yellow was the former's choice. In went pale yellow walls, bookshelves lined in turquoise, turquoise carpets, gay curtains combining the principal colors, and even turquoise tiling in the bathroom that connects the sitting room and bedroom. Armour's Meat Ration Meals

8 Hearty Meat Meals for a FAMILY OF 4

Marie Gifford, Armour's food economist, gives you another week of menus worked out for the 64-point allowance of a family of 4. The market order below shows exact quantities of meat, butter and shortening to buy.

SUNDAY—Red Stamp Points—28
(With leftovers for Tuesday and Wednesday)
Armour's Pork Loin Roast★
Spiced Apple Sauce
Mashed Potatoes Gravy
Mixed Green Salad
Fresh Strawberry Pie

You'll want a tender, fresh-flavored cut of pork for this dinner—so ask for Armour's.

MONDAY—Red Stamp Points—3
Dried Beef★ Curry on Toast
Broiled Tomatoes Fresh Spinach
Apple Betty Cream

Recipe: DRIED BEEF CURRY ON TOAST
4 oz. Armour's Star Dried Beef
¼ cup Cloverbloom Butter or margarine
¼ cup flour
2 cups milk
¼ tsp. pepper
½ tsp. curry powder

Melt butter in sauce pan over low heat; add flour and blend with butter. Add milk gradually, stirring to prevent lumping. When all milk has been added stir over low heat until thickened. Add beef broken into small pieces. Add pepper and curry powder, but do not add salt. Serve at once over crisp toast or fried noodles. 4 servings.

TUESDAY—(Sunday Leftovers)
Scalloped Pork, Noodles and Mushrooms
New Peas Buttered
Cabbage and Carrot Slaw
Gingerbread Cream Cheese Topping

WEDNESDAY—Red Stamp Points—6
Lamb Stew★ with Peas, Carrots, Onions and Potatoes
Wilted Lettuce Bacon Dressing
Corn Bread Butter
Butterscotch Packaged Pudding

Choice meat makes a world of difference in the flavor of your stew—ask for Armour's Star Lamb when you buy.

THURSDAY—Red Stamp Points—4
Star Salami★ Spaghetti
Hard Rolls Green Tossed Salad
Graham Cracker Torte

Recipe: STAR SALAMI SPAGHETTI
½ lb. Star Salami (cut half into 8 very thin slices and grind or chop other half)
3 tbsps. Cloverbloom Butter, margarine or bacon drippings
1 cup chopped onion
1 cup sliced fresh mushrooms
1 tbsp. flour
1½ cups Armour's Tomato Juice
1 cup water
1½ tsps. Worcestershire Sauce
¾ tsp. salt
⅛ tsp. pepper
¼ cup chopped green pepper
2 tbsps. minced parsley
6-8 oz. uncooked spaghetti

Melt butter. Add onions and mushrooms and brown lightly. Blend in flour. Add chopped Salami. Add tomato juice diluted with water and seasonings. Simmer 25 minutes. Add parsley and green pepper and simmer 5 minutes more. In the meantime, cook spaghetti in boiling, salted water until tender (about 15 minutes). Drain and rinse with boiling water. To serve, make a ring of spaghetti on chop plate and pour sauce in center. Encircle with sliced Star Salami. Makes 4 generous servings.

FRIDAY—(not rationed)
Fried Fish Filets Lemon
Riced Potatoes or Hominy
Escalloped Tomatoes and Celery
Avocado and Watercress Salad
Fruit Gelatin Dessert

SATURDAY—Red Stamp Points—5
Meat Loaf★ with Tomato Sauce
Pan Fried Potatoes

Savory Gravy Can Make or Ruin a Meal

A good, savory gravy is one of the best extenders of meat flavors and probably one of the most poorly prepared dishes to come out of the kitchen. Gravy should be more than a coverup for mashed potatoes and meat stews for it can be the making of the meal, and whether you like it thick or thin, it should be smooth and full of meaty flavor.

Expensive chops and steaks aren't necessary for gravy can be made from almost any kind of meat such as liver, fried salt pork, lamb shanks, heart, or meat balls. Save the makings for gravy from meat drippings, bones and trimmings, too. Simmer the trimmings and bones in water, then strain and store the stock, covered, in the refrigerator. The water in which vegetables have been cooked may be stored in the same manner to be used as part of the liquid.

When meat is entirely missing from the meal, try serving gravy made from leftover drippings or stock with hot biscuits, cornmeal or whole wheat waffles, mashed squash, squares of baked dressing, toasted English muffins, or browned hominy. And when you're preparing the savory sauce, remember to measure ingredients accurately and brown the flour before adding any liquid if you want it to be rich in color and nongreasy.

Brown Gravy.

Measure fat and juice in pan and skim off excess fat. For each cup of gravy desired, use 2 tablespoons of flour, 2 tablespoons drippings, and 1 cup liquid [water, stock or part milk]. Stir flour into fat and cook until lightly browned; gradually stir in liquid and cook for 5 minutes, stirring until smooth and thickened; season to taste with salt and pepper and strain. Milk makes the gravy lighter in color and gives a delicious flavor.

Variations.

1. With veal roast drippings make a sour cream gravy using water and a small amount of sour cream for the liquid.

2. Season gravy made from roast pork drippings with a dash of sage.

3. Add diced, cooked vegetables to gravy made for braised tongue.

4. When cooking pot roast, spread horseradish over the meat, cook until tender, and prepare gravy from drippings. The flavor is delicious. Or rub the roast with powdered ginger and thicken the liquid for spicy gravy. This is particularly good with cornbread or hot biscuits.

5. Add a dash of mustard and two tablespoons of horseradish to gravy made from beef drippings.

Old Jar Rubbers Need Testing Before Re-use

Don't take chances on food spoilage by using last year's jar rubbers unless they pass these simple tests. If the rubbers were all made of new material last year, if they will stretch and come back in shape, and if they can be pinched together without cracking, they are safe to use.

Color, Flavor, and Leftovers

Left over meat made into pastry and meat "sandwiches" might be the inspiration for a spring time luncheon menu. Bright green asparagus and sparkling tomato gelatin molds add color to the plate and good flavor contrasts. Hot rolls are not necessary; just complete the menu by adding a hot beverage and fruit whip with cookies for dessert.

Apple Baskets for Salad Pretty Touch for Party

Apple baskets for salad or fruit cup desserts are a pretty touch for a spring bridal shower or a children's party. Have one medium sized apple for each guest. Wash and polish well. Cut an inch deep slice off the stem end of each apple, and hollow out a cup. "Pink" the top edge in a zigzag line, and brush the inside of the basket with lemon juice to prevent darkening. Fill with a Waldorf salad mixture of the apple tops, chopped celery, coarsely chopped nuts and mayonnaise, or with apple, grapefruit and orange cubes, and strawberries.

Ham and Eggs Dressed Up in Dinner Style

Ham and eggs, that classic breakfast combination of pre-ration days, is worth dressing up for dinner. Serving "ham and" in a pie with a cheese biscuit crust is a delectable way to get the last bit of goodness from the little scraps around the bone of that ham you've saved your points for.

Ham and Egg Pie.
[Serves six.]

2 cups cubed cooked ham
2 or 3 hard cooked eggs
4 tablespoons flour
3 tablespoons margarine
2 cups milk
1¼ teaspoons salt
¼ cup chopped celery
1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce

Make a white sauce of margarine, flour, and milk. Season and add the eggs cut in quarters, ham, and celery. Place in a baking dish and cover with crust. Bake at 400 degrees for 30 minutes or until crust is brown.

Cheese Biscuit Crust.

1 cup flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
½ teaspoon salt
½ cup grated cheese
2 tablespoons shortening
¼ to ⅓ cup milk
Pimiento strips

Sift flour, measure, and resift with salt and baking powder. Stir in cheese. Cut in shortening. Add milk enough to make a soft dough. Pat out in a circle the size of baking dish and cut in pie-shaped pieces. Place wedges of dough on top of meat mixture, slightly apart. Lay long, narrow strips of pimiento between pieces of crust.

Peanuts in Slaw.

The next time you serve cabbage slaw or a tossed green salad, add half a cup of salted peanuts with the usual chopped green pepper and onion and sliced radishes. It adds flavor and body as well as protein and vitamin B1.

Raisins Lend Added Touch; Give Energy

If we were in California we would be in the midst of celebrating the "Raisin Festival." The west coast is justly proud of its fruit products, but most of us will be content to celebrate national "raisin week" with a few raisin dishes.

With dried fruits off the rationing list, for the present at least, this is an opportune time to serve prunes and apricots as well as raisins. They'll add interest to many a plain dish, and a handful of raisins in the children's school lunch box, or eaten alone in the middle of a homemaker's busy morning, will provide energy and a good start on that necessary daily supply of iron.

Raisin Pie.

1 egg, beaten
1½ tablespoons flour
1½ teaspoons allspice
⅛ teaspoon salt
¾ cup molasses
¾ cup buttermilk
¼ cup lemon juice
2 cups chopped raisins

Combine egg, flour, allspice, and salt. Add remaining ingredients. Line a 9 inch pie plate with pastry and pour in filling. Bake in a hot oven [450 degrees] for 10 minutes; decrease heat to moderate, and bake 30 minutes longer.

Rhubarb Raisin Conserve.

3 pints rhubarb, cut in small pieces
8 cups sugar or 4 cups sugar and 4 cups honey
½ pound seeded raisins
½ cup water
2 oranges, grated rind and juice
1 cup blanched almonds or pecans

Cook all ingredients except the nuts for about 20 minutes. Add the nuts; boil 5 minutes longer. Pour into clean, dry glasses and seal with paraffin.

Raisin Sauce for Meat.
[Serves eight.]

1 cup water
1 cup vinegar
½ lemon
6 whole cloves
Salt, pepper
2 tablespoons fat
2 tablespoons flour
⅛ cup molasses
½ pint meat stock
5 gingersnaps
½ cup raisins

Combine water, vinegar, cloves, and lemon; cut in thin slices, and let simmer for about 15 minutes. Melt the fat in another saucepan. Add flour, stirring until smooth. Add the strained water and vinegar mixture, molasses, and stock from meat. Break gingersnaps into small pieces and add to sauce. Let simmer until well blended. Strain, season with salt and pepper, and add the raisins which have been scalded.

Raisin Puffs.
[Serves six.]

1¼ cups sifted flour
1½ teaspoons baking powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
½ cup chopped raisins
¼ cup shortening
½ cup sugar
1 egg, well beaten
½ cup milk

Sift flour, baking powder, and salt, and mix with raisins. Cream shortening. Add sugar and cream until well blended. Stir in well beaten egg. Add sifted dry ingredients and raisins alternately with milk, beating well after each addition. Pour into greased custard cups, filling not more than ⅔ full. Bake in a moderate oven [375 degrees] for 25 minutes. Serve hot with fruit sauce.

Apricot Bread Pudding.
[Serves six.]

1 cup soft bread crumbs
⅔ cup milk
2 tablespoons butter
¾ cup sugar
¾ cup cooked, drained, and chopped dried apricots
2 teaspoons lemon juice
½ teaspoon grated lemon rind
Dash of salt
2 eggs, well beaten
6 apricot halves

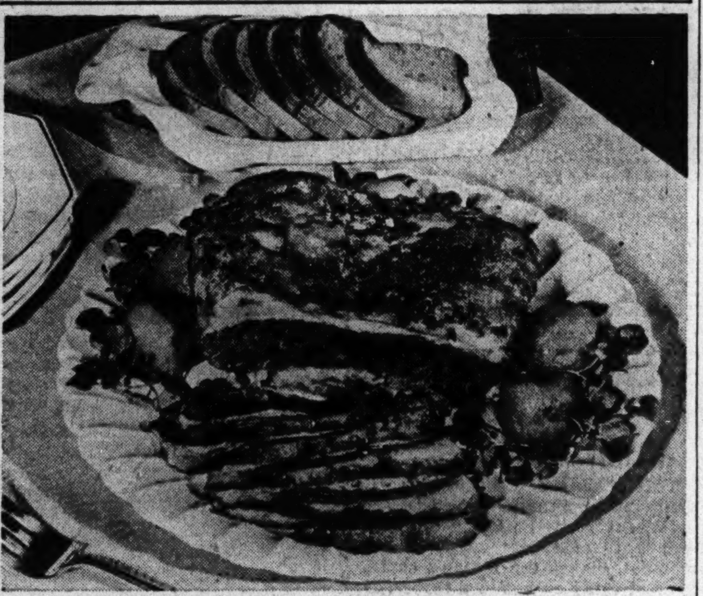
Combine crumbs, milk, butter, and sugar. Heat to boiling point, stirring constantly, then cool. Add apricots, lemon juice and rind, salt, and eggs. Turn into greased baking dish and top with apricot halves. Place in pan of hot water and bake in moderate oven 35 to 50 minutes.

Scalloped Noodles and Prunes.
[Serves six.]

3 cups cooked noodles
3 cups stewed stoned prunes
½ cup sugar
3 tablespoons margarine
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ cup buttered crumbs

Turn 1 cup of thoroly drained noodles into a well greased baking dish. Sprinkle with part of the sugar and cinnamon and dot with one-third the margarine. Cover with 1 cup prunes. Continue with alternate layers of prunes and noodles. Top with buttered crumbs and bake in a moderate oven [350 degrees] for 20 minutes.

Three Meals of Corned Beef



A four pound piece of corned beef is a good buy for the family of four or more. It takes from 20 to 24 red stamps, but may be used for at least three dinners. Serve sliced hot the first night, in a noodle or spaghetti casserole for a second dinner, and in old fashioned and always popular corned beef hash for a third appearance. Simmer corned beef in water to cover for 3 hours or until tender. Then place in a baking pan, cover with ⅓ cup brown sugar, stick with whole cloves, and bake in a moderate oven for about ½ hour or until glazed.

Gelatin Helps to Extend Bits of Leftovers

With the aid of a little gelatin small amounts of leftover foods can be extended into generous servings. Tuck away in the refrigerator those bits of fruits, vegetables and meats that might ordinarily be discarded and save them for one of these versatile salads.

Basic Jellied Vegetable Salad.
[Serves six]

1 tablespoon plain, unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 cup hot water
¼ cup mild vinegar
1 tablespoon lemon juice
½ teaspoon salt
1 or 2 tablespoons sugar
Dash of pepper
1 tablespoon finely minced onion
1½ cups diced or shredded vegetables, raw or cooked

Soften gelatine in cold water and dissolve in hot water. Add vinegar, lemon juice, salt, sugar and pepper. Cool. When mixture begins to thicken, fold in vegetables. Turn into one large or individual molds that have been rinsed in cold water first, and chill. When firm, unmold onto salad greens and serve with desired dressing.

Variations.

1. Use ½ cup each cooked peas, diced or shredded raw carrots, and celery.
2. ⅓ cup each cooked string beans, peas and carrots.
3. 1 cup diced left-over meat [veal, pork, beef, chicken, etc.], ½ cup chopped celery or other left-over vegetables such as peas and carrots.

Basic Jellied Fruit Salad.
[Serves six]

1 tablespoon plain, unflavored gelatin
¼ cup cold water
1 cup hot water or fruit juice
¼ cup lemon juice
¼ cup sugar [or more to taste if very tart fresh fruits are used]
¼ teaspoon salt
1½ cups diced, mixed fruits

Soften gelatin in cold water and dissolve in hot liquid. Add lemon juice, sugar and salt. Cool, and when mixture begins to thicken, fold in diced fruits. Pour into one large or individual molds that have been rinsed in cold water, and chill. When firm, unmold onto salad greens and serve with desired dressing.

Variations.

1. Use ½ cup each diced apple, banana, and pears.
2. ¾ cup each diced orange and apple.
3. ¾ cup each diced grapefruit and avocado.
4. Or any other desired combination of fresh or canned fruits. Fresh uncooked pineapple is not recommended, for it prevents the gelatin mixture from thickening.

TODAY'S $5 PRIZE RECIPE

Creamed Fish in Hominy Grits Ring.
[Serves six.]

1 cup hominy grits
1 teaspoon salt
3 cups boiling water
3 tablespoons melted fat
1 tablespoon minced onion
3 tablespoons flour
1½ cups milk
2 cups flaked cooked fish
1 tablespoon lemon juice
1 tablespoon minced parsley
6 sweet pickles, minced

Cook hominy grits in salted, boiling water for 45 minutes, stirring occasionally to prevent scorching. Turn into ring mold which has been well greased and chill thoroly. Brown onion in fat and blend in flour. Add milk and cook, stirring constantly, until thickened. Add remaining ingredients. Unmold hominy ring on baking platter or plank and heat in moderate [350 degrees] oven for 20 minutes. Fill center with creamed fish and garnish with parsley.

GET DELICIOUS SQUARE MEALS, TOO
SAYS AUNT JENNY

TRY AUNT JENNY'S
RATION MEAT PIE
ONLY 1 RED POINT PER SERVING

1 cup onions, sliced
¼ cup Spry
1 pound stew meat, cut in small pieces
¼ cup flour
2 teaspoons salt
⅛ teaspoon pepper
⅛ teaspoon paprika
Dash of ginger
Dash of allspice
2½ cups boiling water
2 cups raw potatoes, diced
1 recipe Flaky Pastry

Cook onions slowly in melted Spry until yellow. Remove onions. Roll meat in mixture of flour and seasonings and spices. Brown in hot Spry. Add boiling water, cover and simmer until meat is tender (about 1 hour). Add potatoes and cook 10 minutes longer.

Roll dough in circle about ¼ inch thick. Make several small openings for steam to escape. Pour meat into 8-inch Sprycoated casserole. Lay cooked onions on top. Fit pastry over top and seal edges. Bake in very hot oven (450° F.) 30 minutes. Serves 6.

Hamburg Variation: Cook onions in 1 tablespoon Spry. Use 1 pound hamburg instead of stew meat. Mix hamburg with flour, seasonings and spices and brown well. Add 2 cups boiling water and potatoes and cook 10 minutes.

Flaky Pastry

Mix ¾ cup sifted ALL-PURPOSE FLOUR and ½ teaspoon SALT. Measure out ¼ cup SPRY and divide into two equal parts. Cut in first half until fine as meal. Cut in remaining Spry until particles are size of large peas. Add 2½ tablespoons cold WATER, mixing thoroughly into a dough.

PURE VEGETABLE SHORTENING

How Spry makes points go farther 6 different ways!

1 Spry is an all-purpose shortening. No need to use extra ration points for two kinds of shortening. Spry is grand for cakes, pastry, cookies, frying—everything!

2 You need only 5 points to get a pound of Spry. Butter takes 8—costs more than twice as much, too! Save it for table use only. Do all your cooking with Spry.

3 Spry is ALL shortening—yes, 100%, unlike butter or margarine that contain up to 15% moisture! Thus Spry gives you the utmost shortening value per ration point.

4 Spry goes a long way! You can use it over and over for frying. No smoke or odor when you fry.

5 No cooking failures to waste precious ration points! Don't take chances with makeshift shortenings. With Spry and Aunt Jenny's tested recipes you can get perfect results every time you bake or fry.

6 No waste through spoiling. Purer Spry stays fresh indefinitely, right on the kitchen shelf. Get the money-saving 3-lb. jar.

Spry rich in food energy

A well-balanced diet must include energy foods. Harder work and longer hours, due to wartime demands, increase our need for such foods. Spry itself is one of the richest sources of food energy. Spry cakes and pies are not only a delicious treat; they fill a real nutritional need as well, so have them often.

AUNT JENNY'S PEACH COBBLER—
MAKES CANNED FRUIT GO TWICE AS FAR

1 cup canned, sliced peaches, drained
¼ cup sugar
1 tablespoon flour
⅛ teaspoon almond extract
Dash of salt
¼ cup peach juice
¾ cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon baking powder
⅛ teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons Spry
⅓ cup milk

Place peaches in Spry coated 8 x 8-inch baking dish. Combine sugar, 1 tablespoon flour, almond extract, dash of salt and peach juice. Pour over peaches.

Sift ¾ cup flour with baking powder and ⅛ teaspoon salt. Cut in Spry fine. (Quickly done with triple-creamed Spry!) Add milk to flour mixture, mixing with a fork. Drop dough by spoonfuls on peach mixture. Sprinkle with granulated sugar, if desired.

Bake in hot oven (425°F.) 25 to 30 minutes. Serve hot with cream or top milk. Serves 4 to 6.

and yellow china went on the shelves in the kitchenette.

Other supervisory nurses have special quarters on other floors.

A room for each student, a sitting room on each floor, special suites for the supervising nurses, "beau" rooms, a laundry on each floor, a party room, a "pajama lounge," a sundeck, floor kitchens and telephones, and, most of all, individual decorating are the outstanding features of the new building. Of course, there are classrooms and laboratories, too.

"Everything was planned before we started," said Miss Conger, who is by profession an interior decorator but whose charity and avocation is the hospital.

"There's not one waste piece of furniture or drapery material," declared Mrs. John C. Pitcher, also of the board. "There's not one bit of silk in the building. Everything has been done simply."

"I've depended on color," supplemented Miss Conger.

Modern seems to be the best word to describe the building as a whole. Friends of the hospital will enter thru a foyer that might almost be called moderne because of its circular shape and its black and brilliant green color scheme. The stark simplicity is relieved by a draped and fringed valance of black, green, and cream around the top of the walls and the bevelled glass panes in the door and around the main floor office.

Across this foyer are two elevators. To their left, to the south, double black doors open into the main living room. Doubling back, behind the elevators is a smaller sitting room that is so gay and lighthearted that no student ever could be homesick there. Its walls are striped in red, the curtains are solid red, and the furniture is light, and easily moveable for dancing. Beyond it is a kitchen and beyond the kitchen is a smaller "birthday party" room which groups of students may use for anniversary gatherings and supply and prepare their own refreshments.

Along the main floor corridor is a handsome panelled library with three enormous bay windows, various offices, a powder room, and a gentleman's dressing room, done in red and black. "I cribbed it from the Casino club" Miss Conger admitted frankly.

At the top of the hospital is the nurses' "pajama" lounge where they may go in their lounging robes to sit in a red, white, and blue sunroom that has the effect of an enclosed porch. It, too, has a small kitchen in connection, and from it the students may go out along the roof to sunbathe.

Just off the lobby are three little "beau" rooms, enchanting cubbyholes with glass paned doors.

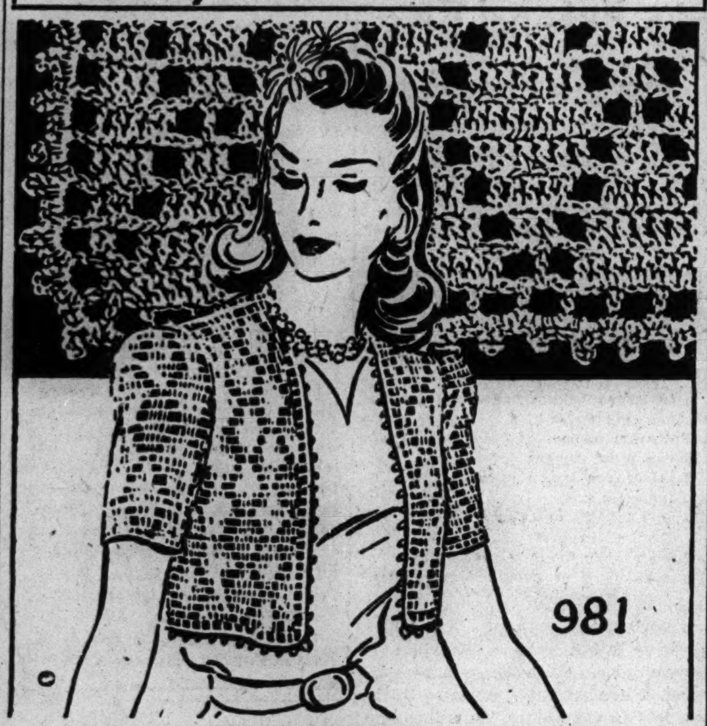
It is in the huge main living room, with its high bay windows of noble proportions looking out over a roof garden walled in from the Indiana avenue view and noise on one side and a vast but as yet unimproved expanse of roof to the west, that contributors to the building fund will be welcomed today.

The room has homey, comfortable groupings of furniture, plain paneling, stunning chandeliers, and appealing paintings. The center panels of the windows slide up so the nurses may walk out on the roof. The living room was given by the Joseph H. Ryersons in memory of his mother, Mary Mitchell Ryerson.

Other principal rooms and their donors include the main floor lobby and corridor which Mrs. Huntington B. Henry gave in memory of her mother, the late Hortense N. Swift; another main floor sitting room, given by Mrs. Stanley Keith, and the whole second floor, given by Mrs. John G. Shedd, mother of Mrs. Keith and of the late Mrs. Charles H. Scheppe. The building was named for her and her late husband, who was chairman of the Greater St. Luke's building program.

There will be no formal receiving line this afternoon, but tonight, following the graduation of the current nursing class at St. James' church, the nurses and their families and friends will be welcomed formally to the new building. Receiving tonight will be A. Watson Armour, president of the board of trustees, and his wife; the Rt. Rev. Wallace E. Conkling, who will take part in the dedication, and Mrs. Conkling; Mrs. John W. Gary, president of the womans' board; Mr. and Mrs. Joseph T. Ryerson; Chauncey Borland, chairman of the building committee, and Mrs. Borland; Dr. Selim W. McArthur, chief of staff, and Mrs. McArthur; Leo Lyons, director of the hospital, and Mrs. Lyons, and Miss Madeleine McConnell, director of the school of nursing and the nursing service.

Dainty Crocheted Bolero



BY ELLEN BRUCE.

A crocheted bolero is a lovely and attractive item of feminine apparel. It is not difficult to make, and the small diamond pattern is dainty and lacy for summer wear over a light dress. Mercerized crochet cotton in any of the pastel shades may be worked up effectively.

For instructions in crocheting the bolero, No. 981, send 10 cents in stamps or coin, plus 2 cents to cover mailing cost, to the Needlework Bureau, Chicago Tribune, 220 Fifth avenue, New York City.

Front VIEWS and PROFILES

BY MARCIA WINN

Thought for the Day.

And after 16 days and 16 nights of incessant rain, the Buckingham fountain was turned on at 4 p. m. yesterday. It then began to squirt 15,000 gallons of water a minute into the sky.

O, Happy Man.

The postman will have a hard time finding Pablo to deliver his No. 3 ration book application today or tomorrow. Pablo is always hard to find, even for matters of such transitory moment as rationing.

Pablo lives like a hermit in a cave bedded down with old newspapers on the lower level of Wacker drive, near Wabash avenue. Above him the furious life of a city goes on at frenetic, wearying pace, symbol of a civilization that knows no peace. A hundred feet from him newsboys shout the tremblings of the world. Alongside him cars and trucks rumble along madly to get some place, any place, fast. Far below him steel cars rumble even faster thru a dark freight tunnel to carry produce and worldly goods to customers frantic to receive them.

To all of this Pablo is immune. His hole does not even have a number over it, so the postman cannot know in which cavity to peer. He has neither a No. 1 ration book nor a No. 2 ration book, for war time exigencies have left him untouched. When he is hungry he rummages in refuse piles or begs for stale bread and scraps at the rear doors of those strange monuments to the human stomach, loop restaurants. Yesterday he cached away a large paper sack of dry bread. That will last him a week.

Pablo is not much of a conversationalist. He prefers to nod his head and grunt. Mention the war, the food conference, or war strategy, and he nods his head, bewildered and amused.

"Mexicano," he mutters. "Yes, yes."

He stands hunched in his wet overcoat, fingering the muddy fur of a stray cat which he clutches tightly, murmuring occasional affectionate phrases to it. A grease stained cap droops low over his murky, well fed face, fuzzy with whiskers, and contentment shines from his eyes.

Pablo's domain is his cave and a tiny brick courtyard hemmed on two sides during the day by rows of parked cars. Only the police department's stern "No parking" sign and a vigilant mounted policeman keep the motorists from invading his privacy. To one side of the cave's entrance is a tiny iron furnace at which he warms himself on wet and dreary days. In this he cooks his rare, warm meals—perhaps a baked potato.

Yesterday the rain had penetrated thru his coat, jacket, sweater, and two shirts, and he shivered as he gazed dreamily into the fire.

"Are you going to apply for the No. 3 ration book?" he was asked.

Pablo stared into the fire and rubbed the cat's skull.

"Mexicano, yes," he grunted.

Good Morning!

This hilarious comedy kids the pantaloons off the housing situation in Washington—that and the general state of affairs which, at the moment, makes the nation's capital nearest thing extant to a three ring circus.

The heroine, Connie Milligan, is a government employé who, fired by patriotism, decides to do her bit toward relieving the housing shortage by renting the one spare room of her small apartment. . . . The idea, of course, is to take in another girl. . . .

Imagine that lady's dismay when she arrives home to find her room rented to an industrial tycoon, Benjamin Dingle, who, finding his hotel suite unavailable for a couple of days, has consulted the ads, read Connie's, advanced upon the premises, surreptitiously removed the "vacanacy" sign, and taken possession. . . . You understand, watching the Dingle work, how tycoons become tycoons. . . .

Brushing off Connie's objections as nonchalantly as he had done away with the sign on the door, Mr. Dingle stays. . . . And learns about Connie. He finds she's a lonely young woman, despite the fact she's engaged to one Pendergast—a minor government official whom he meets in a business way and thinks little of. So little, in fact, that he rents half of HIS room to Joe Carter, an aircraft technician stopping in Washington en route to Africa, and as homeless as a moth after house cleaning.

Thus the Dingle busts in and busts up what was practically no romance at all, and the activities of all concerned provide great joy to the onlooker.

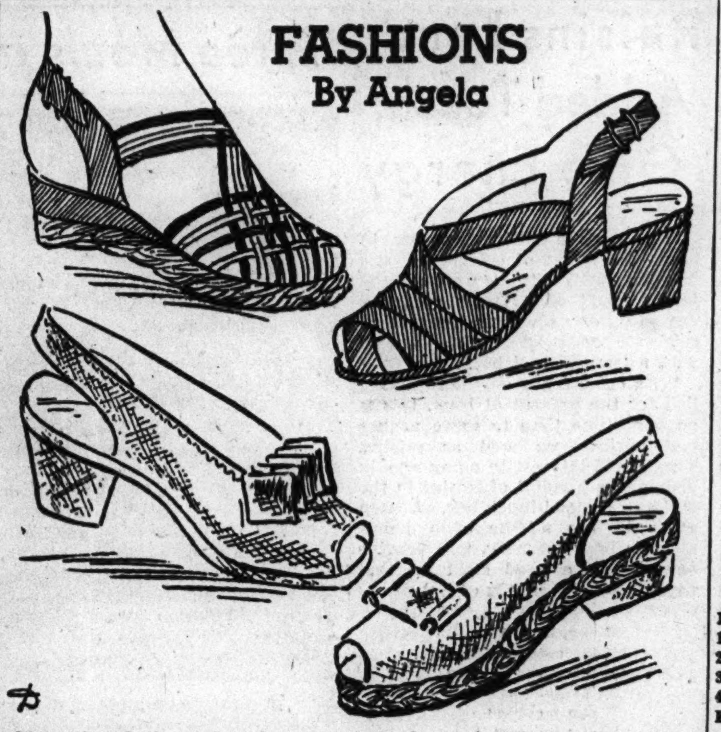
The picture sparkles with unexpected touches both as to situation and dialog. It's replete with the best acting money could buy. I won't say that Charles Coburn steals the show — but he is something very rare indeed as Dingle. Miss Arthur —in a hairdo many women try for but few achieve—is both beautiful and clever. Joel McCrea pleases you tremendously.

All told F-U-N is a three letter word for "The More the Merrier."

See you tomorrow.

FASHIONS

By Angela



Nonrationed, linen play shoes are ideal for summer play days because they are highly styled, comfortable, and may be worn with every type of outfit.

A new, rope soled sandal, sketched upper left, is as comfortable as an old shoe, but twice as smart. The multicolored line, interlaced over the toes and instep, has an inch wide red back strap and wedge heel. The sole is designed for durability as well as charm. This shoe is available also in red, white, and blue.

Another sandal type, sketched upper right, is of bright red linen. The heel is wrapped in the matching linen. The sole is not of the rope variety, but smooth and leatherlike.

At lower left is a tailored play shoe of linen with open toe and back, having as its only trimming a plaited bow of matching material. This shoe has a tiny platform above the leather sole.

For roaming around in practically barefoot comfort, wear the braided, rope soled play shoe, lower right. It has an open toe and heel and a beautifully finished lining which makes for comfort. A tailored, flat, linen bow matches the material of the shoe, which is available in white and red.

Friday, May 21.

Too much thoughtless and misdirected action till midafternoon today. Be alert to hidden weaknesses in self and others; take nothing for granted; and, above all, detour self-pity. Evening favors sincere study and service efforts.

Your Year Ahead.

Your year ahead, if this is your anniversary, looks overconfident from November; risk no fixed assets. Increased restlessness from mid-August, but quick changes will bring eventual retracing. Danger: Aug. 8-24; Dec. 17-Jan. 10.

Tomorrow.

Emotions can't be relied on; play logic, not hunches; deal with higher-ups.

According to Culbertson

Nothing can be more infuriating at the bridge table than to have your carefully laid plan wrecked by your own partner. I refer to such a case as the following:

North, dealer.
Both sides vulnerable.

NORTH
♥ Q
♦ A 6 4

WEST
♠ 8 7 2

♦ Q J 10 5 2
♣ 10

SOUTH
♠ Q J 10 9
♥ 8 5
♦ K 9 8 7
♣ K 6 5

The bidding:

North	East	South	West
1 club	1 heart	1 spade	2 hearts
2 spades	3 clubs [!]	Pass	3 hearts
3 spades	4 hearts	Pass	Pass
4 spades	Double	Pass	Pass
Pass

It should be observed that East did not dash blindly into a four heart contract. In view of his own excellent distribution he felt that there would be a splendid play for a game at hearts, but he was fully aware that the opponents had the superior suit, spades, and that they would bid four spades, either offensively or defensively. That being so, East would not have risked the four heart bid, which was sure to push the opponents to four spades, except for the fact that he could set up a sound defense against four spades. This he did by carefully cue bidding clubs on the second round. He shrewdly figured that an opening club lead from partner, to take out his own singleton, would set the stage for a club ruff since he himself had first round control of the opponents' trump suit and since West's immediate raise had virtually guaranteed a quick entry, probably in hearts.

All this, as will be seen, was sound figuring but unfortunately East did not reckon with his own partner. On lead against the four spade contract West remained deaf and dumb to the implications of his partner's three club bid and instead of making either of two highly constructive leads, namely, a club according to partner's request or his own singleton diamond, he woodenly laid down the heart ace. This abysmally unimaginative lead wrecked the defense as thoroly as a bomb could have blown it up. Now, even tho West shifted to his singleton diamond, declarer was home. Dummy ducked on the diamond lead and East's ten went to the king. The spade ace was knocked out and altho West ruffed the diamond return this was only the third and last trick for his side.

Obviously enough an opening lead of the club deuce [or the singleton diamond] would have defeated the contract, assuming reasonably good defense thereafter.

Child Training Is Important in War Time

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

[Copyright: 1943: By News Syndicate Co., Inc.]

"Here is a letter I would like to share with you:

"Dear Mrs. Bevans:

"The more we think about life, the world in general, the more we realize the importance of proper child training, a knowledge which begins even before those mysterious bundles of joy arrive on the scene.

"The very art of living, living peacefully, coöperatively and usefully, is wrapped up in the art of bringing up and training children to become useful and happy members of society.

"Now that the whole world is ablaze with war, we must all coöperate, and help bring a speedy victory, with lasting peace and plenty for all.

"May the year of 1943 hasten the end of this barbarous, world destruction, and bring reason, love and understanding to all men." The letter then goes on to ask for some general advice in connection with adolescent sons and daughters.

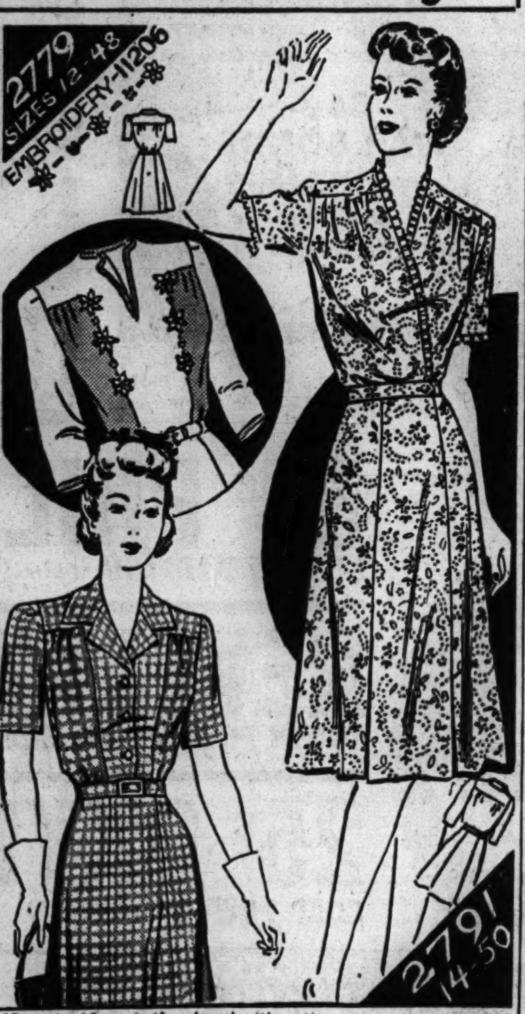
I can't say better than the writer what this letter expresses, but I can emphasize some of its thoughts, for they do need emphasis for us today, when the usual concerns of normal living are muted by the strident noises of a world at war.

"The more we think about life in general, the more we realize the importance of proper child training, a knowledge of which begins even before those mysterious bundles of joy arrive."

Indeed it does begin before. It begins in you [father or mother], in the kind of a person you are and what you've made of your life. It begins when you feel that you have something more, or rather somebody, to live up to.

Also, it is true that "the very art of living is wrapped up in the art of bringing up and training children." To put it rather crudely, you can't expect to rear your child to be fine and honest and loyal without having acquired some measure of those qualities yourself. Lectures won't do it. You can't hold forth to your children in such manner as, "Do as I say, but not as I do." Our own living and the training of our children are "all of a piece."

Simple and Slenderizing



Both these frocks for late spring and early summer have slimming lines and the utter simplicity which is high fashion this year. The embroidery pattern creates trimming for the tailored lines.

Style No. 2779 is designed for sizes 12 to 20 and 36 to 48. Size 36 requires 3¾ yards of 35 inch material.

Style No. 2791 is designed for sizes 14 to 20 and 36 to 50. Size 36 requires 3⅛ yards of 39 inch material with 2 yards of ruffling.

Embroidery pattern No. 11206 must be ordered separately.

Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing.

Order Clotilde patterns from Chicago Tribune, P. O. Box 537, Grand Central Annex, NEW YORK CITY. Print name and address; state size. Each pattern is 10 cents, plus 2 cents for mailing. The spring pattern book is 15 cents, 10 cents if ordered with pattern.

Chicago Faces Summer Minus Operetta Unit

BY CECIL SMITH.

Despite a variety of rumors which have been making the rounds in the last couple of months, Chicago again seems fated to do without summer operetta. A projected deal between the Shuberts and the management of Wrigley field for the presentation of light opera there has fallen thru, perhaps because the erection of scenery might have ruined the field for ball playing purposes.

Whispers about a forthcoming operetta series in the Civic Opera house have also died a-borning. The Theater Guild has evidently dropped its boldly announced plan of forming a second company of "Oklahoma!," the Rogers-Hammerstein setting of "Green Grow the Lilacs," and Michael Todd stopped talking about a Chicago company of "Something for the Boys" practically the day he started talking about it.

Unless Frank McCoy's revival of "Abie's Irish Rose," which began its road career in Pittsburgh Monday, comes to join the other attractions in the loop, the early summer will be a static period in the theater.

The Erlanger has no booking after "The Three Sisters" closes June 5. "Kiss and Tell," "The Doughgirls," "Good Night, Ladies," and "Maid in the Ozarks" show every sign of remaining for many weeks to come.

The fate of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," opening Sunday at Foresters' theater, and of Fred Stone in "You Can't Take It with You," opening at the Studebaker May 30, remains to be seen; but at least there is nothing in sight to supplant either one in the event of a quick demise.

Looking at Hollywood . . . . By Hedda Hopper

Greta Garbo.

Hollywood, Cal., May 20.—Greta Garbo has finally got the rôle she's been waiting for. She'll sail some time in September for England to play Joan of Arc in George Bernard Shaw's "Saint Joan," under the direction of Clarence Brown. Clarence tried his best to make "White Cliffs of Dover" over there and had no luck. He's doing it here. But all arrangements for "Saint Joan" have been made by Gabriel Pascal from the other side. . . . Paul Gallico and his wife have been here several days. Paul's writing an original for the screen, and finishing a play for Zorina with the title "I Spy." . . . In talking with Sam Wood, I learned he's bought the rights to that best seller, "Address Unknown." It will be one of his early pictures but won't be released thru Columbia.

Dream Come True.

Judy Garland finally gets to sing under direction of Andre Kostelantz with the Philadelphia Symphony orchestra on June 24. . . . Jane Russell's husband, Bob Waterfield, has been added to the cast of "Russia" as a guerilla. . . . Here's hoping Fred Brady gets the rôle opposite Lucille Ball in "Meet the People." They'd make a wonderful team. That boy's got it. . . . Now that the Lubitsch divorce is going thru, we're all wondering whether Mrs. Lubitsch No. 3 will be our popular Mary Anita Loos. . . . Jackie Moran, the Huck Finn of "Tom Sawyer," got his army call for May 29—but has permission to finish "Nobody's Darling" first, in which he plays opposite Mary Lee.

Never Happened Before.

Received a note from Mrs. Laurence Swaine from Dover, N. H., enclosing check and asking me to send flowers to Cornelia Otis Skinner's dressing room the day she started working in "The Uninvited." She wrote: "My husband and I admire and love her. We caught a glimpse of her recently in Boston. We never miss a chance to see her." Well, Mrs. Swaine, it was a pleasure doing it. I can hear some glamour girls frothing because their fans never thought of it. . . . Let's thank Walter Wanger for arranging an academy luncheon for Hilary St. George Saunders. He's on Louis Mountbatten's staff. Was invited to this country by the OWI to confer with Elmer Davis. In his eastern talks, Saunders impressed every one with the importance of films in war time. So Walter arranged to have him come to Hollywood to impress the people who make 'em.

Scribbling and Scrambling.

H. Allen Smith of the "Totem Pole" and "Putty Knife" books came out to do a yarn on Pine and Thomas, lingered long enough to gather scads of stuff on Roy Rogers and Jimmy Cagney. . . . Another good editor has gone to Metro. Valdemar Bellugnin of Red Book, writing a life of Nunnally Johnson, stays on as executive at Metro. . . . Michael Arlen's dialog is so good in "Heavenly Body" that Metro didn't mind when he turned down "Command Performance" for Charles Boyer and Judy Garland because he took a gloomy view of the story.

Made the Grade.

Ella Raines, jointly signed by Howard Hawks and Charles Boyer, may have her contract taken over by Universal. Her first film was "Corvette K-225." She was borrowed for "Cry Havoc," promptly came down with the measles. Now every girl in the picture is shivering in her shoes. Funny, in "Corvette," Ella was the only girl. In "Havoc" there's nothing except girls. . . . Jack Whiting, husband of the first Mrs. Douglas Fairbanks Sr., arrives here for another go at pictures. Wife, Beth, will have much reminiscing to do with old friends and covering some territory she and Doug knew so well when he pioneered for stage actors more than 25 years ago. Those were the happy days.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

BY ARCH WARD.

It wasn't many years ago that some educators and certain newspaper columnists were ranting about the evils of huge gate receipts at college football games. . . . Dr. Howard J. Savage, who wrote the 1929 and 1934 report on football for the Carnegie Foundation, the latter at a cost of $103,000, was horrified to find that most of the colleges were luring poor boys to the campus by athletic scholarships or soft jobs. . . . He explained that the depression of the early '30s drove down the value of securities and real estate held by colleges, so some of the rascals at these institutions, noting that crowds still turned out in abundance for gridiron spectacles, ballyhooed football to the skies in hope of plugging some of the holes in their revenues. . . . Men who shared Mr. Savage's opinions felt this was all very wrong, if not downright un-American. . . . As far as we know, none of the Savage adherents, or any other group, ever has satisfactorily explained what is un-American or unsportsmanlike in letting a boy with muscles and above average athletic talents capitalize those attributes to get an education. . . . Some of us long have believed that is is a country in which people who work for what they get are respected. . . . While we have not always seen eye to eye with the directors of intercollegiate sport, we never have shared the alarm of some of our contemporaries about the size of crowds or receipts attracted by amateur athletics. . . . After all, the revenue which accrued did not go to enrich the participants, the coaches, directors, or other individuals on the campus. . . . It went back into increased facilities to be enjoyed by succeeding generations of students. . . . However, some educators contended that atheltics, like engineering, or journalism, should be subsidized by the university and paid gates be eliminated. . . .

It will be difficult for advocates of the free gate to justify their present stand toward athletics. . . . Hardly a week goes by that some college or university doesn't announce its withdrawal from intercollegiate sport until after we have won the war. . . . Many of them are honest enough to admit the action was necessitated by the prospects of reduced revenue. . . . Gasoline rationing and restrictions on rail travel make it unlikely that football crowds will gather in peace time numbers. . . . This especially is true at institutions more than 100 miles from a metropolitan center. . . . However, a good many schools use the war and its attendant man power shortage as an excuse for discarding a program that might prove to be a drain on the institution's general fund. . . . It will be interesting after the war to see if any universities in that category continue to campaign for the abolition of the paid gate. . . . These are the days we are finding out the schools and individuals who believe in athletics as a way of life that should be preserved as long as it is humanly possible to do so.

War Wife.

She's only one of millions
The wife he left behind,
She smiles and does her duty
None braver could you find.
She carries on so nobly
Within their home—alone,
And writes her husband daily
And never does she moan.

I know it can't be easy
To wear this cheerful mask,
And act as tho she's happy
Is really no small task.
She's only one of millions
When all is said and done,
But we are proud—and thankful
She's married to our son.

GOLF SCHOOL TO CLOSE TONIGHT IN FOUR PARKS

Plan Full Lesson in Fundamentals.

Golf School Facts

EVENT—Fourth and final lesson of the 11th annual free golf school conducted by The Tribune.

TIME—7 o'clock tonight [pupils are requested to appear 15 minutes before that hour, if possible.]

PLACE—Four Chicago park district courses — Marquette, Diversey-in-Lincoln, Columbus, and Jackson.

INSTRUCTION—All phases of the game's rudiments—grip, stance, and swing—will be reviewed.

REQUIREMENTS—Bring a golf club and be prompt.

TEACHERS—Members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America.

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

The 11th annual free golf school conducted by THE TRIBUNE, following the stormiest voyage in its career, will reach port tonight, when the fourth and final lesson of this oldest and biggest plan of group instruction in sports is given on the four courses of the Chicago park district. Members of the Illinois section of the Professional Golfers' Association of America, who have become veritable mariners during the first three lessons, are prepared to conclude the 1943 school, come wind, rain, or snow.

Since its foundation in 1933, the school has been subject to rough treatment by the weather man, but that opposition has failed to stymie the enthusiasm of the students and the faculty. Within the first 10 years, a total of 395,000 men, women, and children of the Chicago area received free lessons in the A B C's of golf.

Up to 409,650 Now.

To date, in spite of the sorriest treatment the elements ever have handed the school, an aggregate of 14,650 persons has turned out for the first three lessons, bringing the all-time total enrollment to 409,650.

Tonight's finishing class will incorporate all of the A B C's of the game for the benefit of those citizens who wish to receive a gratis lesson. The grip, the stance, and the swing, all will be reviewed in this concluding session on the four courses of the Chicago park district. Their locations are: Jackson, just east of 63d street and Stony Island avenue; Marquette, Kedzie avenue and Marquette road; Diversey, in Lincoln park at Diversey boulevard and Lake Michigan, and Columbus, just west of Jackson boulevard and Central avenue.

Plan Service Men's Party.

In the past 10 years it has been the custom to make the final lesson the vehicle for choosing the outstanding pupils in the four classes. These were later assembled at a central point for a final judging and those novices whose swings were rated the best were presented with prizes, including golf bags, clubs, and golf balls. These awards were purchased by THE TRIBUNE from the Illinois section of the P. G. A., which then directed this sum to its benevolent fund, maintained for unemployed professionals and for those in ill health.

This year THE TRIBUNE and the Illinois P. G. A. decided to substitute another plan. The money which ordinarily would go toward purchasing these prizes will be used to conduct a special party for all soldiers, sailors, marines, and coast guardsmen who visit the U. S. O. center, 131 South Wabash avenue, between 8 p. m. and midnight tomorrow.

Surplus for Golf Equipment.

The surplus beyond the expenses of the party will be used to purchase golf equipment for service men. This equipment will be presented tomorrow night to the golf pool in the U. S. O. center, under the direction of Stuart McCutcheon. Mr. McCutcheon and his aides include among their other duties the task of supplying service men with golf clubs and balls and directing them to those courses which have made playing privileges for them available.

HE'S IN—AT LAST

Lou Novikoff, Cub outfielder who has remained a holdout all spring while waiting for the club to surrender to his demands for a $10,000 salary, has accepted terms, Owner P. K. Wrigley announced last night. [TRIBUNE Photo.]

Burnt Cork Is Bit Burned Up About the Dew

BY HOWARD BARRY.

Maybe it's true that human beings talk too much about the weather without ever doing anything about it—but Eddie [Rochester] Anderson's Burnt Cork isn't human. He does plenty about it. It has become an issue with him now.

He stands there in his barn at Hawthorne and eats oats and eats oats and eats oats and refuses to go out on the track to race in the mud. Meanwhile, he ignores reports from the west coast that Jack Benny already has filled out an application for a $2 money order with the intention of laying it in on Burnt Cork to show in tomorrow's $5,000 Crete handicap.

Meanwhile he thinks about the big moments he had at Churchill Downs a couple of weeks ago when he was racing right beside Count Fleet in the Kentucky Derby. Maybe it didn't last long, but all those folks in the stands saw him there.

He Isn't Just Sulking.

His trainer, Anthony Silver, says that Burnt Cork really isn't just sulking because of the weather. He runs a lot better on a dry track and his handlers feel sure that some day before the Lincoln Fields meeting ends the rain will stop.

Of course Burnt Cork isn't the only horse in the barns that doesn't like the track conditions that have been prevailing. Racing Secretary William H. Shelley has been worried quite a bit by the fact that the weather has prevented some of the best horses on the grounds from pointing for tomorrow's $5,000 event, but as long as there are such good mudders around as Signator, Pig Tails, Sales Talk and others, there is every probability that the Crete handicap will start off Chicago's stake program in a lively manner.

It Appears a Sprightly Race.

Meanwhile some mighty promising 2 year olds are all set to go in the $5,000 Joliet stakes a week from tomorrow. Black Swan, Ogham, and Civil Liberty showed considerable talent during the Louisville season. Lt. Col. C. V. Whitney has sent six 2 year olds to take part in the Lincold Fields meeting, some of which are eligible for the stake. Emerson F. Woodward's Valdina farm also is well represented with youngsters. Tho no Alsab may emerge from this season's Joliet stakes it still shapes up as a sprightly race.

SOX WILL TRY TO MEET SENATORS

Humphries Given Night Pitching Assignment.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

The White Sox, who have been trying since Sunday, without success, to play a ball game in daylight will try to calm their tormentor, the weather man, with a Comiskey park electrical display tonight.

Coöperating in the effort to placate the fellows who yesterday forced the season's 10th postponement on the Sox, will be Washington's Senators who just now aren't acting like the town they represent.

The Senators, at least, know where they are going judging by the appearance of the percentage column. They are hugging the leaders, a far cry from their second division habits of a year ago.

Humphries Scheduled on Mound.

If the weather man doesn't cut in on this evening's entertainment as he did last Saturday when the maiden 1943 electric light battle in Comiskey park was scheduled for display, Johnny Humphries will take care of the Sox's pitching and will be opposed by Dutch Leonard. Eddie Smith who wanted to take a shot at the Athletics and didn't because the entire three game series was washed away, now is on the books for an appearance tomorrow afternoon.

Sunday's double header with the Senators may see Thornton Lee in an another attempt to hurl himself into a regular salary instead of the $1 per year ration on which he is subsisting. Lee, whose arm has been a trouble spot for more than a year, recently underwent a series of treatments aimed to break down adhesions in his left shoulder, feels certain everything now is normal. In one of the treatments he was suspended by the neck.

There Are Double Headers Ahead.

Harry Grabiner, Sox vice president, has not figured out as yet just how his stock pile of Chicago postponements is going to be portioned out to baseball's bargain lovers. There are eight of them, the two others being in St. Louis. Some of the eight will be worked in as twilight affairs preceding night battles, both games for one admission.

RUSSIAN SEES ROWLAND, THEN CAPITULATES

Action Ends 30 Day Holdout Siege.

Lou Novikoff, the Cubs' persistent holdout, has come to terms for the 1943 season and is expected to sign a contract today, P. K. Wrigley, president of the Chicago National league club, said last night.

The Mad Russian, who has been demanding $10,000 a season, came to terms with Clarence Rowland, president of the Cubs' Los Angeles club, who carried on negotiations with the outfielder in Long Beach, Cal., at the direction of General Manager Jim Gallagher. Gallagher left the Cubs in Philadelphia yesterday and will meet Novikoff in Chicago on Sunday.

Spend Day Haggling.

Wrigley was informed of Novikoff's capitulation in a telephone conversation with Rowland.

Just before Rowland passed on the information to Wrigley, he had spent the day haggling with Novikoff. Novikoff soon submitted the terms under which he would sign his 1943 contract and the Los Angeles official immediately telephoned Gallagher.

When he learned the Cubs' general manager was on a train bound for Chicago, he contacted Wrigley and apparently received permission to bring the .300 hitter of last season in the fold.

No Mention of Salary.

In Los Angeles neither Novikoff nor Rowland would reveal the salary figure, but it was understood to be a compromise between the $10,000 demanded by the ball player and the $6,500 offered him by Gallagher.

"The only thing hanging fire," said Lou last night in Los Angeles, "is whether the salary is retroactive to the start of the season or begins when I report. I am going to meet Rowland again tomorrow noon on this point and I confidently expect to take a train tomorrow night for Chicago."

One of Two .300 Hitters.

Novikoff, who with Stan Hack comprised the Cubs' .300 batting duo last season, had been placed on the suspended list for failure to sign his contract. The suspension prevented him from engaging in semi-pro baseball.

Novikoff's capitulation cleaned the major league slate of holdouts. Only two others—Ernie Lombardi of the Braves and Frankie Crosetti of the Yankees—persisted in their pay demands until after the season opened on April 21, and they both weakened shortly thereafter.

PROBABLE MAJOR LEAGUE PITCHERS IN GAMES TODAY

New York, May 20 (AP).—Probable pitchers in the major leagues tomorrow with won-lost records:

Boston at Detroit—Hughson [2-1] vs. Newhouser [0-1].

REMOVE SEWELL FROM BROWNS' PLAYING ROSTER

St. Louis, Mo., May 20 (AP).—Manager Luke Sewell of the St. Louis Browns was unconditionally released today—as a player. He was on the roster as a catcher and it was necessary to go thru the formality of getting waivers from the other clubs before his name could be removed from the active list in getting down to the 25 player limit.

The Browns also optioned two young pitchers, Fred Sanford and Sid Peterson, to Toledo of the American association on 24 hour recall notice. Peterson won two victories for the Browns as a relief pitcher.

PURDUE PLAYER, COACH RECEIVE SERVICE CALLS

Lafayette, Ind., May 20 [Special]—Coach William [Dutch] Fehring and Shortstop Bill Burghardt will wind up their collegiate careers as Purdue's baseball team meets Wisconsin in a two game series in Madison tomorrow and Saturday. Fehring, a member of the Purdue staff since 1935, will leave Monday to report for duty as an ensign in the navy. Burghardt has received orders to report to the army on May 25 as a member of the enlisted reserve corps.

Gomez, Out of Job, Insists He Still Can Pitch

Boston, Mass., May 20 (AP).—Altho he has been let out by the Boston Braves without throwing a single pitch for them in National league competition, Vernon [Lefty] Gomez, a New York Yankee standout for 13 seasons, was without rancor today as he started planning his immediate future at the age of 32.

"I don't know what's coming up next for me," he said. "The old whip appears to be rounding into shape nicely and, while I may not be able to go nine innings just now, I know I could help some club.

Ready for Bids.

"I'm ready for another baseball offer. But if none comes along, I can go back to the defense job I had in Lynn last winter or take one of the couple of business propositions that have been made to me."

"The Braves have so many good pitchers that I never had a chance to break in on them," Gomez continued. "Jim Tobin and Al Javery are great, Nate Andrews and Red Barrett have much more than it takes and that George Jeffcoat should be a wow."

Other Clubs Don't Want Him.

Before President Bob Quinn, under the pressure of the 25 player limit, gave Gomez his unconditional release, he tried to place the former American league pitching hero with three other National league clubs. None of them was interested, but it is likely that Gomez may find himself back in the American league in a month or so.

NORTH SIDERS DROP 8TH AND 9TH STRAIGHT

Two Philly Hurlers Yield 8 Hits.

BY EDWARD BURNS.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Philadelphia, Pa., May 20.—The Cubs this afternoon rounded out the first month of the exciting season of 1943 by suffering their eighth and ninth straight defeats in the east, their sixth and seventh shutouts and their second double shutout of the season. The revamped Phillies, with Charley Fuchs pitching, slapped them down, 3 to 0, on four singles, in the first game; Lefty Al Gerheauser was then master in the 2 to 0 second spectacle, in which he also dispensed four singles.

The only Cub to reach third in the second game was Stanley Hack, who got there in the eighth inning on an error by Danny Litwhiler, his first since 1941. Two Chicagoans got to second base in the first game, and only three besides Hack reached that station in the second.

Lee, Barrett Get No Help.

Bill Lee was the losing pitcher in the first game. Kewpie Barrett, who lost his first Cub start 1 to 0 on a one-hitter in a double shutout in Pittsburgh on April 25, was the second victim, tho he held the Phils to four hits. Two infield scratches, one of which shouldn't have been called a hit, beat him in the third inning.

Lee pitched seven innings of the first game and held the Phils to nine hits, including doubles by Merrill May, Mickey Livingston, and Danny Litwhiler.

Stanky Stars in Field.

Eddie Stanky played a strong defensive game for the Cubs, otherwise the outcome would have been even more indicative of the class of the two teams.

The Cubs are staggering on to Boston, via a night stopover in New York, with a few hopeful that at least one of four games to be played there will be their first victory in the east. The Braves have won their last seven games.

In the east the Cubs have lost two to the Giants, three to the Dodgers and four to the Phillies. The Phils have a five game winning streak and are a half game out of third place.

Our faltering Cubs still are a long way from the record for losing streaks. The National league mark is 19 straight, established by the Braves of 1906, and the American is 20, held jointly by the Red Sox of 1906 and the Athletics of 1916.

FIRST GAME

Earl Naylor walked with two down in the second inning of the first game and scored on May's double, a line drive that came down on the end of the left field foul line.

Litwhiler opened the home sixth with a double, which was followed by a bunt by Jim Wasdell. Babe Dahlgren hit into a double play started by Stanky, but Litwhiler got home.

The third Philly run bloomed from an error in the eighth. With one down, Fuchs' grounder went between Len Merullo's heels. Fuchs stole second and went to third while Danny Murtaugh was beating out a single to Merullo. Paul Busby, who twice had grounded into tag double plays by Stanky, this time executed a squeeze play, Fuchs scoring while Busby was being tagged by Phil Cavarretta.

SECOND GAME

The Phils did all their second game scoring in the third inning, making two runs without getting the ball out of the infield. Murtaugh was safe on a single to Merullo, Busby sacrificed, Hack to Stanky, and when Murtaugh saw third base uncovered, he outran Merullo to the bag. Litwhiler bounced to Merullo, whose throw to the plate was too late to keep Murtaugh from scoring. Litwhiler somehow was credited with a single on the play. Wasdell walked, whereupon Dahlgren bounced to Merullo, whose throw to Stanky forced Wasdell. In trying to complete a double play, Stanky threw short to first, and the ball got away from Heinz Becker, Litwhiler scoring.

The Cubs' only threat developed after two were out in the eighth. Hack knocked the third Chicago single. Peanuts Lowrey singled to left, and, when Litwhiler fumbled the ball, Hack reached third and Lowrey second. Then Stanky flied to Naylor.

4 PHILLIES FANS SEEK TICKETS TO WORLD SERIES

Philadelphia, Pa., May 20 (AP).—Four fans applied to the office of the Phillies today for 1943 world series tickets.

"Don't think we are overconfident," they wrote. "We know the Phils can do it."

USE A COMPASS AS NIGHT GUIDE —OR NORTH STAR

Locate Polaris Thru 3 Constellations.

BY BOB BECKER.

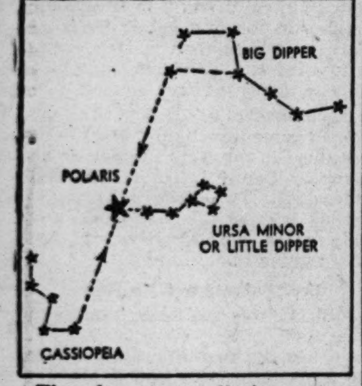
During the course of the recent North African campaign we read a story about a night raid by a small party of English soldiers against an Italian held sector. It told how the night raiders left their cars in the desert, proceeded on foot with their weapons, made their attack, and then found their way back by compass to their scout cars.

Recently a story on the Aleutian campaign gave details of the equipment that pilots carry with them. Included in the emergency outfit is a combination shotgun and rifle for bagging small game for food, a compass, a box of waterproof matches, and a good knife.

North Star Helpful.

It's significant that a compass is mentioned in both of these stories as a valuable item of equipment for men who may have to travel thru wild uninhabited country, living off wild game and fish as they make their way back to their camp or base.

But even without a compass both soldiers and woodsmen have directional guides after dark if they know the stars and the night is clear enough to see them. Above the equator Polaris or the north star is the guide that helps the man without a compass. This famous star has been a friendly guide to both sailors and woodsmen since the earliest days and many explorers owe their lives to it.



The above constellations serve as pointers to find Polaris, the north star, which can be used as a directional guide at night.

Three Act as Pointers.

There are three constellations in the heavens which can be used to find Polaris—the Big Dipper, the Little Dipper, and Cassiopeia. All of these star groups act as pointers which direct the eye to the north star. Thus the outdoorsman, even tho he is just a mere amateur in astronomy, can always find the north star if he gets acquainted with these distinctive "pointer" constellations.

Marines Pass Up Minnesota for Training

Minneapolis, Minn., May 20 (AP).—Hopes that the University of Minnesota would have a top flight collegiate football team next fall were dealt a blow today with disclosure that the United States marine corps will not use the Gopher institution as a training base.

Inasmuch as a majority of the better football aspirants who turned out for spring practice are members of the marine corps reserve, this means that they will probably be transferred to other schools for training. In all, 19 players will be affected.

In the group which probably will be transferred are eight men who have been regarded as regulars. It includes Capt. Cliff Anderson, Herb Hein, Bob Solheim, John Perko, Chuck Dellago, Herman Frickey, Wayne Williams, and Vic Kulbitski.

Other letter men affected are Red Johnson, Dick Kelley, Ossie Troolem, Jerry Carle, Bob Graiziger, and John Bicanich. Five freshmen involved are Paul Prolo, Harvey Solon, Sam Unschul, Jack Rivall, and Ed Bush.

MEISTER BRAU BOWLING TEAM IS REORGANIZED

Reorganization of the Meister Brau bowling team of the Classic league was announced last night by Bill Hargadon, who will captain the new quintet. The team is expected to be one of the strongest in Chicago. Frank [Bud] Wright, long a mainstay of the Mineralites, will lead off. Hargadon is listed second, Harry Lipe, third; Joe Sinke, fourth, and Paul Krumske at anchor.

ZIVIC-JAMES FIGHT TO OPEN OUTDOOR CARD

Promoters Pick June 7 for Show.

Three bouts of 10 rounds each have been arranged for the first major boxing show of the outdoor season in the Marigold arena June 7. These matches, announced yesterday by Matchmaker Jack Hurley, will bring together Freddy Fiducia, Newark, N. J., heavyweight, and Nate Bolden; Fritzie Zivic, former world welterweight champion, and Tommy James, and Gus Dorazio, Philadelphia heavyweight, and Lem Franklin.

The next card in Marigold will be held Monday, featuring a six round rematch between Freddy Pope, former Chicago boxer now making his home in Columbus, O., and Elbert Adanis Adams, former city Golden Gloves featherweight champion, was awarded a split decision over Pope recently after an exciting battle.

Steve Mamakos, Washington, D. C., middleweight, paused in the loop yesterday en route to his home from Milwaukee where he defeated Tito Taylor in a hard fight on Wednesday. Steve expects to make a second appearance in Milwaukee within three weeks against a suitable opponent.

Harrison Shaw, Union park middleweight, will try for his third straight knockout when he faces Arthur Bevil of the Savoy Athletic club in a five round amateur bout tonight in Madison Athletic club, 4711 Madison street. Sam Washington, Catholic Youth organization 160 pounder, is paired against Stanley Sheeley, also of the Savoy club, in a five round secondary feature. Tim Dalton, Chicago intercity Golden Gloves lightweight winner, will appear on the card against an opponent to be chosen.

Jack Zeravich and Andy Rockne will meet Ivan Kalmikoff and Ned Taylor in an Australian tag team match being featured on the wrestling program tonight in Cicero stadium, 19th street and 52d avenue. Charles [Gorilla] Grubmyer is matched with Joe Szabo on the card, proceeds of which will go to the Cicero-Berwyn Elks lodge, No. 1510, to be used for war charities.

Harold Dade, former Chicagoland Golden Gloves champion, is in town visiting his parents and draft board prior to returning to California to resume a professional campaign there which has netted him 18 victories in 19 starts. Dade, who is classified 1-A, may be inducted in June or July.

Marine Pvt. 1st Class Leo Rodak, only boxer to win three Golden Gloves titles, who is in the city to visit his wife and two children, will return to duty at his base in San Siego next week.

POSTPONE THREE PREP DISTRICT BASEBALL MEETS

Three district tournaments in Illinois state high school baseball play were postponed because of weather yesterday. One, at Oak Park, will be held tomorrow morning and afternoon, while the other two, at Blue Island and Waukegan, will be held Monday.

The Oak Park program lists a double header in the morning and single game in the afternoon, weather permitting. At Blue Island on Monday Peotone will play Blue Island in the first game of a double header and Bloom Township will meet Wilmington in the second half. A single game, New Trier vs. Waukegan at 4 o'clock is the only contest scheduled in the Waukegan district meet.

TRACK OPERATOR DIES.

EIGHTH PLACE RED SOX UPSET INDIANS TWICE

Take 10 Inning Opener, 2-1; Win Second, 7-4.

Cleveland, O., May 20 (AP).—Boston took a double header from the Indians today, winning a 10 inning opener 2 to 1 and topping it with a 7 to 4 triumph that saw 10 pitchers in action.

The Indians used six hurlers in the second game as the Red Sox punched out 11 hits, four of them two baggers. Boston called on three relief pitchers after Kendall Chase faltered in the seventh.

After their 10th inning victory in the first game, the Sox romped into the second with a three run spree in the first inning, and scored again in the third, eighth, and ninth.

DODGERS SELL NEWT KIMBALL, ALEX KAMPOURIS

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 20 (AP).—The Brooklyn Dodgers tonight sold Second Baseman Alex Kampouris to the Washington Senators and Pitcher Newell Kimball to the Philadelphia Phillies. Both transactions were for undisclosed sums.

President Branch Rickey also optioned Infielder Pat Ankenman to Montreal and released Catcher Ray Hayworth outright and thus cut the Brooklyn roster to 24.

Gills, Monarchs Resume Bowling Battle Tonight

The Monarch Beers, champions during the second half of the Classic Bowling league season, and Joseph L. Gills, first half champions, will complete their best four out of seven game match tonight, shooting on the Marigold Arcade lanes at 828 Grace street. The Monarchs won two of the first three games, rolled Wednesday night, taking the odd contest 1,018 pins to 1,012.

Girls' Softball Tourney to Be Resumed Tonight

Another attempt will be made tonight to resume play in the fifth annual spring tournament of the Metropolitan Chicago Girls Major Softball league in Shewbridge field, 74th and Aberdeen streets. Rock-Ola Music Maids, winners the last two years, will meet the Parichy Bloomer Girls in the opener at 7:45, and the Rheingolds take on the Gold Crowns at 9.

Wet Weather Wrecks Plans of A. L. Clubs

The tight-fitting American league baseball schedule virtually became a noose on four western clubs' series with eastern rivals today as the result of a record set of postponements.

President Will Harridge said yesterday conditions were so serious in at least two cases that open dates would have to be utilized or the games would have to be played off when the western clubs make their eastern trips.

Postponement of all contests on Monday, Tuesday, and Wednesday constituted a record, Harridge said. Now the series matching Philadelphia in Chicago, Washington in St. Louis, New York in Detroit, and Boston in Cleveland are so crowded that in one case the teams have more than twice as many games left as they have scheduled playing dates.

White Sox in Trouble, Too.

Four of Washington's contests in St. Louis have been postponed—the Senators play there five more days this year, but double headers already are slated for two of those five days, leaving three dates on which to play seven contests.

That situation is nearly duplicated in the Philadelphia in Chicago series, with four postponed games piled up and only four single dates open. One more postponement of Boston in Cleveland will cause a similar jam there.

Detroit already has rescheduled postponed games with New York on open dates, but if those days weren't available the Tigers would have faced the necessity of playing double headers with the Yankees every day they meet in Detroit for the rest of the season.

No Games, No Crowds.

Harridge said the combination of postponements, delayed opening of the season, and scheduling of three instead of four cross-country swings had ganged up on baseball.

"That's the answer to part of our attendance problem," he declared. "People can't go to games if the games aren't played."

Illinois Tech Defeats Wheaton Rifle Team

Illinois Institute of Technology rifle team defeated Wheaton college last night, 906 to 887, in a match fired on the Wheaton range. The victory left Illinois Tech and Wheaton tied for the season. Opening match of the year was tied and Wheaton won the second 880 to 879. Last night's scores:

Illinois Tech—Hugh Christian, 196; Joseph Hind, 182; Hugh Newman, 178; Leonard Brown, 177, and Bill Wittie. Wheaton—Robert Taylor, 187; Mildred Klassen, 180; Lillian Christiansen, 176; Jean Killian, 172, and Robert Steward, 172.

American Giants to Open Home Season May 30, 31

The Chicago American Giants will open their Negro American league home season in Comiskey park with double headers May 30 and 31 against Leroy [Satchel] Paige and his Kansas City Monarchs. This Sunday the American Giants will appear in Crosley field, Cincinnati, for a league double header with the Cincinnati Clowns.

EVANSTON PAIR SCORES UPSET IN STATE NET MEET

Jim Griffin and Jack Arries, Evanston Township High school's doubles combination, upset Warren Clausen and Ted Weddell of Senn, 6-2, 6-0, yesterday in the semi-final round of the Illinois State High school tennis tournament. The tourney, originally planned for Champaign, subsequently was shifted to River Forest but rain forced the teams to agree to play indoors on the Senn gymnasium floor.

The other doubles match and the semi-finals in singles competition as well as the final round will be played tomorrow on Evanston High's court preceding the Suburban league tennis meet.

MONTGOMERY, JACK FIGHT 15 ROUNDS TONIGHT

New York, May 20 (AP).—Philadelphia Bob Montgomery will get a shot at the New York version of world lightweight championship tomorrow night against Beau Jack, the one-time shoe shine boy from Georgia. This 15 round fight marks the return of boxing to Madison Square Garden after six weeks.

Big Six Meets Today; Consider Summer Drill

Kansas City, Mo., May 20 (AP).—Big Six athletic directors are expected to ask for authorization of summer football practices at their meeting with faculty representatives in the annual spring meeting tomorrow.

Lake Forest, Culver Tennis Teams to Meet

The Culver Military academy tennis team tomorrow will accompany the track team to Lake Forest, where the tennis team will meet Lake Forest academy and the track team will participate in the Midwest Prep conference track team. The baseball team will play host to Park school of Indianapolis, Ind., at Culver.

MELTON AGAIN MASTERS CARDS AS DODGERS WIN

Brooklyn Evens Series Against Cooper, 5-2.

Brooklyn, N. Y., May 20 (AP).—After seeing only southpaw pitching for three days, the Brooklyn Dodgers finally met up with a right hander today and the sight of Mort Cooper was so welcome that they whipped the St. Louis Cardinals, 5 to 2, to gain a split in the four game series.

Cooper, the leading pitcher in the National league last year and winner of three games against one defeat before today, was ineffective altho he fanned seven men. He gave up seven walks and eight hits and lost the decision in the first inning when the Dodgers scored three unearned runs.

Melton Near Shutout.

In contrast, Frank [Rube] Melton went to the mound on two days rest after curbing the Cardinals, 1 to 0, in a twilight game Monday and had no trouble except in the fourth when St. Louis scored its runs.

Melton, the lean right hander whom the Dodgers obtained from the Phillies during the winter, kept seven hits scattered and might have had a shutout except for a spell of wildness in the fourth when he permitted two singles and three walks, forcing in one run.

Card Fielders Collide.

The Dodgers loaded the bases in the first of two walks and an error by Lou Klein and tallied once on a fly by Paul Waner and twice on a double by Billy Herman. They loaded the bases again in the fifth on two singles and a walk and this time Cooper committed a balk to let in a run. Then Dolph Camilli opened the seventh with a triple against the right field scoreboard and came home when Debs Garms and Buster Adams, St. Louis outfielders, collided under Herman's fly, which was scored as a double. Law Kills Curfew on Boston Sunday Games

Boston, Mass., May 20 (AP).—Gov. Saltonstall today signed into law a bill which lifts the Sunday baseball curfew for the duration of the war. Under the new law, effective immediately, second games of double headers which begin no later than 4:30 p. m. may be completed after the former 6:30 curfew hour.

DISCLOSE VAST LOSS IN CLOSED TANK PROJECT

Total Cost 50 to 60 Million Dollars.

BY LELAND FORRESTER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Gen. Hammond.

Davenport, Ia., May 20.—The government stands to lose between 30 and 40 million dollars on the recently abandoned M-7 tank which was to have been made in quantity at the new Quad-cities tank arsenal in suburban Bettendorf, H. C. Abbott, production manager for the company operating the plant, estimated today. He said 50 or 60 millions were spent getting the arsenal ready to make the new type tank, but that part of the facilities can be used for other purposes.

Too Nearly Like Others.

The project was canceled last arch when the plant was ready to gin production on a sizable scale, cording to Abbott. Army officials y that the government designed -7 was discarded because enemy eapons developed after the tank ent on the drawing board about vo years ago outmoded the original M-7 design, and that by the time the tank had been revamped to meet changing conditions it was too nearly like other new ones already in mass production to warrant retaining the M-7.

Also changing demands of war made a reduction in total tank output desirable so that the metal could be used for more urgent purposes, the army said.

Abbott said he offered his figures on the loss and expenditure as rough estimates, because exact figures are not yet available. In Washington, Maj. Gen. L. H. Campbell Jr., chief of ordnance, said Abbott's estimate of the loss appeared too high. In Chicago, officials of the district ordnance office in charge of the arsenal said they could not pass any opinion now.

Figures to Be Available.

"We have auditors working on it," Brig. Gen. Thomas S. Hammond, district chief, said. "We do not have the figures yet, and an estimate at this time might be far out of line. When the exact figures are ready, they will be available to the public."

Abbott and army officials alike praised International Harvester company, operator of the plant for the government, for what they said was a superb job of producing the tank according to specifications.

Abbott, in estimating the government's loss and in criticizing some phases of the army's decision to abandon the M-7, said he did not speak for the company, but only for himself, and assumed personal responsibility for his statements. He

Profit Cashing Erases Gain in Stock Market

New York, May 20 (AP).—Stocks encountered profit taking toward the close today which cut initial gains of a point or more and left many steels, rails, motors, and "blue chip" issues with declines. The market ended irregular.

The principal reason given for a lightening of commitments was the spread of walkouts in soft coal mining areas despite extension of the union labor truce. Sporadic strikes in other fields also tended to restrain buyers.

On the other side were bullishness over war developments, reflected mainly by peace rated issues; favorable earnings statements, and the apparent revival of investment demand for high grade securities.

Rail Average Declines.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks was off 0.1 at 50.8. The rail composite declined 0.3, but the averages for industrials and utilities were unchanged. The market broadened to a trade in 927 individual issues.

Encouragement was derived from the fact that main activity was in the first hour when prices were rising, and that dealings slackened appreciably on the reaction. Transfers totaled 1,298,770 shares, against 1,493,300 yesterday.

Among favorites touching peaks for the year or longer and ending with modest improvement were Loew's, Warner Brothers, Omnibus, Air Reduction, Sears-Roebuck, and Westinghouse Electric.

RAIL BONDS GAIN.

New York, May 20 (AP).—Rail loans advanced while other corporate divisions of the bond market today were generally steady. A few carriers advanced sharply. New Haven 4½s of '67 and the 6s of '48 climbed 2 points or so, and the 6s of '40 gained a point. The Associated Press rail average rose 0.3, but several carrier loans had moderate losses at the close.

Foreign bonds were traded lightly and prices were mixed. United States government loans were steady.

CHICAGO PRICES RISE.

Prices advanced on the Chicago Stock exchange yesterday on turnover of 47,000 shares. Volume leaders included Merchants & Manufacturers Securities, RCA, and Central and South West Utilities, down ⅛; Midland United, unchanged, and Chicago corporation, up ⅛. In the final half hour Hupp Motor Car advanced ⅛ and Paramount Pictures declined ⅛ from the New York close.

BROOKS INTRODUCES BILL TO RETURN WAR DAMAGE SURPLUSES

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—Sen. Wayland Brooks [R., Ill.] today introduced a bill to provide for the return to policyholders after the war of surplus funds of the War Damage corporation, which was established by congress to provide protection against loss of or damage to property which may result from enemy attack.

Brooks said his measure would encourage policy renewals and a wide expansion of coverage because property owners who previously have not bought this insurance will do so. He said it also would prevent dissatisfaction of persons who have paid in the present surplus funds of the corporation and would see their insurance lapse and lose their premiums.

The corporation would be liquidated as an insurance company when its responsibilities respecting the war have been fulfilled, he said, and in no other way can the policyholders be given a fair deal.

FLOOD REPORTS AID IN PUSHING GRAINS HIGHER

Prices of most grain futures advanced yesterday on the Chicago Board of Trade. The rise was attributed mainly to flood news, rumors that ceilings on flour may be raised, and purchase of cash wheat in Chicago by the Commodity Credit corporation. Traders were cautious despite the optimistic news.

May wheat advanced 1¼ cents and closed near the top, with other futures up ½ to ⅝ cent. May oats closed ⅜ cent lower on reports more Canadian grain had been purchased for shipment to Chicago, and other futures were ½ to ⅝ cent higher. Rye gained ¼ to ⅝ cent.

The rains and floods were reflected in a decline in the movement of cash corn to the smallest in years, brokers said.

HOG PRICES DIP ALTHO RECEIPTS TAKE BIG DROP

A 23 per cent decrease in hog receipts at the stockyards yesterday resulted in a strong to slightly higher opening, which was turned, however, into weak to 10 cents a hundred pounds lower prices, the lowest of the week, near the close. The average declined 5 cents to $14.45.

Other classes of meat animals showed more price changes than in some time. Cattle receipts were the second smallest for a Thursday since June last year. Demand was brisk and prices were strong to 25 cents higher for most steers and yearlings.

Urge Illinois to Raise Oil Truck Limits

BY JOHNSON KANADY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Springfield, Ill., May 20.—Legislation to permit petroleum trucks to carry capacity loads over Illinois hard roads is expected to be introduced in the legislature within a week or two in an effort to alleviate fuel oil shortages next winter.

James A. Hannah, Chicago, president of James A. Hannah, Inc., oil trucking firm, told a special senate committee investigating Illinois trucking laws today that his concern and three other large Chicago trucking companies for which he spoke are unable to use some of their equipment to full capacity because of limits imposed by state law.

Asked to Submit Program.

Sen. Roland V. Libonati [D., Chicago], a committee member, urged that the 50 representatives of trucking interests who appeared today submit a legislative program to remedy such difficulties.

Hannah said trucks are limited to 16,000 pounds axle weight and 40 feet over-all length. He said many trips were made with partial loads because of the weight limit.

Paul J. Bond of the petroleum administration for war and Frank Baird Smith of the office of defense transportation also appeared, urging an increase in the limits on oil trucks. They said Illinois law provides a curb on thru transportation of oil to other states.

Two Finance Bills Pass.

The house today passed, 79 to 3 and 82 to 3, two bills which would amend the finance act as part of Gov. Dwight H. Green's fiscal program. The measures passed over the objections of Rep. William Vicars [D., Pontiac], minority leader, who charged that the legislation was being "rushed."

Vicars' line of attack was similar to that followed by Sen. Richard Daley [D., Chicago], senate minority leader, in challenging the constitutionality of the governor's program.

PACKERS ASSERT SUBSIDIES WON'T LIFT 'SQUEEZE'

Washington, D. C., May 20 (AP).—The National Independent Meat Packers' association protested today that the administration program to grant subsidies to meat processors to cut consumer costs "will not in the slightest degree alleviate the price squeeze."

Wilbur Laroe Jr., the organization's general counsel, told the house committee on small business that the subsidy "is to be limited to the additional 10 per cent reduction" contemplated under the plan to roll back meat prices 10 per cent. He said "the plain truth is that our members are closing up because the black market is still flourishing."

The assertion that independents have been unable to obtain meat was reiterated by Frank Buckley, counsel and executive secretary of the nonslaughtering meat processors and wholesalers. Both protested against any move to shift the center of government regulation from Washington to Chicago, which they described as the home of the big packers.

North Western Asks I.C.C. to Reopen Payment Plan

Attorneys for the Chicago and North Western railway petitioned the interstate commerce commission yesterday to reopen the line's reorganization plan to permit payment of the $48,322,687 Reconstruction Finance corporation debt in cash rather than in securities as provided in the plan. Previous petitions were denied by the United States Supreme court.

DIVIDENDS DECLARED

Directors of Swift & Co. yesterday declared a quarterly dividend of 30 cents a share on the common stock. International Harvester company ordered a quarterly payment of 50 cents a common share. Other declarations were:

PAY-AS-GO TAX CONFERENCE IS 'PROGRESSING'

Report Trend for 75% Abatement.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—House and senate conferees on the pay-as-you-go income tax legislation today concluded their first day's sessions without an agreement, but Sen. Walter F. George [D., Ga.], chairman of the senate finance committee, reported slight progress.

"Everything is perfectly harmonious and we're getting along as well as can be expected," said Rep. Robert L. Doughton [D., N. C.], chairman of the house ways and means committee.

It developed that the only matter agreed upon so far is that one meeting daily will be held on the senate side of the capitol and one on the house side. The question of protocol between senators and congressmen always is a delicate one, and the proprietorship of the meeting chamber is never to be taken lightly.

Predicts Speedy Agreement.

George earlier expressed confidence that the group would reach an acceptable compromise in time to start 20 per cent withholding tax collections July 1. This is a feature of measures passed by both houses.

The house bill would allow forgiveness of 75 per cent of the nation's 1942 tax bill to achieve current income tax collections, while the senate measure calls for 100 per cent forgiveness, as provided in the Ruml skip a year plan.

Under the house bill every one's taxes for last year would be canceled thru the normal and first surtax brackets, and those in the upper brackets would have three years to pay off unforgiven amounts.

Failure of conferees to reach an immediate agreement surprised no one. A stalemate of several days has been predicted with the only question being how long and whether either side will be willing to yield.

Report George Plan Favored.

Many informed sources have it that there is a growing sentiment in favor of a plan proposed originally by George, rejected by the senate and never considered by the house, which would concel out 75 per cent of 1942 liabilities in a flat horizontal cut. All taxpayers would have their bills reduced by the same percentage and would be allowed two years in which to pay the unforgiven 25 per cent.

It is said that this offers a likely compromise both to the foes of outright forgiveness and to the supporters of the Ruml plan who have insisted that all taxpayers should be treated alike. The argument of the Ruml advocates against the house bill is that it favors the low income groups receiving 100 per cent forgiveness over the high brackets, where forgiveness is scaled down to 10 per cent.

Tell Views on Plans.

The morning session today was given over to monologs by each of the conferees as to why he favors or opposes the various plans. It was reported that the afternoon session saw more of the same and a start on general discussion of the individual proposals. No votes were taken.

Several senators expressed grinning surprise over the house members' stand, explaining that none of the conferees from that chamber appears to support the house bill. They are in favor either of the Ruml plan or would like to resurrect the Doughton plan, favored by the treasury, allowing 50 per cent forgiveness by applying the lower 1941 tax scales to 1942 incomes.

15,000 of Smaller Factories Are in Distress, OWI Reports

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 20.—More than 15,000 plants, representing 25 per cent of the nation's small manufacturers, are in distress because of insufficient war orders in the face of reduced civilian business, the office of war information said today.

The OWI report was based on a nation-wide survey of war contracting among small companies. Made in the first quarter of this year, the survey covered 3,446 manufacturers representing a cross section of 62,000 plants with 125 or fewer employés.

Eleven per cent of the companies surveyed have tried but have been unable to get any war business, indicating a nation-wide total of 6,820 in this plight, OWI reported. An additional 14 per cent, or an indicated 8,680 plants reported that they had insufficient war orders to offset declines in civilian output, and were classed by OWI as in a "relatively unfavorable" condition.

Typical Complaints Listed.

The survey indicated that 58 per cent of the small plants are engaged directly or indirectly in war production, including the 14 per cent which have insufficient business. Three-fourths of the others have not tried to get war business, said OWI.

The surveyors asked for complaints and suggestions from plant officials and got the following "typical complaints":

1. Large companies are getting more than their share.
2. Too much red tape involved in getting war business.
3. Tried to approach federal ganecies but were ignored or rebuffed.
4. Too little time after announcement of war work to prepare bids.
5. Prices on war work too low.
6. Prime contractors distribute subcontracts unfairly and subcontract only the hardest and most unprofitable jobs—the "crumbs."
7. Labor and materials are hard to get.

Suggest Smaller Contracts.

Company officials interviewed also suggested simpler contract specifications, letting of contracts in smaller amounts, and more government initiative in helping small plants get war orders.

The report indicates that the smallest of the small companies have been least successful in obtaining war orders. Only 45 per cent of those with seven or less workers have war contracts, compared with 75 per cent for plants employing 21 to 125 workers.

Only about 13 per cent of the companies surveyed are using their equipment to capacity, OWI reported. More than 80 per cent said they could increase their output without new equipment.

The survey was made at the request of the army, navy, maritime commission, and the war production board.

People and Events

Dr. Conrad Arnold Elvehjem, professor of biochemistry at the University of Wisconsin, last night was awarded the Willard Gibbs medal by the Chicago section of the American Chemical society at a dinner in the Medinah club. The medal is awarded annually in recognition of outstanding work and original contributions to pure and applied chemistry. Dr. Elvehjem, the 32d scientist to receive the award, won the medal for his studies in nutrition.

SEC APPROVES OGDEN PROGRAM FOR DIVESTMENT

Philadelphia, Pa., May 20 [Special].—The voluntary plan filed by Ogden corporation, successor in reorganization to Utilities Power and Light corporation, providing for divestment of all interest in subsidiaries that are holding companies or public utility companies, was given qualified approval today by the securities and exchange commission.

Ogden corporation is a holding company with gross assets of more than 151 million dollars. According to the plan it will proceed with the divestment, except that in the cases of the Laclede Gas Light company, Interstate Power company, Missouri Natural Gas company, Central States Power and Light corporation, and Missouri Electric Power company. The divestment will not be completed by the sale of securities prior to the recapitalization of these companies to bring them into compliance with regulations of the public utility holding company act.

ORDER INQUIRY ON COMMUTER FARE INCREASES

Washington, D. C., May 20 [Special].—An investigation of commutation fares in the four principal commuting areas of the country to decide whether the railroads should be allowed to increase them was ordered today by the interstate commerce commission.

The four sections are the Chicago district, New York state, the New England states, and the Philadelphia-Camden, N. J., district.

On April 6 the commission declared that the authority given for an increase in commutation fares should be revoked and that the question whether they should be increased should be further investigated. Separate hearings probably will be held for each section.

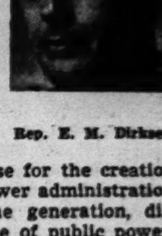
Chicago Screw Company Receives 'E' Flag Today

The Chicago Screw company this afternoon will receive the army-navy "E" award in a ceremony at the plant. Col. George E. Strong, Detroit army air forces industrial relations officer, will present the pennant to W. D. Corlett, vice president.

DIRKSEN SEEKS TO STREAMLINE POWER SETUP

Offers Bill to Unify Federal Agencies.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]



Rep. E. M. Dirksen.

Washington, D. C., May 20.—Charging the government's costly electric power projects are overlapping and are not coördinated, Rep. Everett M. Dirksen [R., Ill.] called on congress today to recognize that public power is here to stay and to end the confusion it has brought.

He introduced a bill in the house for the creation of an office of power administration to consolidate the generation, distribution, and sale of public power.

"Annual appropriations for the various power agencies exceed 300 million dollars and our federal investments in this field will run into billions," he asserted.

700 Million Invested in TVA.

He gave as an example of the investments the Tennessee valley authority, which has been characterized in congress as the government's experiment in the socialization of industry along the lines of soviet Russia. The TVA development alone represents an investment of 700 million dollars, of which 200 million is for power, Dirksen said.

He described the power projects as unrelated enterprises now in the hands of four separate government departments and a half dozen different government agencies. He divided the power activities into four groups and listed the administering agents:

1. POWER PLANNING—National resources planning board, war production board, army-navy munitions board, and the national power policy committee.

Includes Big Dams.

2. POWER GENERATION—Bureau of reclamation, which controls Boulder dam, Grand Coulee dam, and Fort Peck; Bonneville power administration, TVA, bureau of Indian affairs, army engineers hydroelectric power construction division, plants built by the federal works agency, and the plants built, financed and owned by the Defense Plants corporation.

3. LENDING—Rural electrification administration and the Reconstruction Finance corporation.

4. REGULATION—War production board, federal power commission, and the securities and exchange commission.

Rep. Dirksen, who served on the committee that reorganized the government's executive departments, said his bill would provide for the creation of a federal power advisory committee as well as an office of power administration. The office of power administration chief would be chairman of the advisory committee, which would develop a public power policy for national defense and for peace.

ESTIMATES VAST LOSS IN HALTING OF TANK PROJECT

Government Cost Total Is 50 to 60 Millions.

charged that the tank was not given unbiased consideration in tests. He said that he still thinks it is the best American tank, that it outperforms all others, and that it was the only one which jumped the tank trap and climbed the test hill at full speed in tests at Fort Knox, Kentucky.

His statements as to the tank's performance and as to bias were challanged forcefully by army authorities.

Gen. Campbell said that other army tanks would do all the things Abbott claimed for the M-7 and that most of them would do more.

Asserts Tanks Are Outmoded.

"The trend in war is always toward heavier and harder hitting guns, which in turn require heavier and tougher armor plate on tanks," Gen. Campbell said. "It was found that this tank, at the time the plant was set up, was fine, but war moves fast. Before it could be gotten into mass production the Germans had perfected heavier guns and heavier shells that outmoded this tank."

Changes were made to adapt the M-7 to new needs, but the result was a tank too nearly like the M-4 to warrant producing the revised type, army men indicated.

"When we got thru with the M-7 we had a fine tank, but it was not enough different from other fine tanks already in mass production to justify keeping it," Gen. Hammond said.

Announced Early in 1942.

The Bettendorf arsenal project was announced in January, 1942, and abandonment of the M-7 tank was announced in mid-March, 1943, after more than a year of preparation. The Quad-cities—Davenport, Rock Island, Moline, and East Moline—were puzzled by the action, which crushed their hopes of rivaling Detroit and Chicago as a tank building center. They had looked forward to a vast new pay roll, based on expectations that the tank arsenal would employ 4,000 persons and its subcontractors another 4,000.

Civic minded residents who experienced a letdown when the program was canceled have expressed a curiosity as to the cost of a number of tank hulls—about 250—which are rusting in the open at the Bettendorf end of the Iowa-Illinois bridge. Abbott said the hulls cost between $8,000 and $9,000 each, or a total of about 2¼ million dollars. The army plans to have most of these melted for scrap, he said.

Small Part of Total.

The 250 hulls that have attracted public attention represent only a small part of the total loss, with most of the irrevocable expenditure for facilities that cannot be used for anything else, Abbott said. These include part of the costly tools, dies, and jigs which are good only for scrap, and tank parts that had been completed.

Abbott said the arsenal actually delivered only seven complete tanks but was ready to produce several a day when the contract was canceled. He estimated that the canceled contract was 200 million dollars.

Employment at the Quad cities arsenal had been built up to 1,800 persons when the cancelation was ordered, according to company officials' statements published in the area when the abandonment was announced. About 1,000 were laid off, and 800 were retained for work on another product, a prime mover, which is a high speed personnel carrier and gun moving vehicle. Production of the prime mover is expected to be expanded into a program that will be about half the size of the original tank program. A few old tanks also are being remodeled at the new arsenal.

Find Jobs Elsewhere.

Abbott and others said the layoffs caused no permanent unemployment, and that nearly all of those affected found jobs in other plants.

But the Quad-cities area nevertheless was disappointed when the prospect of jobs for 8,000 in the plant and subcontracting factories suddenly vanished two months ago, and some leaders say privately that they regard it as unfortunate that so much money was put into the ill-fated project.

On this point Abbott said: "If the tank was not right, why didn't somebody find it out before 50 or 60 million dollars was spent on it? It is time to stop keeping still and letting things like this happen."

After being informed of Abbott's statements, International Harvester issued a statement from its Chicago offices saying that Abbott spoke without the company's knowledge or approval, and that some of his statements "are known to the company to be either dubious or not correct."

"The company was officially informed by the army of its reasons for termination of the M-7 tank contract, in which the army based its action on the greater need for other types of military equipment. The company accepted fully and in good faith the statements made by the army as to the reasons for its action at the time the contract was terminated," it said. "That is still its position, and will continue to be its position in the future."

CLARK EQUIPMENT.

I noticed that Clark Equipment company earned $2.22 a share on the common stock for the first quarter of 1943 and $1.54 a share for the first quarter of 1942. What does this company produce? Are its earnings subject to reduction because of contract renegotiation?—B. Y.

Answer: Clark Equipment company manufactures rear axle housings, transmissions, axles and heavy duty wheels, and its customers include most of the large truck and tractor producers. Military vehicle production has expanded current business. Other products are twist drills, high speed tools, a rivet and rivet gun for railroad, automotive and similar uses, and a "tructractor" used for hauling purposes at railroad terminals, warehouses, industrial plants, docks and airports.

Plants are owned in four Michigan cities, and the company has spent $2,500,000 for expansion to handle the demand for truck housings and transmissions for army trucks.

Prior to the war the company's sales and earnings showed wide variations. Net sales and net income for the last six years were reported as follows:

	Net sales	Net income.	Per sh. com.
1942	$52,474,000	$1,069,883	$4.12
1941	35,803,609	2,181,507	8.67
1940	18,016,257	1,536,933	5.91
1939	12,464,589	1,182,067	4.43
1938	7,717,884	280,354	.64
1937	12,718,256	1,166,515	4.56

The 1942 net income is after a million dollar reserve for post-war adjustments, and after full provision for the adjustment reached in renegotiation of war contract prices. The year-end balance sheet showed $5,073,393 due the government under contract renegotiation. Net income of $549,791 reported for the quarter ended March 31, 1943, was after deducting a $1,589,000 reserve for renegotiation.

Capitalization of the company consists of 17,926 shares of $100 par value 5 per cent preferred stock and 237,616 shares of no par common. The latter is listed on the New York Stock exchange. Dividends have been paid on the common each year since 1927 except in 1932. Payments for the last five years were: 1942, $3; 1941, $3.25; 1940, $3.25; 1939, $2.25; 1938, 25 cents.

The company last January arranged for a regulation V bank loan of 5 million dollars to run until Dec. 31, 1945.

PERE MARQUETTE RAILWAY COMPANY
Invitation For Tenders.
Serial Contract No. 1.

TO THE HOLDERS OF Pere Marquette Railway Company First Mortgage 5% Bonds, Series A, due July 1, 1956.

Pere Marquette Railway Company First Mortgage 4% Bonds, Series B, due July 1, 1956.

Pursuant to the action of its Board of Directors on May 18, 1943, and to the regulations, when applicable, prescribed by the Interstate Commerce Commission in its Order of October 6, 1919, as amended October 4, 1920, in its Docket Ex Parte No. 54, Pere Marquette Railway Company [hereinafter called the "Company"] hereby invites tenders of its First Mortgage Bonds of the series mentioned above. All persons desiring to tender any such bonds should fill out and mail to the undersigned at his office at 3400 Terminal Tower, Cleveland, Ohio, a tender or tenders in the form which will be supplied by the Company upon request, limiting each tender to a single series and to one price per $100 principal amount.

Each tender must be enclosed in a plain envelope securely sealed, bearing no indication of the name of the offerer or the amount of the offer and shall be marked "Tender under proposed Contract No. 1 for Pere Marquette Railway Company First Mortgage Bonds," and shall be addressed to the undersigned at his office at 3400 Terminal Tower, Cleveland, Ohio. All tenders must be received on or before twelve o'clock noon, Eastern War Time, June 7, 1943. Tenders so received will be opened by the undersigned, or in his absence, by A. M. Waldron, Assistant Treasurer of the Company, at said office immediately after twelve o'clock noon, Eastern War Time, June 7, 1943. Notice of acceptance, in whole or in part, or of rejection of tenders will be mailed to the makers of tenders not later than June 9, 1943, at the addresses appearing in their respective tenders.

All bonds to be delivered pursuant to the acceptance, in whole or in part, of a tender, must be delivered in negotiable form and must be so delivered during the period June 11-18, 1943, at the office of J. P. Morgan & Co. Incorporated, 23 Wall Street, in the City of New York, N. Y., where payment of the purchase price will be made, together with interest accruing on the bonds to June 15, 1943. All coupon bonds must be accompanied by all appurtenant coupons maturing July 1, 1943, and thereafter. All registered bonds must be accompanied by duly executed bond powers, with signatures guaranteed.

Requests for tender forms and all other inquiries and correspondence regarding this invitation should be addressed to the undersigned at his office, 3400 Terminal Tower, Cleveland, Ohio.

The Company has appropriated $2,000,000 for the purpose of purchasing bonds pursuant to this invitation for tenders. Accrued interest will be paid from other funds of the Company. The Company reserves the right, however, in its absolute discretion, to accept or reject any or all tenders of any of said bonds or to accept any portion covered by any tender and reject the balance. To the extent purchases are made, they may be of either or both series, but the Company will, as to bonds of each series, accept the tender or tenders specifying the lowest price or prices therefor.

H. F. LOHMEYER,
Secretary and Treasurer,
Pere Marquette Railway Company,
3400 Terminal Tower,
Cleveland, Ohio.

Dated: May 21, 1943.

GIRLS WOMEN

Can You Work 4 Hrs. a Day?

We believe you will be interested to know that we have openings in light inspection work in our war plant for approximately 200 girls and women between the ages of 18 and 45 who have good eyesight and who are not now engaged in full time war work. No experience is needed.

The pay is 50c an hour with an increase after 30 days. A bonus of 10% is paid for night work after 6 P. M.

You may have your choice of the following hours:

AFTERNOON SHIFT:
3:30 p. m. to 7:30 p. m.

EVENING SHIFT:
7:30 p. m. to 11:30 p. m.

Here is your chance to play an important part in helping to win the war, as the item you will aid in producing is urgently needed by the men in our armed forces.

By taking advantage of these convenient hours you can earn extra money and still have time to take care of your household or other duties.

The plant in which these positions are available is located at 54th-av. and 16th-st., Cicero, Ill.

But please apply at our employment office at 5660 W. Taylor-st., Chicago.

WHAT'S IT ALL ABOUT?
WE'RE JUST MAKIN' A SOCIAL CALL ON THE JERRIES.
WHERE IS THIS THAT WE'RE LANDIN'?
I DON'T KNOW BUT IT DON'T LOOK LIKE NORTH OR SOUTH AMERICA TO ME.
WE'VE SURE GOT ENOUGH EQUIPMENT TO SET UP HOUSEKEEPING.
THIS ISN'T ANY WEEKEND PARTY.
WHAT'S OUR PROJECT, SARGE?
AFTER THE SHOCK TROOPS, TANKS AND ARTILLERY ARE LANDED, THE ORDNANCE EQUIPMENT AND AMMUNITION COME OFF. THAT'S WHERE WE COME IN.
